While there are plenty of stay-at-homes who can recall summers that have been a great deal less interesting than this one has been, it is comforting just the same to note that "have returned" is beginning to be substituted in the society chronicle for the "have gone" that has prevailed since the early summer. People are becinning to come back in numbers that promise soon to restore society to its normal activity. And with the return of soclety will come the return of the clique, but of course everyone expects that, for when one's preferred friends are scattered mer; people really get acquainted with thing to fall back upon later in the sea-

While there was by no means a rush of entertainment. practically everything was in the homes which loaned an air of formality that does not usually attend the gatherings of the late summer. In the main, the visiting girls have been the occasion of things, though the wedding of Miss Shaver and Mr. Roy Jones at The Bunkers Wednesday afternoon, was the conspicuous feature of the week.

The opening of the theaters promises to while there will not be the theater parties that were talked a fortnight ago, at least not all of them, society will be well represented at both openings.

The early August visitors at Hot Springs, 8. His name has long been identified at Williams Bay. with the Omaha Street Railway company.

The stormy weather of the last week had a very perceptible effect upon affairs at the Country club, and while there were several amart gatherings there, chiefly cheons, there were as many more that were called off or postponed and things were comparatively quiet, a gloom pervading the place, that not even the grate fire, the card table or the efforts of the musical contingent could dispel. Practically everything was indoors and there were many of Mrs. Hall. the devotees who did not go out at all last week. Another such week and society would be quite ready to open its drawing rooms. Last evening there were few dinners and all of those were small. The list her home Thursday. included Mr. H. S. Lindsey, who has four guests; Mr. Ross Towle, four; Mrs. C. C. Allison, six; Mr. John Daugherty, eight; Mr. W. T. Burns, two; Mr. A. J. Smith, two; Mr. E. M. Fairfield, three, and Mrs. A. J. Love, four.

It is said that two more engagement announcements are shortly to be added to the aiready long and daily growing list, the young women being daughters of a promient family of Worthington Place. In fact the trousseau of one is already completed. and, by the way, if this is a sample of what is being turned out in that line this season, will be handsomely gowned this winter. The annual meeting is considered one of the chief others engaged in educational work to at pared by the committee. tend the Fremont meeting and join the association. The program committee has planned to present a very attractive and instructive program which will be of great value to all interested in the work of library extension. Mr. J. Cotton Dana, librarian of the public library of Newark, N. J., will address the meeting in joint session with the Federation the evening of October 8 on "Library Opportunities." This alone should be an inducement to attend the meeting. An especial effort is being made to increase the membership and funds of the association and the officers believe that if every person in the state engaged in library work would constitute herself a committee to secure more members and thereby increase the fund, that the work would receive great impetus. The fees are needed for the association expenses incurred during the year and all members and those desiring to become members are requested to remit the amount of 50 cents at once to the treasurer, Miss Margaret A. O'Brien, public library, Omnha. Three Omaha women have recently returned from the second meeting of the Woman's auxiliary to the International Typographical union, held in Washington August 12, 13 and 14. Mrs. Frank A. Kennedy of 2325 South Eighteenth street being G. Matthes of Omaha was also present as chaplain, and Mrs. Charles Mathews represented the local auxiliary as delegate. The auxiliary was organized a year ago at Cincinnati, Mrs. Kennedy then being elected president and elected for a second term at the recent meeting. Mrs. Matthes declined to serve a second term as chaplain. The organization now includes twentyone branches and is composed exclusively of the wives, mothers or sisters of printers, their object being to promote the interests of the Typographical union. To this end much substantial work was reguest of Mr. F. J. Hill, has returned to his ported accomplished at the Washington meeting, the convention deciding that the special effort this year should be agitation for union-made and union-labeled goods, and for the increase in the number and that will mean much to the women was the inauguration of a general admission card upon the presentation of which auxiliary members will be admitted to the meetings of other auxiliaries. Among other matters that came up for discussion was the establishment of an annex to the Printers' home at Colorado Springs, where women might S. D.. are chatting of the devotion of one months.

Misses Anna and Alice Fry are spending prominent society girl of Sloux City, the daughter of a well known plate glass dealer. It was decided that the organization is still too young for such an extensive undertaking and the matter was laid over detailing in the control of the mere summer resort sort. It was not the mere summer resort sort ing relatives in Pennsylvania.

At Colorado Springs, where women might of the colorado Springs barmony of the meeting threatened, and then not seriously, in the application for membership in the International of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) federation of wives of the various labor organizations of that city. While the federation includes many printers' wives, it is not composed of them exclusively, and this fact, in the opinion of the executive, barred them from membership. The insistence of the president of the federation to be admitted to the meetings made the trip to the various coast resorts caused some little difference of opinion, some feeling that granting her that privilege would be but courteous, but this she was denied on the ground that none but officers and delegates to the convention could be admitted and no exception was considered advisable in the opinion of the majority. The next meeting will be held | at St. Louis in conjunction with that of the International Typographical union. The following officers were elected to serve during the coming year: President, Mrs. F. A. Unbeknown to the many club women of Teresa Fleming left Omaha last week for the city, who would have delighted in meeting her, Mrs. Mary Lockwood of Washington, D. C., chairman of the reorganization committee of the General Federation, and one of the best known workers Mr. and Mrs. William Bates Fonds of in the interest of women at the national capital, was a guest in the vicinity of Omaha for several weeks recently, having visited Mrs. Guy Barton, her niece, at Walnut Lodge, near Gilmore, and only returned to her home last week. Following the Milwaukee biennial, Mrs. Lockwood served as chairman of the committee ap pointed to secure a new charter for the General Federation, and was among the most conspicuous women on the platform of the Los Angeles meeting. Though well past the meridian of life, Mrs. Lockwood retains a remarkable activity and interest in all affairs of women, and because of her ability and experience is constantly in demand by women's organizations all over the country, to bring their interests before congress. When it was learned late last week that she was here, scattered as the club women are there was a desire to entertain her, but it was then too late, as she left the city before they could communicate with her.

Owing to the scattering of the women the roster of the standing committee of the Iowa Federation of Women's Clubs has not yet been lesued. It is expected, however, that it will be completed within the coming week, when it will be announced

BOYD THEATER NEARLY READY

Painters Nearly Through with Work some House.

Manager Burgess is just now waiting with eager anticipation for the coming of the opening night of his season, which is to begin next Thursday with "The Prince of Pilsen." The painters and other workmen who have been engaged for the last two weeks at the theater are nearly through, and the interior of the house is as fresh and bright as though it was entirely new. The chief change has been made in the lobby, where, as explained in The Bee on Sunday, the color plan has een reversed, the woodwork being made fark and the walls and ceilings light,

The plan for reserving seats adopted two ear ago will again prevail at the Boyd, and its benefit is already being enjoyed by the regular patrons of the house, many o shom are taking advantage of the list of ookings announced by Mr. Burgess on his return from New York to make reservations for the season. The fact that the big attractions will be in Omaha longer than one-night stands is a great advantage in this regard, and will be found to work well for all during the season. "The Prince of Pilsen" company, which opens the season here, is singing in Chicago this week, and is attracting much attention
