ABSORBING NOVELS READ ONE READ ALL

THE MAIN CHANCE If you should see a copy of The Main Chance, by Meredith Nicholson, buy, borrow, beg or steal it. For The Main Chance has all the elements of twentieth century greatness. —Chicago Inter-Ocean.
THE GREY CLOAK Harold MacGreech, author of The Puppet Crown, wrote in The Grey Cloak a book which the reader could not lay down till he finished. In a hurry like this is an address against industry. —Chicago Tribune.
THE FILIGREE BALL If you have anything particular to do at a certain hour, such as catching a train, and still have a little time on your hands, don't read The Filigree Ball, by Anna Katherine Green, author of The Lighthouse Case. If you do, you will miss that train. —New York Times.
UNDER THE ROSE The charm of Under the Rose, by Frederic S. Isham, lies in its lively wit, its delicate foreshadowing, its fine feeling and perfect taste. You forget it is not really an address against industry. —Hesper's Weekly.

CANDIDATES SPEAK PIECES

Men Who Seek Nominations Address Voters Concerning the Issues.

FIRST AND SIXTH WARDS STIRRED UP

Republican Clubs Hold Meetings at Which Candidates, Present and Prospective, Set Forth Their Cases.

A big crowd attended the Sixth Ward Republican club's meeting in Linwood hall last night and heard several speeches of greater pitch and point than in the clubs at ward conventions. Contrary to the traditional custom, proceedings were begun with a song by the club's own quartet. The ballad was altogether a unit for the republican judicial ticket and not at all complimentary to certain gentlemen designated by their names on the democratic ticket. So well were the words and music liked that they caused repeated encores.

Year for the Young Men. "The young men of Omaha must bear the brunt of seeing the party reunited here at home," said Mr. McDonald. "It is a splendid opportunity for the young men of the party to push forward and displace the dissatisfaction that now exists. And if good men are nominated you may depend upon it that the young men are going to work for them and vote for them."

Robert Smith, candidate for clerk of the district court, combined thoughts of heavy and light texture. After explaining the good reasons why republicans are such, and pointing out the fact that wherever the republicans are in the ascendancy better education prevails, he became jocose in his professed failure to see why the other men out for clerk of the district court should so aspire when they are much better fitted for other things. He urged republicans to vote for the judicial ticket nominated by the party, saying it should be elected for the good reason that no fault can be found with it and that it is the peer of any ticket in the field.

Sam C. Walkup asked the voters to support him in his candidacy for the county clerkship nomination. Charles S. Elgutter, candidate for county judge, followed with the principal speech of the evening.

About the County Judgeship. "As you know," he said, "I am a candidate for the important position of county judge. If I am nominated and elected to that office there are certain reforms that I can promise you. Certain abuses have grown up in this court in the past and are still there.

"Monies in the hands of the county judge are trust funds sacred as those in the hands of any trustee. It is against public policy, against law and against business principles that a county judge should speculate with these funds. But, unfortunately, there have been cases in the past where the money of widows and orphans has been used for this purpose. The books of the county judge are generally kept pretty well guarded, but cases such as these have occurred unknown to the general public.

"There is no reason why a county judge should deposit trust funds in a bank, permit them to draw interest and put the interest money into his own pocket. It is a bad precedent aside from the moral question involved. The interest does not belong to the trustee, but becomes a part of the funds entrusted to the court's care. Such an abuse as this should not be permitted to elect to the position of county judge.

Marriage Certificate Grant. "There is another abuse that has prevailed and does prevail in this office. When you wish to marry in Douglas county you must first go to the office of the county judge and procure a marriage license. There has grown up a practice when a young fellow comes up to get his license, of trying to force upon him an illuminated piece of parchment, called a marriage certificate, which may be hung on the wall to ornament his new home.

"These certificates cost the groom from $2 to $5, according to the grade of paper, and coloring and are worth about 75 cents. They are pressed on him as he stands with his blushing bride on his arm and he cannot very well refuse, under the circumstances, to buy such a necessary article of household paraphernalia. The money, I am given to understand, is divided between the county judge and the clerk who issues the license.

"There is no more reason why any judge should traffic in marriage certificates than he should traffic in wedding rings or wedding dresses. There is no reason why he should attempt to collect revenue additional to his salary, if I win this office I shall stop this abuse.

"In making these remarks I do not wish it understood that I am reflecting upon any man or upon the present incumbent. I have the highest regard for the gentleman now occupying the position. He is a gentleman, a good lawyer, and he attends to his business, but there are certain abuses that have grown up in the county court that I believe are wrong."

Joe Marrow finished the evening by saying a few words in his own behalf as a candidate for renomination for constable.

First Ward Republicans. Honored by the presence of four nominees for judicial positions, the First Ward Republican club turned out en masse last evening and as a result one of the most enthusiastic and profitable experience meetings since the organization became a factor in local politics was held.

MILLARD RIFLES AFFAIRS

Benefit Promenade Concert to Be Given After the Fort Riley Maneuvers.

The Millard Rifles and the Ladies' Union Veteran Monument association have formulated plans for a promenade concert and military ball, to be given at the Coliseum immediately upon the return of the company from the Fort Riley maneuvers.

The Knights of Ak-Bar-Ben have generously donated the use of their Den. The entire proceeds go towards defraying the cost of erecting a monument to the memory of the fallen union and Spanish war heroes.

Captain G. W. Bues, of the Millard Rifles, has just received information that fifty overcoats have been shipped him as the maneuvers at Fort Riley have been set for October 18 to 27, the Ball will take place Saturday, October 17. In view of the lateness of the season, coats and camp stoves have been provided. In order to meet the government requirements, each company of the Second regiment will be recruited up to sixty-eight men, all told. As no National Guard company in Nebraska, in times of peace, is recruited to that strength, competent men have been selected as a reward of merit and efficiency from the companies of the First regiment, so that the Second regiment will contain 810 strong, not including the signal and hospital corps, which have been attached.

Company Clerk William H. Stuben of the Millard Rifles has organized a glee club, which is now actively engaged in rehearsal in anticipation of the trip and encampment. The date of the encampment having been fixed, no further enlistments are allowed in Company I until its return from Fort Riley. Privates O. T. Rashke and E. L. Meredith were the last to be enrolled, bringing the total active membership of the Millard Rifles to fifty-nine.

FORGETS HIS NAME AND HOME

Stranger Calls on Chief Donahue Who Cannot Tell Anything of His Own Identity.

Registered as John Doe No. 1 and charged with insanity is the lot that befell a man who called on Chief Donahue Friday afternoon and wanted to be put to bed. All he could remember about himself when at the chief's office was that he had been to the state fair at Lincoln. He had no idea what city he was in, but said he knew it wasn't St. Louis, because he saw no large river. The man is dressed in a dark brown suit of good material and has the appearance of being a well-to-do working man. He told the chief that he is a man of family, with a wife and eight children to support. His hands are large and calloused in a manner indicative of long years of toil. The chief believes he is temporarily demented by reason of having indulged too freely in wine and working hard. ## SAYS HOUSE WAS ON TENPINS

Plaintiff in Damage Suit Declares Building Was Propped Up When It Fell.

Thomas S. Tomb has brought suit against Mary F. Bourke to recover $2,000 damages. When the latter was erecting the brick store building at the northeast corner of Thirteenth and Harney streets last fall the one story brick next door tumbled down early one morning. It was occupied by a powder firm and several reasons were given for its collapse.

Let the agent of Mary F. Bourke declared it was due to water pipe belonging to the Tomb property, which had been left open. The petition filed Friday alleges that the Tomb building had been propped up with tenpins and other things when work on the corner building was begun and that the falling of the building was due to the workmen of the defendant removing the tenpins and jackscrews.

Police Called to City Hall.

A telephone message was received at the police station this morning at 1 o'clock that someone was trying to rob the vault of the city treasurer's office in the city hall. A wagonload of policemen were sent to the spot, but after a few minutes it was found that the vault door had evidently been left open by mistake. The door of a small safe inside the vault was also found open, but this safe is evidently not in use. The vault door was left open, he thought the city's cash had certainly been taken and called the police.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

Rev. Charles W. Savidge married Mr. Ralph W. Brown and Miss Beulah Buhaker of Stuart, Neb., at his home Thursday afternoon.

Mary Woodson, as keeper, and P. W. Fouts and A. Woodson, as inmates of a disorderly house, were arrested at 713 North Sixteenth street last night.

Elise Clemens, who was injured by falling from a street car Tuesday night, was reported as much improved last night.

Paul Feltner, a man who has his leg amputated as a result of being run over by an engine, was reported as still in a serious condition at an early hour this morning.

The Union Veterans' union held a meeting in its hall in the continental block last night. As there was a large amount of routine business to be disposed of, no special matters were acted upon.

Peter Newlands, 1530 South Eighteenth street, made a great deal of trouble on the streets last night with the influence of liquor. He was locked up charged with being drunk and disorderly.

Charles Daniels, residing at Forty-seventh and Dodge streets, was arrested by Sergeant and Detective Drumm yesterday afternoon. Daniels was charged with Clarence Fellerin. Fellerin alleges that prisoner stole $10 from him September 16.
