CROWD SCHOOL BUILDINGS

More Room Must Be Provided Before Another School Year.

REMODEL OLD HIGH SCHOOL STRUCTURE

Addition Also Badly Needed to Either Avenue B or Second Avenue Buildings to Accommodate Pupils.

To provide for the continually increasing number of children the city schools will be one of the important matters to come up for discussion at the semi-annual meeting of the Board of Education, Reports from the pricipals of the several buildings show that nearly all the schools in the city are taxed to their capacity and several of them are inconveniently crowded. To relieve this congestion the board will be called upon to take some action in the near future. Both the Avenue B and Second avenue schools are overcrowded and an addition will have to be built next spring to one of those buildings. Which one has not yet been decided upon, but in all probability it will be at the Avenue B school. A four room addition will be necessary and if it is decided to build it at the Avenue B school. it is likely that an old wing containing two rooms will be torn down and a new sixroom addition erected. The wing containing two rooms at the Avenue B school was erected on the ground without any basement and the rooms are demp. To tear down this wing and erect a new addition of six rooms it is estimated would entail an expenditure of about $15,000. Members of the board state, however, that no matter what the cost the congestion on the Avenue B and Second avenue schools will have to be relieved as soon as possible.

May Use Old High School. The advisability of using the old High school building as a ward school again will come up for discussion at tonight's meeting of the board. It is believed that at a cost of about $10,000 the building, which although erected more than twenty years ago, is still in first class condition so far as the walls and foundation are concerned, could be lowered and remodelled inside. Since the opening of the school year this month the board has received about seventy applications for transfer of pupils to ools outside the district in which they reside. For instance, parents of pupils living on Fifth avenue and within the boundaries of the Eighth avenue school have Heretofore the board has endeavored to comply with such requests, but this year, owing to the congested condition prevailing in almost every building, all requests have been denied.

Never Mind the Water.

The North Eighth street school will be reopened this morning, although the water is still in the basement. In the event of a sudden cold enap the committee on buildings is of the opinion that by constant pumping the water can be kept below the level of the beilers so that the building can be heated if necessary. It is estimated that it will take at least two weeks to get all the water out of the basement of this build-Constant pumping during the last few days at the other schools in the flooded districts has had its effect and the comhittee stated yesterday that the heating plant could be operated in all the buildings if required. Freight Strikes Passenger.

DASH TAKES EASTERN CASH

Combination that Brings Success to Two Young Men from Omaha.

ROCKEFELLER PURSE BEHIND THEM

Skip Dundy and Fred Thompson Clear a Half Million in First Season and Plan Big Things for Future.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 .- (Special.) - Loom ing up in the world of geniuses or daring just now are the figures of two young men from the West, Frederick Thompso designer of the Omaha midway, and Elmer 8. Dundy of Omaha, who came to New York last fall with more brains, dash, pluck and enterprise than cash, and are now closing up the season with $1,500,000 profits and with more millions in sight for successive seasons. John D. Rockefeller, too, has taken a peep at the plans of the young wizards of the West and his millions are now back of them and there is no limit.

Frederick S. Thompson is 30 years old, but looks ten years younger, a mere boy in appearance, but with a clear eye, quick step, ringing self-confidence and buoyant spirits to bear him up in his daring wooing of Dame Fortune. Thompson is an architect and was born in Nashville, Tenn. He rose rapidly in his profession and at 25 he designed and constructed the buildings of the Nashville exposition. He next designed and constructed the midway at the Omaha exposition and later built the midway at the Buffalo Pan-American exposition. Meanwhile he had formed a part nership with his friend, Elmer S. Dundy n of the late Judge Dundy of Omaha, and a hustling genius and organizer like himself. The two, having gleaned a vast amount of experience at Omaha, came to the metropolis to test daring and ambitous plans for attracting the attention of the 5,000,000 of people who live in and around

Rockefeller Opens His Coffers.

The young men had cash and plegdes of cash of not over $200,000. Their plans ontemplated an outlay of about $1,000,000 before the return of a penny could be looked for. They must have more cash. They had a friend who was a director in the Rockefeller bank, the National City, and to him they went. The power behind the throne was consulted. John D. looked over the plans and sized up the two young chaps who conceived them, and finally he gave his approval.

This was enough and a world's fair city planned by Thompson began to grow at Coney Island. The Rockefeller coffers were opened and the million that was spent was secured in no way save by notes given by Thompson and Dundy and faith in the enterprise.

Five Millions Attend.

There were many predictions of dire disaster and while the friends of the two men were civil they were shy and a settled cast of incredulity rested on their countenances when the subject of success was his entire family to the new colony site mentioned. But the men from the west "had the stuff" in them and went ahead. Twenty-two acres in the heart of Coney illes are on the way from South Africa Island were built over with a series of novelty shows and the whole was called Luna Park. The numerous buildings were grouped about a large lagoon and court of honor, in the center of which is a huge Beach of this city has been appointed dis- tower 200 feet high, the whole studded with trict deputy grand exaited ruler for the rows of incandescent lights. The same for South Dakota. The appointment was other buildings and at night the park presents a scene of electrical magnificence litand came as a surprise to Mr. Beach and the short of the famous night display at the Buffalo exposition. The park at once attracted the attention of the greater city and the park will close its season next Sunday with an attendance from the middie of May to the day of closing in excess of 5,000,000, an average daily attendance of over 30,000. The average expenditure of each visitor has been 35 cents and the recelpts have been in excess of $1,600,000. This has enabled the projectors to take up every note, pay all expenses of the fair and leave them $500,000 to the good with a plant on hand worth $1,000,000 that will mean millions in the future.

More Cash for Next Year.

So happy have the Rockefeller interests been at the outcome that the Rockefeller strong box has been pledged to finance any future plans of the young men no matter how extravagant they may be. A company has been incorporated with a capital of $10,000,000 and $2,000,000 are to be spent next year in new attractions and additional buildings. One feature of next year will be the reproduction of the magnificence of the great Indian durbar and 150 elephants and 600 natives of India will be brought

In talking to your correspondent about the plans for the future Mr. Thompson "Our success has been so great here that we are going to other cities and try the Luna Park idea. Chicago, Bostor Philadelphia, Baltimore, St. Louis, Cincinnati, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Minneapolis and Buffalo all present opportunities which we shall not neglect. We will put all our energies into our business here next year, but in 1905 we will extend our operations to all the cities named or as many of them

"It isn't hard to understand human nature and furnish amusement for all classes of people. We have millionaires and their wives come here in their automobiles and plain everyday working people and both classes get an equal amount of amusement out of the place. Clean and wholesome amusement is what the people want despite the talk of a lot of misguided managers who think that nothing in the amusement line will succeed unless a lot of women in scanty attire are to be seen kicking up their heels and other senseless and worse nastiness. The cardinal rule here is decency and cleanliness and it is my experience that Americans every time prefer that to shows that are off color. I said when I came here that the 5,000,000 to 5,000,-000 people who come here every summe for amusement were true-blue Americans and loved what is clean and wholesome I have found this wholly true in all my experience everywhere and Coney Island's crowds are no exception to the rule." Mr. Dundy shares his partner's views and the two seem to have the vast majority of amusement lovers in the greater city on their side.
