As the sentry posted on the railroad tracks below the Independence was walking he spied three or four men acting suspiciously and as he was approaching them he was suddenly knocked down by a blow from a rock on the side of the head. As he fell his rifle in some manner was discharged. This alarmed the other guards, and as the corporal and other details rushed down to the spot they found the man lying unconscious. His assailants were seen running away by the sentry on the next beat, but they were out of sight too soon to permit of accurate_shooting. It is claimed that the Portland estate, on which union miners are employed, is being made the base of operations by the strikers, and General Bell says that hereafter this property will "be patrolled and con-

Small Boy Gets Revenge,

Captain Mostyn went to Glenwood. Ia., this morning to appear against William Horne, who has his trial at that place to-day on the charge of horse stealing. Horns was arrested in this city June 7 by Detectives Drummy and Mitchell. It was not known at the time of his arrest that he was wanted in the lowa town, but the remark of a boy who was brought to the station the day before. Horne's arrest caused the police to suspicion him. The boy thought that Horne was responsible for having him arrested and told Captain Mostyn that if he thought he was he would put Horne where he belonged. On the strength of this remark Horne was placed in the aweathox and enough information was secured from him to warrant sending to lowa for an officer to identify him. He was identified as the man wanted and taken back to Glenwood.

Now in a Rooming House.

Guy Murray, colored, living at Eleventh and Isard streets, had some trouble yesterday with his former landlandy. Mrs. Gray, who runs a rooming house at 724 North Sixteenth street. It is alleged that Murray struck the woman in the face with his fist. During the fight A. N. Manlove, who boards with the woman, took a hand in the proceedings by attacking Murray. The colored man picked up a giass, which was handy, and sailed it at Manlove's head. It missed its mark, but Manlove's head. It missed its mark, but Manlove desires the charge of assault with intent to do great bodily injury placed against Murray. He thinks hab briefly escaped with his life and stated that had the giass landed he would now have been gazing upon other scenes. The police thought a charge of assault and battery would about fit Murray's case and accordingly fixed the books to read that way.
