There ware only a few cars of corn-fed steers in the yards, and none that were strictly ohoice. Anything at all desirable, however, sold without any difficulty at good, steady prices, and in fact some looked a fittle stronger. The part fat kinds, though, were very dull and if anything had to sell a little lower, as packers seemed to prefer the western grassers to the warmed-up corn cattle. There was a large run of cows and helf-ers on sale this morning, but good stuff was scarce. Anything answering to that description was in brisk demand at steady to strong prices. The common to medium kinds, however, did not sell any too readily and in some caser looked a shade caster.

and in some cases looked a shade casier. Buils, veal calves and stags again sold in about the same notches they have for some
