LEAVES HIS INVALID WIFE

Charles L. Gillette Supposed to Have Gone to California to Live with Children.

Charles L. Gillette, a sign painter whose place of business was at 15 South Main street and his residence at 803 Madison avenue, is believed to have left the city his intention not to return. He is thought name. to have started for California to make his home with his children by his former wife. At least this is the supposition of his most intimate friends and his invalid wife. A few days ago Gillette sold his business to Thomas Caughey, and Tuesday on Madison avenue Tuesday morning and has not since returned. His daughter, Mrs. Lincoln Hill, and husband left Tuesday for San Francisco, and it is thought that Gillette accompanied them, although he left word at his home and former place of business that he was going fishing. The belief that Gillette left Tuesday for he showed to some friends transportation to Oakland, Cal., and that he is known to have shipped some goods to the same destination.

Mrs. Isabel Gillette, the invalid wife, called upon to entertain the leading club when seen at her home on Madison avenue, women of the Ninth congressional district stated she had every reason to believe that early in November. Mrs. Hill, Gillette's daughter, came from San Francisco last February and with her husband and two children had made her home with him since, the husband working with Gillette. Mrs. Gillette said that for several months past the daughter had been urging her father to go back with them to California. Mrs. Gillette alleged that her husband had abandoned his first ex wife and two children more than twenty years ago in Kansas. Gillette was married to his present wife about nineteen years ago and has lived in Council Bluffs and vicinity ever since. At one time he owned considerable property here, but lost

Sixty Strikes in Iowa.

During the last year there were at least sixty strikes in commercial business in the state of Iowa, according to the reports of employers to the State Labor bureau, but they have not reported that there war violence or the threat of violence in a single instance, except at Dubuque. The reports on strikes show, in fact, that they were peaceably conducted and that there was no great amount of feeling displayed. ioner Brigham this morning completed the preliminary story for his biennial report, introducing the statistical tables compiled from the reports of employers. The office sent out blanks to 4,000 employers of labor in Iowa and secured satisfactory returns from 1,627 of them, and from 573 others received acknowledgments; but 45 per cent of the employers failed to make any report. The total number of employers reporting increased 26.48 per cent since 1896. In the same period the average number of employes to the establishments reporting increased from twenty-eight to thirty-eight. The increase in female labor was 52.77 per cent. In four years the increase in child labor in Iowa was 322 per cent, and the ommissioner calls special attention to this in his report.
