

HOME AFTER SPLENDID TOUR

Omaha and South Omaha Promoters Conclude Successful Iowa Tour.

OVATION ALL ALONG LINE OF TRAVEL

Large and Enthusiastic Crowds Turn Out to Greet the Missionaries of Commerce Who Saw Good Seed.

The Commercial club and South Omaha live stock exchange excursion arrived home Friday night at 7 o'clock after having a very successful day on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road from Des Moines west. The Milwaukee officials were J. H. Foster, superintendent; Marion J. T. Glick, trainmaster; Perry G. W. Blair, division freight and passenger agent; Cedar Rapids; E. C. Nettles, division freight and passenger agent; Des Moines; C. J. Mikkh, traveling freight and passenger agent; Joseph Barker, contracting agent; and Eugene Duval, assistant general western agent, Omaha, all of whom made it as pleasant as possible for everybody, and also gave permission to any of the opportunity of riding on the large Baldwin engine of the train, handled by Engineer William Italia. A great many took advantage of the invitation.

At Madrid when the band was playing the public school was dismissed and all the children given an opportunity to "listen to the band." At Perry, the largest town visited Friday, the people were glad to see the Omaha crowd. They are preparing for their street fair, to be held next week, Dawson, Jamaica, Herndon, Bagley, Bayard, all followed in rapid succession, with the usual crowds on the streets to greet and cheer liberal distribution of advertising matter. Coon Rapids was a twenty-five-minute stop and everybody got acquainted. The home band was at the depot to welcome all on board and helped swell the marching from the depot. Everybody was pleased with the visit at Coon Rapids.

Could Not Look Over It.

Dedham and Templeton then Manning. Manning was included in the former trip of some weeks ago, so was not included in the schedule to make a stop there, but the delegates remembered how hospitable was the town before and they did not want to leave it out, so Manning had to stand a second invasion, and stood it well. In fact the people were so cordial the train was held until they had the Omaha bunch's pictures taken. Manila was the next fifteen-minute halt. After and Dedham, then Earling. Here the excursion took lunch at an earnest invitation of the friendly citizens. Panama, Portsmouth and Persia, the last excursion of the year was at an end, and it was pronounced by all to be as successful as any former one.

A touching incident occurred on the trip. One of the band boys of the Twenty-second infantry, which goes in about ten days to the Philippines, met his aged mother in one of the small towns. It was all the mother could do to stand the parting from her beloved boy.

WANTS CITY TO OWN LIGHTS

Omaha View Club Calls for a Municipal Electric Lighting Plant.

The Omaha View Improvement club met last evening with its usual big attendance and President Callahan in the chair. A communication from the Prospect Hill Improvement club relative to the park proposition was received, read and referred to the park committee.

Mr. Forbes of the streets and alleys committee, reported that he had conferred with Councilman Evans relative to certain street and sidewalk improvements, and that he had been informed that about $600 had already been expended in the Omaha View district. The city council, and that other improvements were to be made.

The sewer committee reported that inquiry had developed the fact that considerable money appropriated for the building of the Saddle Creek main sewer had been diverted to the building of private sewers. The matter was referred to the sewer committee with instructions to see if some sewer improvements could not be made in the Omaha View district, and to report at the next meeting.

The park committee reported that it is to have a conference with the park commissioners in a few days, and that Messrs. Craig and Cornish of the commission will visit the Prospect Hill park section and investigate, as well as make a report on the extension of the boulevard system through Omaha View.

The thanks of the club were voted to Messrs. Morearty and Monroe for special services in securing a new meeting place for the club. Thanks were also voted to County Commissioner McDonald for assisting the club in the case of Mrs. Coy and family in removing them to Lincoln.

The following resolution introduced by Mr. Morearty was unanimously adopted by the club:

Resolved, That the Omaha View Improvement club points with suspicion and alarm the contemplated action of the Omaha View Improvement club in the event of this consolidation the people of Omaha will be at the mercy of a gigantic trust in the lighting business, therefore be it

Resolved, That we are unalterably opposed to such consolidation for the reason that it leaves the people of the city in the grasp of a single monopoly of the lighting business, and that we believe the only solution of the light question is in the municipal ownership of the lighting system, and that we demand of Councilman Evans of the Sixth ward that he introduce an ordinance submitting to the people of the city of Omaha the right to own and operate its own lighting plant and that

"To question a wise man is the beginning of wisdom."

—German Proverb

Question those who are wise in all that regards the silver-smith's craft and you will find that holds the highest place in their esteem. The purchase of the first article bearing the Gorham trade-mark is the continuation of wisdom.

Gorham Silver

All responsible jewelers keep it.

THE ILLUSTRATED BEE

PEOPLE KNOW A GOOD THING WHEN THEY SEE IT.

As a rule, and that is another reason why The Illustrated Bee is so popular among its readers. It is a good thing in every aspect and has no rivals in its field. Each week it contains a number of carefully prepared and handsomely illustrated special articles, choice fiction and well arranged departments of a more general nature, all calculated to make up what is admitted to be the best newspaper magazine supplement published in the west. It is a magazine in fact as well as in name, designed to give the intelligent reading public something out of the ordinary in connection with the really great news service of The Sunday Bee.

CECEUS THE GREAT TROTTED

A large crowd of Omaha horse admirers at the driving park last Saturday and of course The Bee camera man was there. He got two splendid snap shots of the famous trotter as he won on his record-making journey around the track. These, with other pictures made at the track, will fill a page in the number that comes out on Sunday.

MISSOURI VALLEY WAS DRY

Tuesday and the grocers and butchers held their hooded picnic under the most perfect of weather conditions. It was also attended by The Bee camera man and a full page of scenes on the grounds will appear in The Illustrated Bee on Sunday as reminders of what they missed to the west and to the memories of a happy day for those who did.

MORE INDEPENDENT PICTURES

than have appeared for a long time will be found in this number, including pictures of Thomas B. Minahan, head of the Federated Catholic Societies of the United States; Rev. Charles Coppens, S. J., who celebrated his golden jubilee on Monday; Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Young of Webster City, Ia., who left their property to be devoted to the uses of a free public library; Queen Epeleina and her royal escort in an automobile at Nelligan, and others of equal interest.

GOTHENBURG, SWEDEN'S SEA PORT.

is the subject of Frank G. Carpenter's weekly letter, illustrated from photographs made in Gothenburg. "Feeding the Babies at the Zoo" tells how baby animals are cared for and is illustrated from photographs made in the New York Zoo. "An Adirondack Outing" is a brief chronicle of how Hon. Timothy L. Woodruff took care of a party of gentlemen at his Kamp Kill Kare, written by Mr. C. W. Eckerman of Omaha, who was in the party, and illustrated from photos made for the purpose. Another installment of the Voss serial, the illustrated woman's department, and several important and interesting special articles, with the regular departments, make the number complete in every detail. If you are not now a subscriber you should leave your order with your news dealer today.

THE ILLUSTRATED BEE

the same be voted upon at the coming city election.

TABLE SALE—Orchard & Wilhelm Carpet Co.

For snatching a Purse.

A woman saw a pocketbook drop from the shopping bag of another woman on the street yesterday evening. She tried to secure the book with the intention of turning it to the owner, but a man was too quick for her. He seized the property and ran. The woman gave the police a description of the man and later George Koutsky, who lives on Eighteenth street, was arrested. The pocketbook contained $25 in cash. When the prisoner was marched to the station he carried the book and the money were found in his possession.

LOCAL BREVITIES.

1-7-11—Waiting—all want you.

John Bengels is with People's Store. Ruth Bengels had Frank Sutter, who lives at Tenth and Bancroft streets, arrested last night on the charge of assault and battery.

Mr. S. Boehm has returned to Omaha and is again connected with the Police Department. He will be pleased to meet his many friends.

Latest arrivals in suits, cloaks, skirts, waists, silk Petticoats, Wrappers, Rain Coats, Millinery, etc. Cash or credit.

Daniel Bonds, 2007 Nicholas street, was seen prowling about the rear of residences in Kountze place last night and was picked up by the police as a suspicious character.

Alleged gamblers were corralled in a room at 113 Farnam street about 8 o'clock yesterday afternoon. They were all locked up at the city jail, charged with the offense.

An industrial art school, with workrooms and studios, was established in Omaha, W. Hammann is managing the new enterprise and John Enkel, who directs the school.

Officer Flisk had just left evening drill and gotten as far as Eleventh and Farnam streets last night when he engaged two men fighting on the street. They were both locked up and found to be Charles Patterson of Syracuse, N. Y., and John McGill of nowhere.

Henry Appleford, a rancher from near North Platte, was brought to this city and placed in the St. Joseph's hospital yesterday afternoon. He was suffering from a horse, the result of being thrown from a horse while attempting to stop a runaway.

While Stella Bloom was crossing the street at Sixteenth and Castelar yesterday afternoon, she was struck by a horse, the result of being thrown from a horse while attempting to stop a runaway.

John Nolan of South Omaha met Ella Phillips, who lives at Thirtieth and Marquette streets, last night. After they had been together some time Nolan liked the woman so well that he gave her his pocketbook, containing $3, to keep for him. When he requested the return of the property it was refused. He then went to the police station to file a complaint. The woman was arrested and Nolan was also locked up, both on the charge of being drunk and disorderly.

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Eastern Bond Buyers Place Thirty Thousand Dollars to School Board's Credit.

FIRST PAYMENT FOR NEW BUILDING

Scarcely Probable that Full Hundred Thousand Will Be Drawn This Season, as Time Is Almost Passed.

Eastern bond buyers notified Frank J. Moriarty, cashier of the Packers' National bank, last night that they had placed $30,000 to the credit of the South Omaha Board of Education. This money is the first installment of the $100,000 voted for the erection of a high school building. As the money is needed the bond buyers will forward it to the Packers' bank. The agreement was that the $100,000 should be paid in four installments. Owing to the lateness of the season it is hardly probable that the entire amount will be drawn this year. The arrival of the money provides for the payment of the plans and the excavating and assures the contractors that the money will be forthcoming as needed. Under the present agreement the building is to cost not more than $75,000, the balance to be expended in furniture, fittings, etc.

John Latenser of Omaha has the contract for the plans and will superintend the work of construction. It is understood that the plans meet with the requirements and that the Board of Education will hasten the construction as rapidly as possible. More school room is needed and Superintendent McLean looks forward to the time when the new high school will be completed in order that the congestion at Central school can be relieved.

Carnival Closes Tonight.

The Workmen carnival will close tonight, but festivities will not end until next week, when the grand ball will be held and the queen of the carnival crowned.

As usual, the kangaroo court attracted a great deal of attention last night. Judge Powers sent out his herd of husky men and brought in a dozen or more well known citizens. Then there was a lot on the grounds that were "pinched." This court is taking in about $20 a night and the afternoon session today it is expected that $100 will be taken in. Thursday night Police Judge King was taken in and called upon to settle. Friends of the judge fixed up a deal last night and secured warrants from the police court for Morgan Healy and Peter Powers.

The crowd in attendance last night was about the same as it was the night before. Both the auditorium and the dance hall were crowded all the evening. The combined lodges will clear enough money to pay the indebtedness on the building.

Holds Special Session.

The city council met in special session yesterday and passed an ordinance opening N street from Twentieth street east to the river. City Attorney Murdoch was called in to advise the council. He was instructed by resolution to proceed at once to condemn certain properties on N street from Eighteenth street east to the Burlington tracks. It is the intention of the council to proceed as rapidly as possible in this matter. The street was opened early in the spring. A promise has been made that the Burlington road will maintain a depot at the foot of N street as soon as the street is opened.

Harvey Renwick Home.

Harvey Renwick, son of Rev. and Mrs. Andrew Renwick, has returned from the south, where he spent the summer with an engineer's force on the Illinois Central line. Mr. Renwick is a graduate of the South Omaha High school and is now attending college at St. Louis. He is a civil engineer. In a few days Mr. Renwick will go to St. Louis to attend the college of civil engineering at Washington university.

Contest Closes Monday.

The contest for the most popular school teacher in the city will close at the carnival grounds Monday night. The teacher who receives the most votes will be given the gold watch and chain. Seven teachers are in the lists and are receiving a large number of votes, much to the satisfaction of Joseph Koutsky, who has the matter in charge. Mr. Koutsky said last night that he did not desire to give out the number of votes until the contest, as he prefers to wait until the votes are all counted.

Razing Plunkett Building.

Work commenced yesterday on the razing of the Plunkett building at Twenty-fourth and K streets. This building was condemned some time ago and the city engineer was directed to tear down the structure unless the owner did the work inside in a few days. It is understood that a fine brick building will be erected on the site by Mr. Plunkett. The construction of the new building is to be begun as soon as the ground is cleared.

Dr. Wheeler Writes.

Rev. Dr. R. L. Wheeler, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, writes from New York that his father is considerably better and that he will reach Chicago Sunday. Dr. Wheeler is in Chicago and the doctor will stay there a day or two. Rev. Mr. Osborne of Omaha will occupy the pulpit at the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning. No special service will be held. The other services will take place as usual.

Going After Hayes.

During the special meeting of the council yesterday an individual laid out on the bid of Hayes & Sons for the $70,000 overpaid bonds. Councilmen Welsh and Adkins insisted that some steps be taken at once to have the Hayes bank either accept or reject the bonds. Other buyers are in the field and it is expected that the money by the end of the month the sale will be declared off and the bonds sold to another concern. Until these bonds are sold claims and salaries for five months prior to August 1 cannot be paid.

Magle City Gossip.

T. C. Marsh, secretary of the local Young Men's Christian association, is in Lincoln. A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Walsh, 114 North Twenty-fifth street.

Mrs. W. G. Sloane has returned from Montreal, where she spent two months visiting friends and relatives.

The South Omaha Cavalry troop has been invited to participate in the Ak-Sar-bu parade on the afternoon of October 7. The Sunday school of the First Christian church will hold a rally Sunday forenoon at Ak-Sar-bu. The present and former scholars are invited.

Assaulted on the Street.

M. F. Bowman, who lives in Schuyler, Neb., thinks Omaha is a bad place. He was walking down Farnam street Friday morning early and, as he says, attending to his own affairs, when two men accosted him. He waited for them to come up and then he was struck on the head. He was knocked down and laid there for some time, how long he does not know. Finally he regained his senses, he made his way to a saloon, where he held several hours. The proprietor of the place advised him to go to the police station, which he did. His left eye was very badly bruised and blackened and the right one was in the same condition and also badly lacerated. Bowman had lost so much blood that he was very weak. He could give no description of his assailants.

TABLE SALE—Orchard & Wilhelm Carpet Co.

AT THE PLAYHOUSES

"The Storaks" at the Boyd.

"The Storaks," a musical fantasy in two acts, book by Richard Carle and Guy P. Steele, music by Frederic Chapin; under the direction of W. W. Tillotson. The principals: The Ringling of Bakteria, Mr. Gus Weinberg; Slinguff, Court Shoemaker and Philo; other at the Boyd, Mr. George Gregory; Maladoc, a Sorcerer, Mr. George Snelis; Henrietta, his son, Mr. Francis Lieb; Fairlie, Royal Revolver, Mr. George McCay; Luck Tales, Mr. George McCay; Glumphy, the "Power Behind the Throne," Mr. Jess Cain; Nabalook, the Foodmaster, Mr. Felix McChase; Helen, the Bunkloo's Sister, Miss Alma Youlin; Violet, the Poundmaster's Daughter, Miss Alma Youlin; Penelope, Slinguff's Wife, Miss Ada Deaves; Pinner, Her Inquisitive Daughter, Miss Catherine, Companion to Helen, Miss Myra Davis.

Apparently the people are as fond as ever of foxy set to music, for that is what "The Storaks" amounts to, and yet it was listened to by a large audience at the Boyd last night. Laughter and applause gave evidence of the enjoyment of the witty sallies and humorous points with which the piece bristles, and the songs were well received, too. No material change has been made in the incidental words of the play since its last appearance in Omaha beyond the addition of a joke or two to bring it up to date, one involving Sir Thomas Lipton and Reliance being particularly noticeable.

Gus Weinberg is the Ringling of Bakteria and works faithfully to make the part a go. He lacks somewhat in unctuousness, but more than makes up for this in earnestness. Mr. Gregory's Slinguff is an excellent second and well supplements the Ringling's effort. Olga von Hatfeldt, who made a feature of the vaudeville circuit with a bevy of good-looking dancing girls, is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better acted than sung last night. One of the principals Alma is glad to hear from again is Ada Deaves, who is known and liked as one of the "funniest women in the business." She delights in grotesque makeups, and it would be a hopeless task she couldn't get some fun out of. As Penelope she is in her element. Miss Alma Youlin is singing the songs that fall to the lot of the poundmaster's daughter. She has a voice that eludes classification, but its deficiencies are overlooked in the earnest endeavor of the owner to do something of a piece. This is more noticeable in her "Polly Little Gertie" song, which was better