ENTHUSIASTIC OVER OMAHA. Great Western Officials Find Its Possibilities Greater Than They First Anticipated.

F. W. Judson, manager of the Midland Paint and Glass company, has returned from the city of Omaha, where he has been visiting.

"I met several of the Great Western people in St. Paul," said Mr. Judson, "and they expressed themselves as being very much pleased with their reception in this city. And I could see they were. They said that since they had got to here they found the possibilities much greater than they had supposed."

Mr. Judson had the following clipping from the St. Paul Pioneer-Press: The New York Herald contains the following about Ansel Oppenheim:

Ansel Oppenheim, vice president of the Chicago Great Western railroad, returned to the city yesterday after attending the celebration in Omaha recently in token of the city's appreciation of the Chicago Great Western's new Omaha line.

"There are no houses for rent in St. Paul, Minneapolis or Omaha," he said. The Chicago Great Western in September last year earned more money than in any September in its history.

"Crops are assured. The frosts reported last week were heavier in Wall street than in the west. Flowers were blooming at the doorsteps in St. Paul the day following the reports of the heaviest frosts."
