PLAN TO SAVE STATE MONEY

Treasurer Mortensen Would Put a Crimp in Trick of Bidders.

STATE SCHOOL FUND IS ALL INVESTED

Governor Declines to Interfere in the Conduct of Local Affairs at Omaha, as Petitioned for by Abbott and Dunn.

(From a Staff Correspondent.) LINCOLN, Oct. 1 -(Special.) - State Treasurer Mortensen has devised a scheme whereby he believes the state would save many thousands of dollars annually in the purchase of supplies for state institutious were it to be adopted. His plan is to have the State Board of Purchase and Supplies accept the lowest bid on the several Items in the various bids instead of making the centract in bulk. It was his intention to take the matter up with the board during meeting today, and he may have done so, but as the meeting was behind closed doors the state will have to walt until the clerks compile the records before it will

The supplies for the institutions are bought quarterly on the est'mate of the management of the various institutions, and it has been customary in the past for the contractors to bid low on those things that are included on the estimate, but which their experience teaches them will be called for only in small quantities, if at all, and place higher prices on those articles of which much will be used. The total then would be smaller than those bids that called for legitimate prices on all the goods, while the cost to the state may be many hundreds of dollars in excess what it would have been had the lowest bid by items been accepted.

Governor Mickey was asked concerning it before the meeting of the board and he was of the opinion that the state was getting its goods just as cheap, if not cheaper, than an individual. The board today completed the purchase of supplies for the Industrial home at Milford

School Funds All Invested.

The report of State Treasurer Mortensen filed with the auditor this morning, shows that the treasurer had invested all of that $62.90 in the permanent school fund the first of the month except 4 cents, which he still has on hand. The permanent uni-versity fund and the Agricultural college dowment fund each contains the sum of cents. The Normal endowment fund omes next with 16 cents to its credit. West Nebraska Conference Meets.

LEXINGTON, Neb., Oct. 1 .- (Special.)-The west Nebraska conference of the Methodist Episcopal church opened its nineteenth annual session in this city yesterday morning in the capacious church of that denomination. The business yesterday consisted of class examinations, and a meeting of the board of control of the Preachers' Ald society. In the evening, however, Dr. M. B. C. Mason, secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Educational society, gave a lecture on "Napoleon at Waterloo, which was a masterly address and held the large audience spellbound during its entire delivery. Dr. Mason, like Fred Douglas, was born a slave, but has by his own efforts risen step by step until he occupies a place today among the first orators of the country. Bishop Edward G. Andrews is presiding over the meetings and makes a model presiding officer. This morning the conference sermon was preached by Rev. John Madely, after which the sacramental service was held in charge of the bishops and presiding elders.

"I do not ask for other than careful consideration of the ordinance," he said, "but every day is important to us as we are prevented from doing any less-than-car-load business in Omaha until we provide our own facilities.

Upon suggestions of the council provisions were inserted in the ordinance for maintenance of the viaduets and subways and for lighting the same at the expense of the rallroad.

The freight house will be to the west of the Sixteenth street viaduct midway between Mason and Leavenworth strects. The railroad will grade Sixteenth street to a minimum and pave between the freight depot and Leavenworth street. The ordinance was prepared and placed in the hands of City Attorney Wright yesterday. Among other things it provides for a viaduct on Mason street, between Nineteenth and Twentleth, and a subway at Pierce street, between the same thoroughfares. The viaduct is to be thirty feet wide, of frame construction, to be bridge, at the end of five years. railroad to bear all expenses of changes equipment will be repaired. in sewers resultant.

Streets to Be Vneated.

Streets to be vacated as set forth in the ordinance are parts of Sixteenth west of the viaduct, Seventeenth, Eighteenth and Mason. With the exception of Nineteenth it is stipulated that the vacation may be as sides of the streets. At present it owns all land adjacent to the parts of streets that are to be put out of commission.

The Union Pacific yards shut off Sevenat about Pierce. The Great Western intends to branch off from the Union Pacific at Twentieth south of Pierce and make the terminal tracks describe a more or less true quarter of a circle running north between Twentieth and Nineteenth to Mason, purchased for the entire distance.

From the owners of property lying in two large blocks between Nineteenth and Sxteenth and south of Mason street to the Union Pacific tracks and outside and adjacent to the right of way, a loud protest, it is said, will come.

The ordinance is drawn in the name of has built from Fort Dodge, Ia., to Omaha.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS ROOM

Haven: Company, Dies Suddenly.

THEORY OF FOUL PLAY ADVOCATED

Post-Mortem Examination Shows Two Bruises in Head Which Might Have Caused Hemorrhage, Resulting in Death.

Reclining on a little cot in a small room ust in the rear of the main office, the lifeless body of George Blaine, an old and trusted employe of C. B. Havens & Co., coal dealers, 1409 Webster street, was found shortly after 7 yesterday morning. Apparently Blaine had been dead several hours when discovered. He was found by Samuel Druse, a young man who had just been employed as teamster and was going to Foul play is the theory of the death. The post mortem examination held by Dr. Lafractures of the skull on the right side sufficient to have caused hemorrhage of the brain which evidently produced death. A short piece of pine wood was found in Blaine's room, but there was no blood on it nor was there any sign that it had been used to hit him with. A young man named J. Delehanty, who says he is employed at the Hayes feed store, was the last one to see Blaine as far as is now known Thursday night and he is being held by the police as a witness.

How He Was Found.

When H. D. Carter, yard foreman, arrived at the office at 7 o'clock he found Druse waiting on the sidewalk. Directing him to go around to the west side of the building and open the gate to the scales, Carter unlocked and entered the office by the front door. Druse went around to the west, as directed, and, opening the gate entered the building from the rear. Advancing toward the front office he glanced into the room occupied by Blaine and saw his lifeless form stretched out on the cot Blaine's feet were hanging over the side of the cot and touched the floor, his head reclined against the west wall of the room and his mouth and nostrils were filled with clots of blood. Druse immediately called to Carter and together they discovered that he was dead. The police were immediately called in and Coroner Brailey notified and an investigation, which is still in progress,

The theory of foul play obtains among those who worked with Blaine. They allege that he invariably carried large sums of money about with him, from $300 to $500 in a roll of bills, and Robert James, a driver for the firm, stated that to his on his person Thursday night. When the body was examined by the coroner 20 cents taken from a vest pocket.

Mr. Carter told of the signs of a struggle consisting of a scar on the dead man's head from the temple reaching up into the hair on the right side of the head. The left

About a year ago he left Omaha and returning during the late strike which involved teamsters, he resumed work as a strike breaker.

Robert James spoke to Blaine Wednesday night about carrying so much money around with him. Blaine, he says, replied that there was no danger and that he always had done it and was not alarmed.

There was no evidence of a struggle in Blaine's room. Everything was found in the usual order in which the place was Blaine had been attacked with nausea during the night.

One Arrest Made.

Chief of Detectives Dunn has a large orce of men at work on the Blaine case and has caused the arrest of a colored man names Jeff Bates, who was, about five years ago, convicted, the police say, on the charge of robbing the deceased of $300. Bates did time in the penitentiary for his misdemennor and since his release has been living in this city.
