SHORTAGE CAUSES LACK IN COAL SUPPLY

Able, However, to Mr t Demands of Grain Movement, as is Union Paeific, Where Coal is Coming Slowly.

Burlington officials are complaining for want of coal. One of the executive of ficials of the road said: "It is not shortage of coal we are talking about, but the shortage of cars with which to transport the coal for our own use. There is plenty of coal if we could only transport it rapidly enough. We are handleapped in all ways in matter of equipment. Grain shipments are beginning to pick up and I am glad to say they are not exceedingly heavy, for if they were we would not know where we were. All of our rolling stock is in use on this account and for the fact that the cattle and live stock is all being brought in from the ranges so that they can be off the hands of the rangers before the very cold weather sets in. and they are being delivered one at a time is doing the work and we may place an However, we expect to have sufficient motive power to handle the grain shipments by the time they begin to get heavier,' At the Union Pacific a prominent freight official had this to say: "Our line is not suffering for the want of coal, and although we are handling a E. F. Test of the Commercial commission very large amount of freight at present of Council Bluffs, calling the attention of we are not in such shape that we cannot take care of it on short notice. We have plenty of cars and engines and the only to promote this enterprise. He presented difficulty we find in getting coal for our own use is that the veins in Colorado and the surrounding country are so very narrow that it takes considerable time to mine the coal, as much care has to be taken. We have the cars to transport the coal, but have to wait until it is mined. New ordered, but to what extent I am unable The grain shipments are large, that is the small grain, not corn, for it is a little early for that. All I can say is that we are experiencing no trouble whatever in these ways."

SUIT OVER PERSONAL FIGHT Complainant Alleges the Other Fellow Broke His Arm in Three Places.

Complaint was 'filed with' the county attorney in police court by Don Brock, 2015 Lincoin avenue, late driver for the Union Coal company, in which he charges Fred Palmtag, yard foreman for the company, with assault with intent to do great bodily harm. The assault occurred September 25. Brock alleges in the complaint, and further alleges that it was the outgrowth of a few words between himself and Palmtag, who inselted that he should clean up all loose coal which fell around his wagon while being loaded. While he was seated on the wagon, Brock alleges, Palmtag, who became furious as the conversation proceeded, approached with a piece of pine board six feet long and six inches across board six feet long and six inches across and struck at him. In warding off the blow Brock threw up his left arm and received the force of the blow from the pine board on his forearm, which was broken in three places. In telling the story to the attorney, Brock made it appear that the assault was wholly unwarranted and without provocation. He had told Palmtag that his arm was broken, he said, and he had appeared to be sorry and told him to go and see a doctor and he would pay all charges.

The managers of the company's up-town office were seen and stated that Palmtag's version of the affray was entirely different than that given by Brock. Palmtag, they said, told them that he had merely defended himself when Brock raised a scoop shovel above his head and came at him.

Local Golfers Engerly Looking Forward to Match in Chicago.

Local golfers are looking forward to the big tourney which is to be held at Chicago, October 17. The tourney will be a contest between ten of the best Chicago and other eastern golfers, against an equal number from the Transmississippi Golf association, of which the Omaha Country and Field clubs are members, and which is from essentially a western affair. The castern golfers will include the two Egans-Walter and Clarence, the former champion Louis James, and others equally prominent in amateur golfing circles. The arrangements for such a tourney were made previous to the 1963 Transmiseissippi Golf association that ten of the best players of the association should meet an equal number at Chicago to decide the know about a stove or range.

CALL FOR MORE BUILDINGS

Letter from Business Man to Commercial Club Pointing Out Lack of Wholesale Locations.

The Real Estate exchange listened to the reading of a letter at the noon meeting from John S. Grady deploring the scarcity of large business buildings for wholesale purposes and calling the matter to the attention of the exchange, with the hope that something be done. He asked if the members were aware that the business of the city had outgrown the buildings. He had We have twenty new locomotives ordered no doubt that many of the jobbing firms in the city wished larger quarters and that just as they are finished. An eastern firm if buildings could be obtained a number of new houses would come here. He said that order for more before these are all received, men in this kind of business had not the capitol for real estate. He had spent several days with different representatives of outside firms, wishing to locate here in an attempt to find buildings and had always seen successful.

Another letter was read from Chairman the exchange to the possibl'ities of a wool market for Omaha and urging the exchange many interesting figures showing the wool manufacturies of eastern states and the comparatively small number of sheep raised in their territories. Omaha had 17,109,728 head of sheep in territory tributary to it. Then comes Swift and Company, Manager Patterson of the Swift plant does not like the idea of having his grade crossing at Q street fenced in and while he did not say that he would make any protest he stated that he had the matter under onsideration.

When this question of vacating the stub ends of streets, a portion of Commercial street and Railroad avenue came up about three years ago the property to be vacated was valued by railroad men and others as worth not less than $100,000. Some people seem to think that the railroads want entirely too much for the construction of a viaduct across the tracks. This question northern part of the city are practically worthless, the valuable property being along Commercial and Railroad avenues. There seems to be no objection to the va-cating of the stub ends of streets in the northern part of the city.

NOT GUILTY OF CONSPIRACY President of Chicago Bank Had No Power to Bind the Inatitution.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.-There was no fraud in the transaction by which the American by as many as could comfortably enter the Exchange bank in 1896 sold 1,000 shares of American Cereal common stock which had been deposited as collateral security for a debt of $30,000, according to a decision renleading citizens and city officials, who dered by a United States circuit court of each in turn showered the retiring priest appeals today, upholding Judge Kohlsaat in the lower court.

When Schumacher, who was president lengthy, and did not conclude until 11 of the cereal company, found himself in financial straits in 1896, a meeting of his friends, including Robert Stuart, president of the bank was called and Stuart declared lutions by the members of the St. Agnes that if an assignment were made, his bank church, expressing regret at the departure would be the last to force a sale of the of Father Moriarty, and praising his pledged stock. The hank held the stock long and useful services in behalf of the for eight months after the debt had machurch. Mr. Nolan then presented Father tured, and then sold it to George, William and Walter Douglas, of Cedar Rapids, Ia., the Schumacher assignees having failed to offer a higher bid.

The assignees began a suit for conspiracy against the Douglasses. President Stuart and J. E. Mass, glieging that they had conspired to depreciate the value of American Cereal stock to obtain it themselves and charging that the bank had broken its ntract with Schumacher to hold the stock. The court held that there was no conspiracy and that Stuart's friendly promise had been carried out, and that it was not binding on the bank anyway.

It is a serious thing for any young woman to undertake the duties of wifehood until she is in perfect physical condition. Her life and habits are entirely changed after marriage and weakness never dreamed of often develops. The excitement of an elaborate wedding often completely upsets her nerves so that menstrual disorders result at the very start. It is then very easy to let the trouble run on until finally, aggravated by the new order of living, chronic menstrual troubles, painful as they are because complicated with bearing down pains, ovarian troubles and periodical headaches. Wine of Cardui cured Mrs. Quinn completely. No testimony can tell better than this letter of the thorough work that Wine of Cardui accomplishes. Wine of Cardui offers the same relief to all women. There is no danger from suffering from an uncertain and risky operation which involves much danger at the best. Wine of Cardui relieves women from so much pain and is such a successful remedy for the ills and irregularities to which women are subject, that every woman should constantly keep it in her home.
