"Earth's Enigmas" Places Before Us Humanity Disrobed of All Frills.

DEALS WITH NATURE AND ANIMAL LIFE

"The Sherrods" is a Story of the Common People in Which the Scene is Laid in Indiana and Chicago.

"Earth's Enigmas" is a book in which we have placed before us humanity, disrobed of all frills and in which we are taken into the world of nature and of animal life.

"The Sherrods" is a story of the common people in which the scene is laid in Indiana and Chicago. It is a story of the life of a family of common people.

"The Harvester," by Aubrey Lanston, relates the story of the marriage of Donald, the son of an English earl and a student at Oxford.

"Two Prisoners," by Thomas Nelson Page, is a touching and beautiful story of Molly, a little crippled girl.

"In Old Alabama," by Annie Hobson and dedicated to her brother, Richmond Pearson, the hero of Santiago and Merrimac.

"Conquering Success, or Life in Earnest," by William Matthews. Mr. Matthews is probably best known as the author of "The Public Works of the World."

"In Babel," a collection of short stories and sketches of Chicago, by George Ade. The public which reads Mr. Ade's "Fables in Slang" with so much avidity and delight.

"A Reverie and Other Verses and Prose," by John Alfred Woods. The author of this little book appears as both poet and critic.

"The New Thought Simplified," by Henry Wood. Mr. Wood is a veteran writer in the New Thought, and his former works have passed through three to thirteen editions each.

"The Stories of Peter and Ellen," by Gertrude Smith, author of "The Roggie and Reggie Stories," etc. This is a very attractive little book.

"The Career Triumphant," by Henry Boone. It is a story with action, and bustle and hustle. Pretty girls, brave men, horses, dogs and fox hunting keeps them lively from beginning to end.

"Espananto," the universal language, the Dr. Zamenhof system, compiled by J. C. O'Connor. This work is a student's complete text book.

"A Doctor of Philosophy," by Cyrus Townsend Brady, is a novel which has for its theme "the beautiful commingling of blood."

"John A. Lowell & Co. of Boston are making a steel engraving of the cup defender, Reliance, from the original painting by Marshall Johnson.

suspecting Justice suffered alone on the farm. Finally she feared he must be ill and went to Chicago, when she discovered the facts. The woman fainted and Jud cut his own throat.

"A Deal in Wheat" is a collection of short stories by the late Frank Morris. The title is suggestive of Chicago, but the facts in the stories are of the west of the plains.

"Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," by Kate Douglas Wiggin. In "Rebecca" Mrs. Wiggin gives her readers a character that is irresistible in her quaint, humorous originality.

"The Career of Mrs. Osborne," by Helen Milcote. This novel narrates the adventures of two charming young women who escape from tiresome country relations and take an apartment in London.

"Four Epochs of Woman's Life," by Anna M. Galbraith. M. D. is a work written for the instruction of the laity on subjects of which every woman should have a thorough knowledge.

ITS CARTOON A BOOMERANG

World-Herald's Zeal for "Nonpartisan" Ticket Proves Disastrous.

EFFORT TO ELECT DEMOCRATS UNMASKED

Judge Bartlett Exposes the Trick Behind Which the Effort to Defeat Two Republican Candidates is Masquerading.

E. M. Bartlett, chairman of the judicial campaign committee for the Fourth judicial district, in speaking of the antics of the World-Herald in its campaign, says: "The front page of the Morning World-Herald of October 8 has a cartoon. It is a picture of a man selling goods over the counter, before whose wondering gaze the merchant holds the flimsy, gaudy stuff.

"Turning from this cartoon to the editorial page of the same paper the true character of these goods is disclosed. The cotton threads, frayed out, proclaim it to be shoddy. It does not feel like wool. There is something wrong with it. And the tell-tale material, which enters into the cloth, can be plainly seen under the editorial heading, 'A Dangerous Inflection.'

"Going back in the files of the World-Herald to September 24, last, we find some more indications of the cotton warp. The headlines: 'Bar Ticket Nominated by the Democrats. Favor the Selection of Nonpartisan Judiciary in This Judicial District.'

"But, in starting out upon this course they find that Sears' record is too strong for them. Much to their dismay, they learn that he is one of the ablest lawyers in the district, and is popular and well thought of at his own home.

"The World-Herald's attack on account of his alleged incompetency proved to be so absurd that it put Sears way ahead, but a place must be made for a democrat at all hazards. The World-Herald is not interested in Dickinson and Read, apatate republicans, but is interested in Ferguson and Page, stonon pure democrats.

"The World-Herald applied the ax to Dickinson's head. It was a bloody act, but it had to be done. True, Dickinson had ruined his chances politically when from pique or desire to hold office he left his own party and made a democratic nonpartisan, but to make assurance of his defeat doubly sure the World-Herald takes the pains to adjust Dickinson's head to the editorial gulletline in the morning edition of October 8 in this fashion:

"Government by inflection has come to be recognized as one of the great evils of the day, and a restraining order, which has been granted by Judge Dickinson in this district, is certainly open to criticism. In the past the World-Herald has had much to say in praise of the inflection. It has been one of the best and ablest judges of this district, and its conduct has given him most earnest support in his candidacy for re-election.

"The defendant in this case was a resident of the burnt district. It is late in the increase in the number of cases where larceny from the person was charged, has worried the county officials, as it is a hard matter to secure convictions in these cases. The plaintiff in this case, H. D. Jones, had six 20 gold pieces taken from his person and charged Miss Brown with the theft. The case was called before Judge Estelle Tuesday morning and yesterday afternoon the jury returned a verdict of guilty and the defendant is therefore subject to a penitentiary sentence.

"Speaking of this case, Judge Estelle said: 'This conviction is a matter of much concern to me and I am gratified to know that we have established this precedent. It will give the habitues of the resorts in this district a new idea of what they may expect in future cases of this kind. They victimize every one of the persons who have exhibited such poor judgment as to visit these places. There are no reasons however, why wholesale robberies should be made a rule, and these resorts.'

"In this case the prosecuting attorney was Assistant County Attorney Frank L. Weaver.
