SEES BIG THINGS FOR OMAHA

President Fish of Illinois Central Says it is Natural Grain Center.

DOUBTS, BUT WISHES STICKNEY SUCCESS

Says All Roads Must Co-Operate to Perfect Uchests-Cornelius Vanderbilt and John Jacob Astor with Fish.

"President Stickney of the Great Western has a great big proposition on his hands in this city," said President Dwight Fish of the Illinois Central at the depot yesterday.

"I am inclined to think that he is going to have trouble in carrying out his scheme, unless he receives the cordial support of all the other roads entering Omaha. My belief is that there is more in Omaha than there is in Mr. Stickney."

President Fish and party came in this morning over the Illinois Central in a special train, it being the annual tour of inspection of the directors of the railroad.

In the party beside Mr. Fish were Second Vice President J. T. Harahan and Director Robert O. Johnson, both of Chicago, and Mr. Stickney in Chicago quite a time ago and I advised him to take his road further west, but he said he was content to make Omaha the terminal and establish a grain market in this city.

GOSSIP ON COMMISSION ROW

Alley is Harrow-Stricken Over Loss of Fowl Life, but Price is Stationary.

Commission Row is harrow-stricken at the fearful tragedy of the morning, when 113 of the most respected fowls met death in the fire on Howard street. Never has been such a loss of life! The chickens were well smothered, to use the restaurant term. No change in price will follow the catastrophe, however.

A new foreign invasion of the Row occurred Wednesday. Canadians. The cold weather is just me for these burly rutabagas. A car got in during the day and now is practically cleaned up. This does not mean that the rutabagas are cleaner than any of the other Indians, but they are more popular. Another car is billed in during the week and the grocers are storing them, so that their customers can make good Indians of them as fast as possible. They are fine big bucks, weighing from two to seven pounds each and will wholesale at 1 cent a pound.

The species of fruit classed as California, is about all located in the happy hunting ground. Today grapes will last yet another two or three weeks and a car of them will come to market. Muscat grapes are to be with us a little shorter time. The pears have about all reached here now, but enough winter sellers, Vickers and Keller are up against the ice to supply the market until Christmas. The pears are given two weeks yet, but really cold weather will stop the deal. Quinces also are among those soon to vanish. The California box quince, which is better than the New York barrel quince, will have ended when one more car has been canned. They are exciting at 15 per cent. The New Yorkers are too high this year for the western market and so are accented. They are said to be selling at home now for $1.50, wholesale.

The great white grapes of Malaga will be doing the Spanish tarañilla over the newly repaired commission asphalt next week as some of them, the first over for the season, have been bought in the New York auctions and are on the way. They are in barrels, packed with cork scraps and will keep all winter. Veneda white grapes from California are billed also for next week.

The California box quince, which is better than the New York barrel quince, will have ended when one more car has been canned. They are exciting at 15 per cent. The New Yorkers are too high this year for the western market and so are accented. They are said to be selling at home now for $1.50, wholesale.

The species of fruit classed as California, is about all located in the happy hunting ground. Today grapes will last yet another two or three weeks and a car of them will come to market. Muscat grapes are to be with us a little shorter time. The pears have about all reached here now, but enough winter sellers, Vickers and Keller are up against the ice to supply the market until Christmas. The pears are given two weeks yet, but really cold weather will stop the deal. Quinces also are among those soon to vanish.
