REPUBLICAN FIELD NIGHT

Many Voters Turn Out to Rallies in Different Wards

SOUTH SIDERS SHOW MAGNIFICENT FRONT

Crowd at National Hall Listens to Leaders of United Party Who Eloquently Expound the Gospel of Harmony.

A good crowd, that applauded frequently and displayed a keen interest throughout, heard republican speeches from the mouths of many orators in National hall at Thirtieth and William street Thursday. The meeting was held under the joint auspices of the First and Second Ward Republican clubs. In more ways than one it was a surprise, first in point of attendance and secondly in the quality of the offerings from the platform. The speakers aside from candidates were Chairman Cowell, E. J. Cornish, John L. Kennedy and Edward Rosewater.

E. J. Cornish, who was presented by J. F. Behm as "our next congressman," acted as chairman. He made a short speech on national issues. "Nationally we are confronted by a new situation," said Mr. Cornish. "In addition to feeding the world, our manufactured goods have been distributed all over the world. We have underpaid England in steel, have taken away contracts for bridges and railroads from their own people. We find that Germany has placed a discriminating tariff against our goods. In Great Britain Mr. Chamberlain, the one statesman of that country who is said to have an aggressive policy to offer, has proposed our successful policy of protection. Europe, we are told, is combining to stop the invasion of our trade. The same is reported from the South American republics. Under the republican policy of protection our manufactures have increased, and flourished until we have forced the world to combine against us.

Cannot Trust Theorists.

"To meet this critical situation we cannot trust any party that is committed utterly to a theory. We must solve such a question in a practical way and the ones who solve must adapt their means to the peculiarities of the question before them. We have monopoly and its dangers to consider, but in Theodore Roosevelt we have a president who has the courage and the firmness to meet conditions in a practical way and to stop every monopoly that does injustice. We are again fortunate in having Roosevelt as president in the midst of the perplexities that pertain to labor. In forcing the coal strike to an end the president showed himself to be the friend of the laboring man, and for this reason I believe that the republican party will have the confidence of the laboring men next fall."

In part John L. Kennedy said: "I have seen something of controversies and conflicts that we have had in the republican party. I am not one of those who believe that you should not have conflicts, because from conflict comes strength. My candid opinion tonight is that in all my experience with the party in twenty years in this city, that it has never been so firmly united as it is today."

Opportunity for Good Example.

"We want to make the victory in the next presidential campaign overwhelming and we must stand together this fall for our county ticket, our judicial ticket and our state ticket. By doing the work that comes to our hands we can give republican strength to the county, to Nebraska and to the nation. Let our neighbors take care of their own work and let us look after our own."

Scheme of the Democrats.

"What the vote was taken as to whether or not the Bar association should take any action at all, the result was very close and there was considerable confusion. I had those who voted one way pass through a small gate and be counted and then counted the other side and we found that the proposition to take action had carried by five or six votes. It was noticeable that nearly every man who favored taking action was a democrat and nearly every man advocating taking no action was a republican. The association divided practically on party lines. The ticket was selected and a committee appointed to present the recommendations to the parties. As you know there was one democrat placed on the ticket and six republican. As a delegate in the republican convention I was one of two men who voted to receive the report of the Bar association. It was laid on the table, and I participated in selecting the republican ticket that stands for your approval today. "Now, remember the bar's action at best was merely a recommendation. The association had no right to do anything more than recommend, and when our party refused to heed the recommendation, I stood by the party in selecting a ticket and it is the duty of every republican to help elect that ticket."

Speaks for Sears and Sutton.

"They tell us that some of the men we selected are not competent and they have picked out two men to so declare. They are Judge Sears and Mr. Sutton, one from Burt county and the other from South Omaha. Mr. Sears sits here on this platform. He has served two terms in the legislature, he has been speaker of the house, he has been mayor of Tekamah several terms and city attorney, and he served three terms as county attorney and bears the reputation of being the best county attorney Burt county ever had. "As in the case of Mr. Sutton, he was chosen because it was thought by his residence in Omaha he could most easily be defeated. The worst charge that can be brought against Mr. Sutton is that he is young. That is true, he is only 27, but he has served in the legislature and for as long as county commissioners, and has been a successful lawyer. So far as I know he has discharged faithfully every duty he has been called upon to perform. I know nothing in the records of these two men that would justify the charge of incompetency."

"Don't forget Judge Barnes.

"Don't forget Judge Barnes. I know Judge Barnes personally and I know some of his qualifications, and I know further that if you elect Judge Barnes to the supreme court you will not lower the standard of the supreme bench."

All Together as Republicans.

Edward Rosewater, who spoke late, confined his remarks almost entirely to national issues. "From what I have seen here tonight it seems to me that every man in this hall is a republican and that we are all going to act as republicans this year. So there is no argument to advance and I really don't want to go back forty years and tell you how I became a republican. I feel sure that unless an earthquake or a cyclone or some similar calamity changes the situation that the whole republican ticket will be elected this fall by the usual republican majority of from 1,200 to 1,500. Robert Cowell, the campaign chairman, told a few humorous stories, predicted republican success and evoked cheers by mentioning the name of John L. Webster for vice president. He declared that apathy and that only could spoil republican success this fall.

Voices of the Candidates.

Here is a little of what each candidate had to say:
Charles Untit, for County Clerk—I am much impressed with the general sentiment throughout the city that the republicans are once more lined up against the common enemy. If we can get a full registration there will be more straight republican votes cast than at any time in ten years.
E. F. Bralley, for Coroner—In my last campaign I carried the Second ward and nearly carried the First. In visiting these wards during the last few days I find I have lost no friends and gained many new ones.
James Allan, for Sheriff—I made a square fight for the nomination and I am making a square fight for election and any man who makes a square fight in this campaign is entitled to the full vote of the republican party in Douglas county, and I believe he will get it.
Harry D. Reed, for County Assessor—If I am elected to this office I will fill it to the best of my ability and everyone will be treated as fairly and honestly as I know how.
W. W. Bingham, for Clerk of the District Court—I promise if I am elected to perform the duties of the office in such a manner as to reflect credit upon the party and your humble servant.

Louis Berka, for Police Magistrate—I have often been tried, never denied, and of course I am willing to be tried again. Nearly every man I try to talk to about the republican ticket waves me aside and tells me that he has already decided to vote for the men upon it.
M. J. Kennard, for County Commissioner—I shall endeavor, if elected, to make every one of your dollars buy a dollar's worth.
Duncan M. Vinsonhale, for County Judge—I want to urge upon you and ask you to urge upon your neighbor to register and then to carry out the program by voting for the ticket from top to bottom on November 2. We are incompetent and there is more favorable circumstances than for ten years.

What Judge Sears Says.

W. G. Sears, for Judge of the District Court—During the last ten years I never asked any man in Burt county for a vote in a primary or an election or for a designation to bring down here. What they have done for me up there they have done out of the goodness of their hearts. The democratic press has brought the charge of incompetency against me. I have no right, all things considered, to plead my own case in such a question as this. All I can say is that I am incompetent and there is someone else competent to fill the place to which I aspire, you will subserve your own interests by voting for the other man. Whatever your verdict is I am willing to accept it in the proper spirit.

KEEPING UP THE ENTHUSIASM

Fifth Warders Take Part in a Rousing Rally and Cheer the Speakers.

"Keep up the enthusiasm," was the slogan at the rally of the Fifth Ward Republican club held at Young's hall, Sherman avenue and Corby, Thursday evening.
A. W. Jefferts and R. W. Richardson were advertised as the principal speakers and this sufficed to pack the spacious meeting place from rostrum to staircase.

We Eat Too Much

We eat too fast, we exercise too little, we overwork our nerves. The stomach and bowels get clogged. (Constipation.) The liver gets upset. (Biliousness.) W. G. Sears, candidate from Burt county for district judge, was present, and lent his voice and efforts towards making the rally the success it was. Judge D. M. Vinsonhale, who was making the rounds of ward meetings, opened the ball at the Fifth ward rally with a few well chosen remarks on party harmony.

Mr. Sears, the next speaker introduced, said: "I am glad to be with you tonight and especially of the opportunity to speak after Judge Vinsonhale, with whom I have been in close touch—in the World-Herald and elsewhere—for several days. The election I find has resolved itself merely into a question of getting out the republican voters on election day to insure that republican success we are entitled to."

Mr. Sears declared that the influence of the coming election in Douglas county would be felt all over the state. Harmony such as now prevailed meant success and he added: "The country at large has a right to know that Nebraska is in union with the national party and by your action in the coming election here in Douglas county you can influence success in the state at the next general election."

F. W. McGinnis, candidate for constable, addressed the meeting briefly and was followed by A. W. Jefferts. Mr. Jefferts, who was introduced as one of the prime movers in harmony ranks, said in part:
"It might be well for all of us to ask why we are here tonight. Did I attempt to answer this question for myself it would take me back to the days when Garfield and Arthur ran for office and as a boy I marched proudly in the van of a long procession with a torch."

"James G. Blaine, Harrison, McKinley and Roosevelt are types of men the republican party has made and who have helped make the republican party of today," the speaker said, "and humanity has advanced along the plane of civilization under laws made by the republican party and administered by republicans in office, on which the impress of the exalted characters of such men as I have named has been left. That's one reason we are here. There is yet another."

R. W. Richardson was next introduced and eloquently reviewed the judicial situation. He referred scathingly to the attempt of the democratic press to hold up its candidate for supreme judge as the one candidate pledged to the people as against the corporations and cited a case wherein all the people, so to speak, had been arrayed against all the corporations in the supreme court and in which case the democratic nominee had handed down an unbiased decision, but a decision strictly in favor of the corporations. The speaker called upon all republicans to stand by the nominees of all judicial candidates. They were all good men on both tickets, he declared, but the republican nominees stood for and advocated the principles of the republican party and were entitled to the suffrage of all voters of the party for this reason if for no other.

The rally was brought to a fitting close by Police Magistrate Louis Berka, who predicted a sweeping victory for all republican candidates on November 2.

One Meeting Postponed.

The Sixth and Ninth Ward Republican club meeting announced for Thirty-fourth and Parker streets last evening was declared off, because of some confusion as to the location of the meeting, which was intended to be held at Thirty-fourth and Decatur streets, at the headquarters of the Prospect Hill Improvement club. A considerable number of republicans were present, but the assembly was so late in getting together and so some of the speakers and candidates desired to attend the First ward meeting at Thirtieth and William streets it was decided to postpone the meeting to some other date.
