PAPA RELENTS AFTER ALL

Irascible Father Becomes Reconciled at Daughter's Marriage and Plans Rich Surprises.

WILL BUILD A HOUSE FOR YOUNG COUPLE

No Name or Address Mentioned in Building Permit, Least the Secret Reach Ears of Others.

There is the story of the blank building permit issued at the city hall, and which is a romance. The duplicate record is blank save for the description of the building and the estimated cost—$2,500.

Behind it is said to be a pretty story—a tale of a hard-hearted father, a well-beloved daughter and an unwelcome son-in-law.

Later a repenting and now restitution in the way of a home for the couple, which they are to know nothing about until her father escorts them there and becomes a prominent figure in the house warming.

Meanwhile strict secrecy is enjoined and Chief Clerk Groves of the building department simply will not tell names. He has been entrusted with a secret and he says he intends to keep it.

Only Daughter. It seems that the bride is young and an only daughter in a home where she had everything desirable and nice all her life.

A year or so ago she met a good looking and brave-hearted young man, who had the power to charm the girl, but lacked a bank account to "entrance the papa."

Nevertheless, true love will have its way, even in these worldly days, and true love did not have the switch thrown on it this time, though the angered papa tried his worst.

They were married and have been getting along on next to nothing in two little rooms since. The parents have allowed them to call on him and patch up a trace, but he still swears at the groom under his breath.

He has found some good qualities in him, however, and has decided to help out the new unit of society. Thereby the house and the blank building permit.

FIRST SESSION IS NOISY

Hisss and Uproar Heard at Meeting of Employers at Chicago.

DIFFICULT TO NAME THE NEW SOCIETY

After Talk and Adjournment Bitter Feeling Prevails and Organization is Called Citizens' Industrial Association of America.

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Unable to decide upon a name for the organization, the conference for the purpose of forming a national federation of employers' associations to cope with the labor problems, which began here today, was compelled temporarily to adjourn amid the hisss and hisses of the assembled delegates.

A number of the delegates who represent national trade organizations of the country insisted that the new body should not have the words "citizens' alliance" or "alliance" in its title, while those representing the Citizens' alliance, composed of employers and employees, were firm in desiring recognition.

Each side gave its reason for wanting or not wanting a certain title, the alliance idea adherents asserting that to call it an employers' organization exclusively would be a class movement, while if the alliance were recognized in the name, the movement would become broader.

Previous to the discussion over the matter, the rules and regulations committee had reported in harmony to the convention and the credentials committee had announced that 200 delegates, representing many national trade organizations and from nearly every state in the union were present.

The convention, which was in executive session, was then ready to take up the matter of constitution and by-laws and the debate over the question of the name of the proposed organization began immediately. It continued for some time, the question being put to a vote several times, but all was confusion and before a decision could be arrived at a motion to adjourn was made by the more conservative delegates and carried.

Hissses and Uproar.

At this juncture S. T. Ballard of Louisville, one of the delegates, mounting a chair, spoke on the matter of the alliance and denounced the delegates who were venturing for wasting time in what he believed useless talk. He was hissed and the uproar continued until most of the delegates left the hall.

Some are in favor of admitting the alliance and giving them recognition in the name of the organization, as they believe it will aid their cause.

Among those who spoke on the matter was Former United States Senator Saunders, who told of the good results of the alliance in Montana. J. Kirby, Jr., president of the employers' association of Dayton, O., said the alliance matter should not be carried so far as to eliminate the employer. Rev. W. J. H. Boetcker of Shelbyville, Ind., feared a class movement if alliances were not represented and advocated employers' bureaus in every city.

Thadwick of Brooklyn declared no industry was intended by employers in the movement, which he said was to put down the tumult and disorder and uphold the constitution. Phillip R. Toll of Kansas City, president of the employers' association there, also spoke.

Name is Selected.

The addresses of the delegates were conservative, and showed a disposition to favor the name of the organization which they believe to be their rights in the labor problem and to treat labor fairly. The majority of the delegates are declared to be in favor of provisions in the constitution and by-laws which are said to be fair to the unions.

A large fund, it is said, to be raised by per capita assessment, will be used to extend the work of organization throughout the country.

Representatives of state, national, city and interstate organizations, as well as specific crafts, were present at a decidedly gathering. It is expected that officers will be elected tomorrow.

When the convention reassembled at night, harmony had been restored, and it was voted unanimously to adopt the name "Citizens' Industrial Association of America."

Objects of Association.

The objects of the association, as set forth in the constitution and by-laws, which were adopted tonight, are:

First—To assist, by all lawful and practical means, the properly constituted authorities of the state in the enforcement of the law and the rights of the citizen.

Second—To assist all the people of America in resisting encroachments on their constitutional rights.

Third—To promote and encourage harmonious relations between employers and their employees on a basis of equal justice to both.

Fourth—To assist local, state and national associations of employers and employees in their efforts to establish and maintain industrial peace, and to create and direct a public sentiment in opposition to all forms of violence, coercion and intimidation.

Fifth—To foster and encourage by legitimate means enterprise and freedom in management of industry.

Sixth—To establish a bureau of organization for the formation of associations favorable to the interests of the state, and federating them with the association.

Seventh—To establish a bureau of education for the publication and distribution of literature tending to foster the objects of the association.

Eighth—To create and maintain a fund for such purposes, in harmony with and promote the objects of this association.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 28.—This is John Mitchell day; that is to say, all the United Mine Workers of America in the Lackawanna and Wyoming regions were out on parade to the number of 50,000. Mr. Mitchell and Alexander T. Connel, mayor of the city, rode in the first carriage. The parade ended on the river front, where Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Duncan made speeches on the topic of labor and trades unionism.

In his speech Mr. Mitchell referred to statements made that he was not ambitious in a political way. He said that he could not be induced to accept any political office. His only ambition, he said, was to further the trades union movement. His speech in the main was a practical talk to the mine workers, encouraging them to loyal maintenance of the union.

Tonight Mr. Mitchell tendered a banquet at the St. Charles hotel by officers of District No. 1 of the United Mine Workers of America.

COSSIP OF THE POLITICIANS

Chairman Cowell Takes Steps to Prevent Repeating by Democrats.

RUMORS OF UNFAIR WORK CURRENT

List of Meetings to be Held—Sears Commended as Staunch Friend of Organized Labor.

Chairman Cowell of the republican county committee issued this statement yesterday: Information has been brought to republicans by the press that certain interests among the democrats propose to have a number of men vote in different precincts under different names on election day. The republican county committee offers $100 reward for the detection and conviction of any man found so doing.

In connection with this scheme it is intimated that a gang of men will be registered under different names in precincts in the First, Second and Third wards on Saturday. The engineers of the scheme seem to rely upon the short time between the last registration day and the election to protect them, but for their benefit I will say that just as soon as the lists are returned a force of men will be set to work to check them. Every suspicious name will be run down and preparations made to trap the repeater if he tries to vote more than once or under an assumed name.

Tonight the seventh ward republicans will hold another meeting—this time further toward the western boundaries of the city or in Ruhe's hall at Forty-fourth and Leavenworth streets. J. E. Van Gilder and H. F. Stoddard will be the speakers.

The Fifth and sixth ward republicans will combine in a meeting in Magaolia hall, Twenty-fourth street and Ames avenue, Saturday night. The program carries some good speakers—namely John L. Kennedy, David H. Mercer, Frank E. Moore and W. F. Gurley.

Arrangements are being made for a monster mass meeting of South Omaha republicans in the Auditorium there Saturday night. Speakers so far secured are Byron G. Burbank, L. R. Andrews, Howard H. Baldrige and A. H. Burnett.

"Any laboring man that declines to cast a vote for W. G. Sears for district judge is an ingrate," said John C. Lynch yesterday. Mr. Lynch is chairman of the legislative committee of the State Society of Labor and Industry, and spent the winter at Lincoln as the special representative of trades unions' interests.

"Mr. Sears proved himself our friend and time again in the house," continued Mr. Lynch. "Whenever a bill in the interests of labor was to be submitted he was the man to be entrusted with it, and he never failed to do his full duty in trying to have it passed. It took us some time to discover that Mr. Sears was our friend, as we had had nothing in common with him, but we found this fact out early—that the representative from Burt county was on the square and that it was his habit to do and fight for what he thought was right. Those bills we got through, for instance, that desired by the plumbers of the state, may be traced to the efficient work done by Mr. Sears. Therefore a union workman who joins against an unscrupulous and opportunistic candidate will make a serious mistake."

LOOKING OUT FOR HIS PAL'S Hobo Wanted Ticket Agent to Wire the Departure of Two Empties.

A Pullman conductor related the following incident yesterday morning at the Union depot: "At a small way station on the Illinois Central not far from Omaha, two hoboes approached the ticket window and one of them led off with the remark: "Say, is youse de agent?"

"To which the man inside answered in the affirmative: "Well, can youse run de wire?"

"At receiving no answer the Weary Willie again remarked: "I mean can youse operate?"

"The ticket man said 'yes' and the hobo replied: "Well, just tell de guy at de other end that two empties passed here goin' south."
