That the vicinity of Hinton station, a few miles east of this city, was a gathering place for the Indian tribes before the arrival of white men has been proven by E. E. Blackman, archaeologist of the Nebraska State Historical Society.

Mr. Blackman secured from Olla E. Allis, a son of Father Allis, several interesting relics. Father Allis came to Nebraska in 1835 as missionary to the Pawnee Indians.

On the train was a woman traveling from the west with the body of her dead sister. Although badly bruised, and notwithstanding her grief, she assisted actively in caring for the injured. The most severely wounded were taken to the company's hospital at Fort Madison, Ia., and the others sent to Chicago. Shock Prostrates Husband. CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Commander Booth-Tucker, who arrived in Chicago today, expecting to join his wife here, was prostrated by the shock of Mrs. Booth-Tucker's death. At the Salvation Army headquarters, where he appeared soon after his arrival, he declined to be interviewed and denied himself to all but his intimate friends.

Courts in Disagreement. "I had always supposed that a judgment of affirmance here was final, no matter what the grounds of the decision, if the tribunal is not a court of last resort then I have misinterpreted the constitution." So wrote Justice Deemer in a dissenting opinion in the case of Bevering against Smith. Justice Sherwin concurred in the dissent. The majority opinion reversed the ruling of Judge Bank when the defendant had demanded a second trial. The case had been affirmed on motion when it came before the court before. A division line was in controversy and the court holds that decisions rendered since the first decision have changed the situation and the case is therefore reversed and the defendant is now granted a new trial. It is in making objections to this somewhat irregular way of getting twice before the courts on the same question that the court divided squarely and the sharp words of the dissenting judges were written.

Reversed Itself Twice. The court reversed itself squarely on another case today. In the case of Whittice against the Burlington, Cedar Rapids & Northern, a damage case, the court last spring affirmed the lower court on the ground that certain evidence relating to broken rails was properly rejected. Now it has been shown that the purpose of introducing the evidence was to show that the company had too tight rails and they were continually subject to breakages and hence the company was negligent. On this explanation the case is now reversed and sent back for second trial.

Salvation Army in 1888 and held that post two years. He was then made national social secretary for the United States and in that position had charge of all the social and colonizing work.

These duties fitted him for the governorship of the Colorado colony established five years ago. Its great success has been due largely to the business ability of Colonel Holland, who was a convincing speaker, a skillful organizer and was looked upon as one of the strongest men in the army. He has a wife and three children at Amity.

The following telegram was received at the Salvation Army headquarters today from Mrs. Booth-Tucker's secretary, Ensign Hester Danmes, who was also on the train, but was not injured: Consul passed from earth to heaven. Bringing body on board same train.

Volunteers Adopt Resolutions. PITTSBURGH, Oct. 29.—Colonel Krafts of the Volunteers of America received an official notification from the Salvation Army headquarters in New York, confirming the death of Mrs. Booth-Tucker in the railroad accident.

The reception that was to have been held by the Volunteers of America for the members of the field council was indefinitely postponed. General Ballington Booth will leave tomorrow night for New York and he and his wife will attend the funeral of his sister.

The following resolution was passed today by the Volunteers of America: The grand field council of the Volunteers of America, in session assembled at the city of Pittsburgh, having heard with deep regret through the press dispatches of the disastrous railroad accident in which Mrs. Booth-Tucker has been reported seriously, if not fatally injured.

Resolved, That the council wishes to extend its sincere sympathy to the members of that organization of which she is a leader, and especially to the members of the Booth family in this hour of sorrow.

News of Death in London. LONDON, Oct. 29.—The news of the death of Mrs. Booth-Tucker reached the international Salvationist headquarters here through a dispatch of the Associated Press. The heads of the international departments immediately met, held a short service and dispatched a cable message of sympathy to the Salvation Army headquarters in New York.

General Booth lives out of town and Bramwell Booth wished to go to his residence and break the news of Mrs. Booth-Tucker's death. General William Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army has sent the following message to Salvationists throughout the world concerning the tragic death of his daughter, Mrs. Booth-Tucker: I am suddenly prostrated with grief in the presence of what appears at the moment to be an indescribable calamity and an unattractable mystery. I can only look up and say to my heavenly father: 'Thy will be done.'

My daughter was, after her mother, first among the many noble and consecrated women I have been permitted to know during the fifty years of my public life. Her loss is irreparable, but so much more is there for me, for you and for all to go on with my purpose for God and the blessing of our fellowmen. This however my heart may bleed, is my work, so long as He may prolong my life. The how will fall with intense severity upon Commander Booth-Tucker and on my officers and soldiers in America, for whom my daughter has fought and toiled so long. In the midst of my own sorrow my heart goes up to God on their behalf. Pray for them, dear friends. I am trusting for strength to go on with my own duties and praying that our great agency of alleviating the sorrows of the suffering world may not be hindered by this visitation.
