Cheshire, exstate senator, presided at the meeting and introduced Mr. Dolliver. The latter discussed national issues and chiefly the tariff question. On this he presented the view of the tariff as stated in the Iowa and national platforms and made an earnest plea' for reciprocity and protection. He discussed the tariff schedules in all their phases and painted a glowing picture of the progress of the country under protection. Mr. Dolliver has seldom delivered political addresses in Des Moines and for this reason he was followed closely. He predicted that the republican majority in this state would be as large as usual and scouted the democratic pretensions that there is any disaffection in Iowa making for a reduction of the republican majority.
