Destroys the Brickwork in Manhole and Does Other Damage.

COMES FROM A LEAK IN THE GAS MAINS

Man Had Just Censed Working in One of Manholes When Explosion Occurred-No One is Injured:

Illuminating gas, which had gathered in the recently constructed underground conduits of the telephone company on Main street, exploded last evening shortly after 5 o'clock. The force of the explosion tore out the briework of the manhole on North Main street and blew the heavy iron cover fifty feet into the air. On South Main street, at the corner of the alley south of Broadway, the iron cover of the manhole was blown off and the same thing happened at the manhole in the afley near Fourth street. A wondow on the secand floor of DeVol's store, on North Main street, was shattered by the force of the explosion, but although there was a number of people passing in the vicinity of the

The gas is supposed to have come from a leak in the main on North Main street and to have gradually filled the telephone company's conduits. The smell of gas on North Main street has been very noticeable for several days and workmen in the employ of the telephone company have several times been forced to quit working in the manholes of the conduits on account of it. It luckly happened that only a few minutes before the explosion one of the workmen had quit working in the manhole near the alley on South Main street.

Investigation shortly after the explosion led to the belief that the gas which was of the association he will insist that his sceping out from the manhole in the alley brother clergymen take action on the matnorth of Broadway became ignited from a ter. heap of burning rubbish and that this

There are 97,514 books, pamphlets and documents in the Iowa state library and the historical library. This includes actual count of the books in the law and historical departments and there is a slight discrepancy between the books and pamphlets of record and those shown by actual count, the record being 2,637 less for the total. The discrepancy is due to the fact that many pamphlets have not been counted and for other reasons relating to the pamphlets. The total of record in the library proper is 67,687. State Librarian Brigham calls attention to the fact that the failure of the last legislature to provide for completing the state historical building made it impossible to carry out the mandate of the legislature in the matter of transfer of the historical library to the historical department and a temporizing policy has been continued to await the finish of the building. There should also have been a bookkeeper provided for the library. The report of A. J. Small, curator of the law department, is included. There are 24,118 books and pamphlets in the law library. Legislative Doubtful List.

The complete returns have not yet been received as to the legislative districts in the state. Today the democrats laid claim to several legislative seats that had not been claimed before. They elected R. C. Sterton to the senate in the Jones-Cedar district over T. B. Hanley, who is a member of the board of regents of the State university. The democrats claim that they from also elected members of the house in Mahasks, Keokuk and Appanoose, where yesterday it was believed the republicans had all three counties. If these figures are reliable the democrats will have eight in the senate and twenty-four in the house. Chairman Spence of the republican state com mittee returned home this morning and the state committee will not get any more reports on the election.
