position of the grand jury was in some way made subservient to the district attorney's desires, to which color has been lent by the fact that for the first time in years not a man on the jury comes from either Omaha, Lincoln or Hastings. Witnesses who might have given evidence favorable to the senator have also complained of mistreatment, being required to tell the district attorney in advance what statements they were to make and if not according to his ideas refused admittance to the grand jury room. District Attorney Summers' face was wreathed in smiles yesterday afternoon when the grand jury had adjourned, disclosing beyond possible doubt the fact that he had gained the point for which he had been striving so strenuously.

Protest on Treatment.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—(Special Telegram.)—Early this morning Senator Dietrich received the following telegram:

HASTINGS, Neb., Nov. 15.—I go before grand jury in morning at 9. Somebody told me that unless I make certain statements that were not true he would indict me. He has sent the same word to Mr. Lowe. Will you see the president tonight and lay the case before him? I will be in Hastings until 2:30 and go to Omaha on No. 6. Wire me here before 2 o'clock and Omaha care of our firm.

WILLIAM R. DUTTON.

Responding to the appeal the following messages were wired to William Dutton:

You and Lowe have courage to be honest. State all facts to the jury. You will be protected. C. H. DIETRICH.

Judge W. H. Munger, United States Court, Omaha: In the name of decency and justice, I appeal to you to see that witnesses shall have fair treatment before the grand jury. C. H. DIETRICH.

Mr. Dutton of Hastings was in the city this morning and testified before the grand jury. He said:

"There are matters pertaining to the postoffice matter that have never come out yet, which would put it in an entirely different light. The negotiations for the lease of the Dietrich building were begun while Mr. Dietrich was still governor and were legitimate transactions in every respect. The old lease of the building for $1,800 was abrogated and a new lease made for a far less sum. The $1,800 lease contemplated a building with fixtures, but there were so many objections and protests from various parts of town that the lease was finally made for the mere shell of the building, and Mr. Fisher bought the fixtures of the Grand Army.

"The story of the Alma postoffice deal is a mere fabrication and there is no truth in it. The man who was to raise the alleged $1,000 couldn't raise $100 for any purpose.

"None of the witnesses for Mr. Dietrich have yet been examined, though they have been here for a week. I candidly do not think there is anything in the case more than the fomentation of a lot of mischievous gossip. I believe the grand jury begins to think so, too."

Judge Munger did not wish to enter into any discussion of the matter at all.

A significant feature in the Hastings postoffice investigation before the grand jury lies in the fact that Postmaster Jacob Fisher and Deputy Postmaster Francis were discharged as witnesses before the grand jury this afternoon. Neither of the gentlemen were called upon by Mr. Summers to testify before the jury.

All Witnesses Dismissed.

The federal grand jury has finished its inquisition into the Hastings postoffice case and all the witnesses have been discharged. Neither Postmaster Fisher, the logical chief witness in the affair, nor his deputy, Mr. Francis, was called upon to testify. The popular impression about the federal building seems to be that the investigation has fallen flat and that no indictment will be returned in the matter.

The Alma postoffice case, wherein it is charged that the present incumbent had to pay $1,000 for his appointment, is yet to be heard. The charges in this case are in many respects similar to the Hastings matter and are the outgrowth of a political quarrel there. It is believed by well informed parties that this investigation also will fail to materialize into anything more than the reiteration of groundless gossip that has prevailed throughout Adams and Webster counties for several months, and which is stimulated by Senator Dietrich's enemies.

South Auburn Postoffice.

A number of witnesses was at the federal building Monday morning that were summoned in the South Auburn postoffice scandal and embezzlement case, the incumbent being a brother-in-law of Tom Majors. This case is of a different character from the Adams and Webster county cases and its hearing before the grand jury has been postponed to a later date.

The attention of the grand jury will now be taken up with the investigation of the Indian liquor cases. A host of witnesses are already here and others are yet to come. The investigation of these cases will occupy the entire week.

A STRONG STAFF

The Power of Pure Food.

"Some years ago when we lived in New York City husband and I lost four of our little ones during the hot weather.

"When we moved to Vineland, N. J., we made the acquaintance of the food Grape-Nuts. It was here that our little girl, Majube, was born but she was so frail and 'skinny' that we feared we would lose her as we had the other babies. When she was eight months old we learned about Grape-Nuts and began feeding her this food and now wherever she goes our friends feel her arms she is so plump and her flesh is so firm.

"I am convinced that Grape-Nuts with a little white sugar and boiling water would save many a poor baby's life during the hot weather when milk is sour and the little ones suffer most.

"After seeing the power of Grape-Nuts upon our little girl my husband began its use and all last summer when we lived at Kensington, Pa., he ate Grape-Nuts and no meat. Although he was working at the hardest laboring work, digging ditches all this time he felt strong and well without the meat just so long as he had Grape-Nuts." MISSING PRIEST FOUND MAD

Italian Priest's Enemies Appear to Have Taken Awful Revenge Upon Him.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—Rev. Joseph Cirringone, rector of the Italian Church of the Immaculate Conception in Williams Bridge, a suburb of this city, who disappeared from his home under mysterious circumstances last Friday night, was found early today by a policeman in East Fifty-first street, raving wildly in Italian, and is now in a hospital for insane. Father Cirringone has incurred the enmity of Italians about Williams Bridge by a crusade against vice. He received several threatening letters and had reported the matter to the police, who were endeavoring to locate the writers. Late Friday night two men called upon him and, representing themselves as detectives, asked him to accompany them to the station house. He did not return and it was believed he had been carried off by agents of an Italian secret society.

When found today Father Cirringone fell exhausted into the arms of the policeman, crying out repeatedly, "They have robbed me and they will kill me. Protect me."

A hurried examination of the priest's physical condition was made by a physician, who found that on his wrists were two red marks, similar to those that would have been made had the priest's wrists been bound with a rope.

Under the influence of soothing drugs Father Cirringone became calmer and was able to tell some of his story. He said he had been robbed by the two men who had gone to his home Friday night and whom he had accompanied, believing them to be detectives.

"They took me to the ocean," he said, but beyond this the questioners could get little in detail of where the priest had been. He said when but a few steps from the door of his own home the two men grasped him, one grabbing him by the arms and pinioning them behind him while the other thrust over his nostrils a cloth of some kind, saturated with a pungent liquid. Then he says he lost consciousness and the next he knew was when he found himself in a dark and dismal cellar with his wrists bound.

The priest said that he had been freed but a few minutes before he had been found by the policemen. He said he had been led blindfolded into the street, and then the bandages over his eyes were removed and he had been given a push.

Father Cirringone, when he left his house, had a gold-mounted ebony cane, a valuable gold watch and chain and some money. When found today all were gone.

Friends and relatives of Father Cirringone believe the story of the priest, but the police are awaiting further developments before taking any action for the discovery of the alleged abductors. To Civil Justice Roesch, an old friend of the priest, the latter said there were four men in the gang which abducted him. Only one was an Italian. One of the other men was very rough to him and insisted that he be killed. He said that he heard the men say on Saturday that the papers were filled with the story of his abduction, and this man again insisted that he be killed. The other objected and managed to get this man intoxicated and the priest's life was saved.

HUBBELL GETS THE ROUTE

Kansas Town Loses in Contest Over Rural Free Delivery.

CAPTAIN PERSHING TO BE MADE COLONEL

Quartermaster General Humphrey Defends the Transport Service from Accusation of Being Extravagant.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Congressman Hinshaw saw Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow today relative to a rural route out of Hubbell, Neb., which is on the Kansas line. The Hubbell people had an impression that the establishment of the route in Munden, Kan., would seriously interfere with the Hubbell route if not wholly knocking it out. Mr. Hinshaw was informed that the Munden route had been reported upon adversely and that just as soon as an agent can reach Hubbell and look over the territory to be covered the Hubbell route will be established.

Mr. Hinshaw has prepared a bill which he will introduce on Wednesday, giving to every sailor and soldier who served in the civil war, and who is at present a pensioner, $12 per month.

W. B. Price of Lincoln, former deputy auditor of state, was admitted to practice in the supreme court today on motion of Charles E. Magoon.

Miller to Get a Star.

The next brigadier general to be appointed by the president will in all probability be Colonel James Miller, now at West Point. Colonel Miller served with the president in the Cuban campaign and at San Juan Hill lost an eye. There are serious doubts whether he will be able to retain the sight of the other. In consequence of this physical disability, the president has decided to give a star to his old comrade in arms.

Apportioning Indian Annuities.

Representative Cousins today introduced a bill to provide for the annual pro rata distribution of annuities of the Sac and Fox Indians between the two branches of the tribe, one residing in Oklahoma and the other in Iowa, and to adjust existing claims between the branches of the tribe as to these annuities. The Cousins bill provides for the payments of certain moneys to the Iowa Fox and Sacs which they claim to be due under an old treaty.

Mr. Cousins also introduced a bill providing for repeal of the act which established a uniform sysetm of bankruptcy.

Jesse F. House, supervisor of Indian schools, passed through Washington today on his way to the Cherokee school in North Carolina. Defends Transport Service.

"It has been thought proper in an official report to refer to the army transport service as a most costly luxury," says C. F. Humphrey, quartermaster general of the army, in his annual report to the secretary of war, which was issued today.

"As to its costliness, I submit actual figures and facts. I do not know in what respect the service can be looked upon as a luxury unless reference is made to the excellence of the enlisted men's accommodations. If it be a luxury to furnish our enlisted men with the class of accommodation provided in all the army transports, then I favor the continuance of that luxury.

"In my opinion the transport service needs no defense whatever, and no excuse is offered for it by the department charged with its operations. I for one do not claim that there is any irrevocable military necessity for its continuance, but I submit that the service is unquestionably a very valuable and economical military convenience."

Much of the quartermaster general's report is devoted to discussion of the transport service. The duties that have been performed through the service with the relative cost of transportation by the government and by contract are shown in the report. The total difference in favor of the transport service for a year is placed at $2,248,429 in the report. Interest and transport service for the year cost $939,696 in the Philippine archipelago, while the cost of transporting the same number of passengers and animals and the same amount of freight and mail under the prevailing tariff rates of the Philippines steamship companies, the report says, would have been $1,027,977.

To Protect Yosemite Game.

Lieutenant Colonel Joseph Garrard, acting superintendent of the Yosemite National park, in his annual report recommends the preservation of the game in the forest reserves, bordering on the national parks and reservations; the return to the old Indian custom of systematically burning over portions of the forests of the park every autumn to minimize fire dangers; amendment of the rules and regulations so as explicitly to forbid the location of mines, water and power claims on government lands and any surveying without the permission of the proper authorities; that the government take steps to obtain immediate possession of all patented lands in the forest reserve, as well as in the park; that future acting superintendents be given the position for three years if the exigencies of the military service permit; that the park be made a United States court district, and that a resident commissioner be appointed.

The report estimates that the total number of tourists, who visited the park during the season of 1903 was 9,500.

Cruiser Goes to Corea.

A cablegram received at the navy department from Rear Admiral Evans, commanding the Asiatic station, announced the sailing today of the protected cruiser Albany, from Yokohama, Japan, for Chemulpo, the post of Seoul, the Corean capital, where United States Minister Allen is proceeding to further the request of the United States for the opening to the world's commerce of the Corean port of Wiju, on the Yalu river. It appears from the records of the navy department that Wiju was selected by the United States as a prospective port instead of Yongampho, because, lying forty miles above the latter port, which is at the mouth of the Yalu river, the country within the limit will likewise be opened to traffic and neutralized, a substantial gain in the extent of the market afforded.

The long expected trade treaty between the United States and China which was negotiated in Shanghai by the American commissioners and the Chinese representatives has just reached Washington and is now under examination by the state department officials. It is the intention to submit the new treaty for ratification to the senate at the earliest possible moment. The provisions of the treaty have been previously outlined. In brief the important provisions are those opening to trade the Chinese ports of Mukden and Antung in Manchuria.

Southern Pacific's Expensive Engineering Feat Seems to Have Succeeded at Last.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 16.—The last rail was laid Sunday on the long cut-off of the Southern Pacific railroad across the northern arm of Great Salt lake, from Ogden to Lucin, Nev. President Harriman and other officials of the Harriman system will make a formal trip of inspection of the new line next Friday. It is expected that regular traffic will be inaugurated within sixty days over the cutoff, which is expected to save at least two hours in running time. The long stretch of track across the great inland salt sea is expected to be one of the most picturesque features of transcontinental travel.
