Mother of Van Dine Calls at Police Station and Young Bandit Shows Emotion for the Pirst Time.

CHICAGO, Nov. E .- Indictments were roted by the grand jury today against Harver Van Dein, Peter Neidermeier and Emil Roeski, the three young bandits arrested esterday at the close of a spectacular man-hunt in Indiana. An indicement was also voted against Gustave Marx, who murdered Officer Quinn and was with the others Against Van Deln Indictments were voted charging him with complicity in five murders, against Neidermeier indictments for four murders and against Marx indictments for four murders. Roeski will stand trial for one murder.

n the majority of their crimes.

No action can be taken in Elinois on the murder of Brukeman Sovea in Indiana, nor of the shooting of Detectives Driscoll or Zimmer in Indiana. It is the intention of State Attorney Dineen to bring the men to a trial as quickly as possibile. It may be necessary to have two trials, as, although the four men worked together, it happened that when the greater crimes were committed one of the numbers was absent. Roeski was not at the robbery of the car barns and had no part in the murders committed at that time. Marx was with him when he killed Officer Quinn and was in fall, when the murders were committed in Either one of the two, therefore, will probably have a separate trial, unless a general plea of guilty is made by all four

Following the return of the indictments It is planned to have the young desperadoes brought to an immediate trial. As Gustav Marx and Niedermeier and Van Dein have already made complete confessions of the car barn murders, it is thought the prisoners will plead guilty, in which case a speedy verdict will be reached.

Another Murder Planned.

That another murder was planned by the car barn murderers appears evident from the confession of one of the trio-Roeski, none other than himself being selected as the possible victim.

In his confession to the police Rosski says he was the drudge of the other men. He felt that he was not at any time in the confidence of his companions and during the last few weeks has believed that Neidermeier and Van Dine were ready in 'get rid of him," as he expressed it.

"I never got much," be said. "They used to buy me something to eat and give me a few nickels once in awhile. They after wards got "sore" on me because they thought I might give them away. Marx told me that Neidermeler and Van Dine were going to 'do me up.'

Marx is the man who confessed his part in the car harn robbery, after murdering a policeman following the robbery of saloon, and implicated his three companions who were captured.

"After Marx was arrested for shooting Quinn," continued Roeski. "we swung around town for a while thinking about getting out if he did not squent. We were going to blow up the police station and Van Dine said it would be a good place at Aetna (a town near Millers Station) to get dynamite. Weinesday morning, when we read that Marx had told, we went out to the dugout. Neidermeier had been out there before and had a crasy notion it would be a good place. I guess after we got there they were looking for a chance

Neidermeier's First Murder.

Previous to his career as a holdup man and murderer in Chicago, Peter Niedermeier was already a murderer, according to a story he told in the Harrison street police station tonight. According to his story his first victim was a trainman in Canada. To the police officers, and railroad detectives who were questioning him he related the circumstances as follows:

the circumstances as follows:

In 1885 I was beating my way west on a coal train bound from Portage. Ont. Hiding on top of the train. I was ordered to get off by the man whom they called "Captain," but whose name I never learned. I heard afterwards he was a railroad detective. He ordered me from the train, and when I refused to get off he threw ooal at me. I threw back, and one of the lumps struck him on the head. He then drew a revolver and fired twice at me. Both times he missed me, and then I drew my revolver. I fired six shots, and three of them hit aim. I shot him in the head, in the abdomen and in the side. He ran a few feet and fell dead on top of the car. I heard him, and found no money. Later the train crew came along, and I heard they found $50 in his pockets. I was "sore" when I isanned what I had missed.

PAST WOMEN'T VICE-TRACTION. PAST WORTHY VICE-TEMPLAN, INDEPENDENT ORDER OF GOOD TRANSLAND

Women who know that operations are dangerous; and that too frequently one operation leads to another, rebel against the operating table. Many surgeons are too ready to advise an operation. Mrs. Meder's case and the experience of thousands of other women prove that such extreme measures are usually unnecessary when Wine of Cardui can be obtained.

Wine of Cardui is the best medicine known for the care of the diseases of women. It strengthens the womanly organs and assists nature to restore healthy functions. It relieves all menstrual disorders and cures bearing down pains and ovarian troubles. It corrects barrenness, relieves the worst pains at childbirth, and is beneficial for women of all ages and conditions. It is not only an emergency medicine in the time of pain and sickness, but it is a sure preventative, an occasional dose of which tones up the general health.

If you are suffering, remember the good that Mrs. Meder got out of this medicine and give it a trial. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.
