(From a Staff Correspondent.) AINCOLN, Dec., 5 .- (Special.) - A petition in error was filed in the supreme court today by Judge Hamer, who was granted a supersedeas in the Platte river island case, wherein Whittaker, McBride and Kil- pany of North America, a Pennsylvania He and a brother and two other lads were gore are contending for possession of a plece of land in the river in Buffalo county. Whittaker, defendant, is now in jail in Buffalo county serving out a $25 fine for being in contempt of court for having removed back to the land after he had been ejected by order of court. The case has already been to the supreme court, which his investments. Mr. Imhoff asked for decided against Whittaker. In the petition in error it is contended that Whittaker of Mr. Rector. could not be guilty of anything because he is living on government land belonging to the public domain, and nobody can put him off except the government, but the government needs him as a homesteader. It is claimed also that the island is different from other public lands because the act of 1876 was an invitation for settlers to go upon the Fort Kearney military res ervation before the land had been surveyed, and it is claimed that Whittaker, as the first lawful settler cannot be elected from the premises by any court, and it is the duty of all courts to protect him.

It is claimed further the right of appeal exists to every judgment that may be rendered by a district court; that even though the supreme court should issue its mandate to the district court to render a particular sort of judgment that there is still a right of review under the constitution and the code and upon the ground that the supreme court may not know whether the district court has followed its mandate until it inspects the work of the lower court.

The land in controversy is a portion of the Fort Riley military reservation and is an unsurveyed island. Judge Hamer claims under the law the island belongs to public domain and that his client, Whittaker, peing the first settler was entitled to hold it against anyone.

The attorneys for Kilgore and McBride claimed their clients owned the island because they owned lots on either side of it that were separated from it by small branches of the Platte river. Whittaker claims that the failure to survey the island was the mistake of the government surveyor, who not only failed in that, but in surveying other islands in that vicinity, He claimed that such failure to survey ald not prejudice the rights of the United States to own the island or the rights of any settler to hold it. He claimed the local act pertaining to the settlement and sale of the Fort Kearney reservation was passed to protect all settlers on the reservation and that he as the first settler was entitled to hold it.

Reverses Lower Court.

Commissioner Duffle, who wrote the supreme court opinion in the case reversed sented. the judgment of the lower court, which favored Whittaker. He held that the failure of the government surveyors to survey the island enabled Kilgore and McBride to hold_it and that Whittaker could not raise questions that the surveyor had made a mistake in failing to survey it. He held that while the government might still own it, only the government itself could lay claim to it, and Whittaker could not be heard to say that the island belonged to that Defends Reciprocal Tax.

This morning Attorney General Prout filed in the office of the clerk of the supreme court a brief in support of the reciprocal insurance tax, which has been attacked in the court by the Insurance Comcorporation, which refuses to pay $802.35 into the state treasury, under section 33 of chapter xilli of the compiled statutes. Judge Waters this afternoon decided that C. H. Imhoff was entitled to recover $7,500 for the services he rendered Sanford Rector during his lifetime in the handling of $10,000, which was opposed by two heirs as excessive. Mr. Imhoff is a grandson

In accordance with the opinion the supreme court sent out a mandate to the district court of Buffalo county directing that court to enter judgment quieting title to the island in Kligore and McBride. When the mandate was received Whittaker objected that there was a motion pending in the supreme court to recall and for a rehearing. His objection was overruled and judgment rendered against him quieting acres of land in Indian Territory. title in Kilgore and McBride.

The district judge refused to allow supersedens bond and immediately issued an execution and put Whittaker and famlly off of the land. The sheriff plied the goods of the Whittakers in the highway and compelled the family to leave the premises. A few days later Whittaker made application to another judge of the district court to recall the writ of assistance and to fix the amount of an appeal bond so as to allow Whittaker to review the action of Judge Gutterson. Judge J. N. Paul heard the case and finally rendered Judgment, on November 30, fining Whittaker $25 and costs and committing him to the county jail until the fine was paid and until he would surrender possession to Mc-Bride and Kligore. He also enjoined Whittaker from occupying the premises or from laying any claim to the premises. A warrant for the arrest of Whittaker was issued and he was sent to jail. Before Judge Paul completed the hearing of the applications Whittaker prosecuted a petition in and certain as he takes them. They are because they are natural and no other cure but a natural one is sure. They act on the food and digest it just as well as a stomach would. They contain exactly the same chemical properties as the digestive fluids of the stomach.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the suffera tree of life. They will cure him and him health and happiness just as

By putting Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in a bottle or jar with any kind of food; ment, eggs or vegetables, with sufficient amount of water, the process of digestion is carried out just as it is in a healthy human stomach and in the same time. There is consequently no unnatural disturbance of the digestive organs resulting from the use of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They relieve the weak and worn-out stomach of its work and permit it to rest up and recuperate and regain its normal health and strength.

A well known Buffalo physician says "I prescribe Stuarts Dyspepsia Tablets on all occasions as a relief for weakened and run-down stomachs. I find they contain all the ingredients necessary for the proper digestion of the food and will do more to give the stomach the needed rest than any nedicine I could prescribe. They have
