WOMAN IN CLUB AND CHARITY

An address by Mrs. Harriet Heller "Child Life," a talk on "Vinegar Products," by Mrs. John Haarmann, and a talk on the city market house by Mrs. F. S. Owen. constituted the very interesting program at Thursday morning's meeting of the household economics department of the Woman's club, There was the usual large attendance. The next kensington of the department will be held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. B. Bryant. 625 North Forty-first avenue. Perhaps no topic of the year has been received with greater interest than that presented by Mrs. Owen regarding the city market house. She told the women of its advantages and urged that they do their part to keep it up to the standard of like institutions in other cities. Two years ago, when it was suggested that the market house be erected across the street from the public library.

the Woman's club, through its city improvement committee, promptly and energetically took the matter up and had a conspicuous part in the sigitation against the proposed location. Now that the city has its market house, the woman who has visited it often enough to talk intelligently of it is the exception. It would seem that the women of the city, if anybody, would have an interest in its market house and their utter indifference since its establishment would seem to justify the accusation that their effort of two years ago was stimulated by "a love of the sensational, rather than any intelligent understanding or interest in the welfare of the city. What has become of the city improvement committee?

Mrs. Harriet MacMurphy was the guest of the Woman's club of Denison, Ia., Monday, and addressed them on/"Household Economics." The club has just taken up that study and Mrs. MacMurphy was asked to start them in their work.

The following pledge was read before the Ninth district meeting at Council Bluffs on Wednesday by Mrs. Horace Deemer, and the women urged to consider it: The women urged to consider it: I hereby pledge myself to refrain from wearing the plumage of birds, other than game or food birds, or the ostrich; to see that existing laws for bird protection are carried out and influence state legislation. if needful, to have these bettered; to intro-duce the study of nature and the living bird into the schools, that the fising genera-tion-may see the economic value of protec-tion as well as the sentimental side.

A young matron of the fashionable set. the mother of a future society man, found herself in a rather embarrassing predicament recently, as a result of her indulgce of her small son. With the morning mail, one day last week, were several invitations, among them ,wedding cards, the address of ,which indicated that they were the same as those received by another rian member of the family, and when Young Hopeful insisted upon having mother's cards, they were turned over-and duly ued of, after the methods of 2-yearolds. It has since occurred to the youngster's mother that her cards might have on simply for the ceremony, and not the reception, or the reverse, but as the cards are hopelessly out of the question she is now endeavoring to find some other means of ascertaining the bride's pleasure regarding her presence.

There is to be no revival of French, after all. Prof. Norman Hill Nesbitt is not coming back, in spite of all rumors, or his ouncement to the contrary, and even if he did, society has turned its attention to physical, rather than mental culture this winter, and finds it quite as entertaining doing symnastics with a view to attaining bodily grace as the grace or the satisfaction that attends "French in five weeks." BAZAR OF GOOD SHEPHERDS Useful and Ornamental Articles for the Household Wrought by the Sisters and Their Wards.

The Christmas season brings with it a variety of "bazars" for various benevolent objects-for church and hospital, and charitable institutions. This year is no exception to the rule. One of the bazars new appealing for the patronage of those who appreciate a worthy cause is that confucted by the Sisters of the Good Shep herd at their home. Forty-second and Jackion streets.

Few charitable institutions can be named that are deserving of more consideration from generous people than this home for the reformation of erring girls. For them the world is pitilessly cold. Precious few doors are open to them. The Good Shepherd's home is one of the few. Here is welcome and warmth for the Magdalenes. and the tender consolation and helpfulness by the sisters, whose lives are consecrated to the unfortunate.

The cost of maintaining the home is considerably in excess of the income, rendering necessary an occasional appeal for public patronage. The sisters are not seeking something for nothing. A full equivalent is given in the various articles wrought by themselves, such as embroidered linens knit goods, laces, bridal trousseaus, sofa pillows, outing flannel garments, children's wardrobes, dainty handkerchiefs, dressed dolls and other articles suited to the needs of Santa Claus

The basar will continue during the week and close on Sunday next.
