Steamship Agent Says Great Northern Has Made Secret Rates.

COSTS OTHERS MORE TO TRANSPORT HEMP

Witness Before Commerce Commission Makes Damaging Admission Which Road Tris to Explain to Its Satisfaction.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The Interstate Commerce commission today gave a hearing on its proposed requirement that after January 1, 1931, the tariffs on export and import traffic be published and filed with the commission...

The railroad contended that this constituted as fair a public advance notice of rates as published tariffs on domestic traffic...

Seattle Company Gets Secret Rate.

During the session an admission was made by Frank Waterhouse, representing the Seattle Steamship company...

"Does it not come to this, then," asked Chairman Knapp, "that you want the Northern Pacific road to carry hemp from Seattle to St. Paul for 3 1/2 cents when it is brought over by your steamers, but if brought over on a tramp steamer you want them to charge twice this much as their proportion of the rate?"

Mr. Waterhouse—If brought over on a tramp steamer they won't take it. Chairman Knapp—Why not?

Mr. Waterhouse—Because they have a contract with our line which prohibits a contract with our line which prohibits them from taking it.

Chairman Knapp—You don't mean quite that, do you?

Mr. Waterhouse—Yes, sir, I mean that. Chairman Knapp—The Northern Pacific has an arrangement with you under which they will not carry any hemp except that you bring it over in your steamers?

Mr. Waterhouse—I mean they will not take it at the same rate. They would not make the same through rate to a tramp sailing ship or tramp steamer that arrived in the harbor of Seattle or Tacoma that they would to the regular line.

HOUSE PASSES PENSION BILL

No Division on the First Appropriation Measure Carrying with It $138,150,100.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The house today passed without division the pension appropriation bill carrying $138,150,100. While the bill was under consideration there was a general discussion on Panama, rural free delivery, tariff and pensions.

Speeches were made by Messrs. Scott, rep. (Kan.), Miers, dem., and Burns, dem. (Kan.).

When the house convened today the speaker signed the bill carrying into effect the Cuban reciprocity treaty, using a gold pen provided by the Cuban minister.

Upon the reading of the bill permitting Phoenix, Ariz., to bond themselves for the construction of a wagon road from Phoenix to the site of the $5,000,000 dam to be constructed by the government for the Salt river valley irrigation reservoir, Mr. Olmsted, rep. (Pa.), facetiously inquired if the proposition to dam Salt creek had been submitted to the minority.

Then the house went into committee of the whole to resume consideration of the pension appropriation bill.

Mr. Scott, rep. (Kan.), reviewed the history of rural free delivery, showing the attitude of the democratic members toward the system and contending that credit for its successful establishment is due the latter.

Mr. Miers, dem. (Ind.), addressed himself to the pension appropriation bill.

The Panama question was discussed by Mr. Sims, dem. (Tenn.), who took the ground that the consistent course to pursue was for the democrats to vote against the treaty. This, he said, would defeat it, in which event he believed the president would build the Nicaraguan canal.

Mr. Reeder, rep. (Kan.), advocated a Senate amendment and spoke for the deserving veterans.

Mr. Burgess, dem. (Tex.), taking the policy of "stand pat" for his text, denied that any measure of property is due to the republican policy. He denied that protection had helped the wages of labor. He understood the expression "stand pat" to have come from the senator from Ohio, to whom he referred as the greatest player of American politics, but said he might now be termed "the surprised possible president."

He said the "stand pat" hand had been turned over to the New York men to play after the election, he said, the hand would be called and the democrats would demand to see all the cards.

President Issues Proclamation Putting into Effect Reciprocity Treaty with Cuba.

CRANE MAY BE NATIONAL CHAIRMAN

Former Governor of Massachusetts Is Spoken of for Place at Head of Republican Party Organization.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The president this afternoon issued a proclamation reciting the passage of the Cuban reciprocity treaty and declaring the Cuban reciprocity treaty to be in force from today.

The bill was taken to the White House by the chairman of the house committee on enrolled bills. With the same gold pen with which the measure had been signed by Speaker Cannon and Senator Frye, president pro tempore of the senate, the president affixed his signature to the bill, making it a law. The pen belongs to Minister Quesada.

CRANE MAY HEAD COMMITTEE

President Roosevelt entertained at luncheon today former Governor Crane and Secretary Cortelyou and Senator Lodge. The fact that Governor Crane was at the luncheon, in addition to being invited to the president's cabinet dinner tonight, caused considerable comment.

It has been known for many months that it is the desire of the president that Governor Crane should be identified in some intimate capacity with the presidential campaign.

It is believed that Governor Crane will be named as the chairman of the republican national committee in the event of Senator Hanna's refusal to again fill the place. It is said, however, that this subject was not discussed at the luncheon today.

Mr. Hanna has been requested by President Roosevelt to retain the position until he shall have determined definitely whether or not he will retain it. In any event, it is understood Governor Crane will fill an important place in the campaign management next year.

BLACK MAY SUCCEED PROCTOR

The president has tendered the position of civil service commissioner made vacant by the death of John R. Proctor to General John C. Black of Chicago. General Black is commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic.

General Black has not indicated whether or not he will accept the appointment. He was commissioner of pensions during the second administration of President Cleveland.

HOAR AND FORAKER CLASH make one without its consent. When the attempt to deprive us of all the facts is made I resent it. And it is not the first instance of such action and of dictating to congress. I resent it and have resented it at the cost of estranging some of my political associates in the past when we had a democratic president of the United States.

I second President Roosevelt the same treatment. Open your books and give us the information.

IS FEARED OF WAR

"What I want and what I believe the people want is that there shall be nothing to disturb business. Every thoughtful man recognizes the fact that we have for four years and past passed through an era of unexampled prosperity, of expansion, of reckless expenditures, of imprudent investments, and now the remainder of the world is taking action, jealous of our prosperity, and is putting obstacles in our way and will continue to put in our way obstructions that will impair and have impaired and are now seriously affecting every business interest.

"A war party, it may be said, was never defeated in this country. Can it be in the mind of any man that a desperate political chance, growing out of the depressed conditions, makes it necessary for political success that the flags and armies of the country may be exhibited in some foreign land to strengthen the party and secure party power?"

When Mr. Gorman had concluded Mr. Foraker began a severe arraignment of Mr. Hoar's position, saying that when he read the newspaper accounts of the democratic caucus which agreed that caucus action should be binding, he knew that there would be trouble; that the democrats would vote as a unit on every matter except when the vote interfered with individual conscience.

Hoar surprises Foraker. Mr. Foraker said he had felt no great surprise when the attack on the president had been made on the democratic side of the chamber, but that he had been shocked when the senator from Massachusetts made the character of speech he did, and thought the country would be equally surprised. He said Mr. Hoar's speech should have been made in executive session, if at all.

Mr. Foraker declared that an attack had been made, not on the president alone, but on the country, and at a time when the eyes of the world were on us. "I have no doubt," said Mr. Foraker, "that the president acted with loftiest of motives and the highest of ideas when he took the action he did in reference to the Republic of Panama."

Mr. Foraker said he could think of no action on the part of the president calling for such remarks as those made by Senator Hoar.

Mr. Hoar, interrupting, said: "The senator from Ohio either wholly misunderstands what I said or willfully perverts my meaning."

After a little further debate Mr. Hoar obtained the floor.

Hoar and Foraker Clash. "My point is this," said he. "I say the president has said to the public, and not to the senate, that he disclaims certain conduct as unworthy of him, and I called attention to the fact that the documents which he sent in failed to make that clear, by not distinctly claiming that he or the administration had notice of that revolution, or that our forces had prevented the lawful government from anticipating that outbreak; that I believed from my knowledge of the president that his statement was actually true, and therefore I asked him to supply the lacking information by stating on what ground the administration proceeded in taking the step. That is all, and I do not propose to fire thirty years of service within these walls to trouble myself to contradict again an imputation to me of any other meaning or indirectness or artifice on my part. If the senator from Ohio chooses to charge me with it, of course I cannot help it. He will do his duty."

"I am delighted," retorted Mr. Foraker, "that the senator from Massachusetts is not afraid of anybody. I do not know of any reason why he should be afraid of anybody. He made a speech. I am undertaking to make some answer to it."

"Now, the president has said there was no conference, no intrigue, yet the senator from Massachusetts demands that the president submit the proof to him that he was making the statement that he had not conspired."

Foraker cites history. Mr. Foraker then proceeded to review briefly the history of the uprising on the isthmus, saying 125,000 soldiers were

MAJORITY FAVORABLE TO WOOD

Senate Committee on Military Affairs to Make Two Reports of Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17.—The senate committee on military affairs today decided to postpone action on the case of General Wood until January 4. It is planned to go over the entire testimony that was introduced in the investigation and give time for the majority and minority reports which will be made. The majority report, it is said, will be an endorsement of General Wood's military and civil record in Cuba.

The action of the committee was unanimous in deciding to close the introduction of testimony and take a vote January 4. A few members of the committee were in favor of voting today and argued in favor of this course. It was declared that to vote today would lead to the inference on the part of the public that the case had been prejudiced. It is said the unanimity of action in closing the inquiry does not have any direct bearing on the vote for confirmation. Senator Scott made the protest against the confirmation today on the ground that the jurors should weigh and consider the testimony.
