FIRST MOVE TO ORGANIZE

Jacksonian Club's Rejection of Gold Democrats.

INITIAL STEP TOWARD HARMONY

Proposition Not to Organize, but to Get Prodigals Back Into Line Preparatory for next Year.

In speaking of the passage of the resolution for the Jacksonian club Sunday night which reinstates the "gold bug" members of the club who were ostracized at a resolution of ejection at the time Bryan stepped into the political arena in 1896, Mr. Howell said:

"I consider this the first move, the part of the democrats of the state to organize and form a closer union. For many years the men whose names were agitated on the roster of the Jacksonian club by the resolution Saturday evening he stood without the gates. They have been suppliants for admission, but it has been the certain knowledge of those within the club that the organization was much weaker than it would have been if those members were in. They were in a position where, though they wished to assist democracy, they could not do so, and it is one of the general knowledge that some thought should be done to place matters on the old footing and heal old differences preparatory to the great political fight into which we must plunge in the near future. The resolution, which passed unanimously, was the result of this knowledge. It was not the intention of the resolution to prevent Mr. Ryan going as a delegate to the national democratic convention in 1934, neither of the party to be construed in any way as to repudiate Mr. Bryan in any sense.

I believe the move of Saturday evening will have a tendency toward securing the co-operation of other democratic organizations whose differences have occurred from the same reasons which caused the differences in the Jacksonian club, and let other clubs will now vote the members who withdrew during those troublesome times back into their fold. It has been a gratification to those men who have been barred from the deliberations of their party for so long time and it was due time that reparation was made."

Good Democratic Citizens.

The list of names of those voted back Saturday evening includes a number of good democratic citizens from all parts of the state, and this fact itself will have a tendency to solidify the ranks of the party all over the state. It shows also that when the democrats of other states learn there is a disposition on the part of the party leaders of Mr. Bryan's own state to fix up their differences it will serve as the starting point from which to build a solid democratic national organization. I have already heard that the movement has caused a sensation in the east. Several telegrams have been received from New York asking for information and particulars, and this information is being furnished to help the good work along."

The list of names of those voted back into the organization was made up from the old records of the club and it was desired the matter be kept secret for the reason that it was thought possible some of the men whose names were on the records as members in 1934 might have gone over to the republican party. From what can be learned, the matter of voting these ostracized members back has been under consideration for a long time, but though this was the case, it was sprung as a surprise at the meeting Saturday evening.

The prodigals redeemed are: Charles Dugdale, George V. Hines, T. J. Mahoney, Euclid Martin, W. D. McHugh, P. W. Sherrill, Lee W. Spradley, Frank Heller, S. W. Scherer, M. C. Thurston, Arthur C. Waksley, Thomas Legley, D. D. Sturdevant, F. E. White, A. J. Sawyer, Charles O. Ryan, R. E. Dunphy, D. P. Rolfe, M. J. Hughes, John F. Croker, Milton Donnelly, A. M. Glover, D. C. G. H. WEST TALKS ON "WORDS"

Concludes that Anglo-Saxon is Declared to be the Prevailing Language.

The Philosophical society met at parlor No. 3 of the Paxton hotel Sunday afternoon with a large attendance to listen to a very interesting paper by George H. West, on the subject of "Words."

He said in effect: "The world of words was coincident with simple life. Climatic conditions had much to do with brogue and pronunciation. The Latin idiom of the semitropical climates were essentially different from the epigrammatic language of the colder climates, though conveying essentially the same meaning. From the sonorous language of the south came soft rhythmic utterances that when translated into the stony language of the north became short utterances like unto the rattling of musketry in its emphatic meaning. To the Anglo-Saxon is attributed that most expressive language that conveys at its inception and a meaning that cannot be misconstrued and from it originates the mother tongue that is destined to yet become the language of the world. Whatever may be the origin of language it developed upon the sturdy Saxon to perpetuate that language, simple and comprehensive, into crude type that eventually brought the world into close association with the literature and through it into familiarization with the civilization of the past centuries. The Anglo-Saxon language, or more specifically speaking, the English tongue is now spoken by nearly 200,000,000 people throughout the world. It is the application of the best of the old languages to present needs in the English language that makes this possible."

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Chief Garrett Emphasizes Need of Hook and Ladder for Department.

FIRE COMPANY HALL ALSO WANTED

Hopes that City Will Be Able to Make Some Tents to Provide Necessary Apparatus—Magle City Gospel.

"The fire at the home of William Lewis, Twenty-third and F streets, a morning or two ago," said Chief Garrett of the fire department, "shows the need of the department being supplied with ladders. As it was at this fire the department was badly handicapped on account of the lack of ladders strong enough to support two men. Two of the hose wagons carried short ladders, but these were of little use in story-and-a-half and two-story buildings. What is needed is a hook and ladder truck."

In case more money can be raised for the support of the fire department next year the city council proposes to secure a fire hall for a truck and another hose company. Chief Garrett is in hopes that the city officials will make a shift of some kind so as to give his department ladders and a landing net, as both are badly needed.

Paving Report Tonight.

At the meeting of the city council, to be held this evening it is expected that the judiciary committee will hand in a report on the ordinance declaring the necessity for paving Railroad avenue. This ordinance has been published for two weeks, according to law and no remonstrances have been filed with the clerk. Unless a remonstrance, signed by one-fifth of the voters, is filed within two weeks from the time such an ordinance is introduced the council is at liberty to proceed with the passage of the same. Mayor Kautsky has stated that he will sign this ordinance as soon as passed. He considers it one of the much needed improvements. Some other matters of less importance will come up.

Christian Association Day.

The Protestant churches here special services were conducted in the interest of the local Young Men's Christian association yesterday were well attended. At both the morning and evening services quite a sum of money was collected in cash and a number of pledges were made. For the convenience of those who desired a little time to consider their pledges, these pledges had due February 1 and the money so collected is to be used in the payment of the debt of the association contracted this year and also the overlap from 1932. Since the movement to raise the $1,000 needed has been started committees from the churches and from the association will endeavor to collect the amount needed to place the association clear of indebtedness by February 1.

Grand Army Election.

Phil Kearney post, No. 2, Grand Army of the Republic, met Saturday and elected these officers: Andrew Renwick, post commander; John Molist, senior vice commander; H. V. Petersen, junior vice commander; J. W. Cron, quartermaster; J. O. Eastman, officer of the day; James Angie, officer of the guard; Leander Lane, representative to state encampment; M. W. Mabry, trustee. These officers will be installed with appropriate ceremonies on Saturday night, January 13.

Will Celebrate Properly. Tuesday evening, January 3, is the date set for the installation of officers recently elected by series No. 154, Fraternal Order of Eagles. On this occasion there will be a musical and literary entertainment and refreshments will be served. The entertainment committee of the aerle has invited a number of prominent state officers as well as the members of Omaha and Council Bluffs aerle. The South Omaha aerle now has a membership of over 200 and this number will doubtless be doubled within the next few months.

Christmas Week Closing.

Wednesday of this week the public schools will close for the usual holiday vacation. Thursday afternoon the banks and city offices will close, not to be reopened until Saturday morning. At the Live Stock exchange there will be no market on Friday and the yards will be closed. All stock will be cared for and kept in condition for sale on Saturday. The packers will practically shut down, the intention being to get along with as little help as possible on Friday.

Magle City Gospel.

December 23 is the date set for the convention of horse and cattle auctioneers. A daughter was born yesterday to Colonel and Mrs. J. B. Watkins, Twenty-sixth and E streets.

Miss Gertrude Parkhurst has gone to Oyster county for a fortnight's visit with relatives.

It is understood that a meeting of the Fire and Police Board will be held on Tuesday night.

Chief Briggs has recovered his Gordon setter which was stolen from him early last spring.

Charles W. Rainey, Forty-second and S streets, is seriously ill. His friends have given up hopes of recovery.

Quite a number of South Omaha citizens will go to Waterloo today to attend the funeral of the late Senator A. H. Noyes.

An important meeting of the Knights and Ladies of Security will be held at the hall, Twenty-sixth and N streets, for club purposes. The funeral of Mrs. Annie Woodward will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence, Seventeenth and Missouri avenues.

The South Omaha Cavalry Troop is negotiating for rooms in the Evans building, Twenty-third and N streets, for club purposes. No arrangements for an army have been made.

The young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Stacy, Twelfth and I streets, died yesterday. The funeral will be held at the family residence this forenoon. Burial at Laurel Hill cemetery.

KILLED BY SWITCH ENGINE

Employee of Union Pacific Shops Meets Death in Tracks Near the Smelter.

Faustal Cocuzza, an employe of the Union Pacific shops, was run down by switch engine No. 234 Sunday at 11 a. m. in the yards near the American Smelting and Refining company's plant, sustaining injuries which caused death in half an hour. Cocuzza had called at the smelter to see his father, who is employed in the ore rooms, and it was while he was walking along the tracks on his way home from the plant that he was overtaken by a switch engine, which was pushing a long string of cars, and killed. The car which struck Cocuzza passed over his body, severing the left arm from the trunk at the shoulder. Internal injuries of a fatal nature were inflicted as the car passed over him.

Cocuzza was picked up by the trainmen and medical assistance summoned. Coroner Bralley also was notified, and removed the body to the morgue, where it is now lying awaiting an inquest, which probably will be held today.

Cocuzza was 29 years old and lived with his parents at 228 North Tenth street.

COLORED MAN KILLS BROTHER

Plunges Knife to Heart and Death Follows in Minute or Two.

FRATRICIDE OVER TRIVIAL DISPUTE

Men Have Words and One Killed Deals the First Blow When He is Stabbed in the Left Breast.

While quarreling over the possession of a chair Ike Chambers stabbed and killed his brother, Joseph, last night in South Omaha. Both are colored. The fight took place in front of the Des Moines house, Twenty-seventh and L streets, where the police have had so much trouble lately with colored people.

With others the two brothers had spent the afternoon in a rear room at the hotel, drinking beer and playing cards. Some one took Ike Chambers' chair away from him when he arose for a moment. He accused his brother. One word brought on another and the result was that the keeper of the house ordered the colored men off the premises.

Near the front door of the hotel the Chambers brothers and E. Hoskins, a friend of both stopped for a moment. The argument became heated and Joseph struck his brother across the face. As quick as a flash Ike drew a knife from a pocket in his shirt and plunged it into his brother's left breast, inflicting a wound about three inches long and fully three inches deep, from which death resulted within a moment or two.

After the tragedy Ike Chambers made no attempt to get away and the police had no difficulty in finding him at the hotel when notified of the murder.

Both men were employed at Armour's. The dead man was 23 years of age and his assailant is 26. Both came here two years ago from Idaho and have worked in the packing houses ever since.

One Eye Witness.

When the police arrested Ike Chambers, S. E. Hoskins, the eyewitness to the stabbing, was taken into custody and is being held as a witness. Hoskins told the police about the altercation regarding the chair and then of the stabbing in front of the hotel. He said that Ike had two knives with him. One was a small, thin knife, with a long blade, and the other was an ordinary butcher knife. The butcher knife was found by the police, but the long, thin knife, which was doubtless used, has not been found. Hoskins asserts that after he had been stabbed and called aloud for some one to get a doctor. At the same time he placed his hand over his heart and started to walk away. The witness says that Chambers walked nearly 100 feet before he fell dead.

As soon as the alarm was given the police sent for a physician, but life was extinct before the doctor arrived. The remains were taken to Brewer's morgue, where they will remain until after the inquest. Coroner Bralley has been notified and will visit South Omaha today and set an hour for the holding of the inquest.

The other colored men in the place left the vicinity of the stabbing before the police arrived, but Hoskins, the witness held, appears willing to talk and is assisting the officers in every way. The prisoner is confined in the solitary cell and declines to talk.

Detective Elsefelder says that while both of the Chambers' brothers have been known to the police for a couple of years neither has been arrested, and their general reputation was good.

The Des Moines house is the place where Andrew Tucker killed Hiram Sappo last spring. It will be remembered that Tucker was located by Chief Briggs at Ottumwa, Ia., after a long hunt and brought back to Omaha to stand trial for murder.

JOE QUINN COMES TO OMAHA

Veteran Second Baseman Will Leave Des Moines and Cover the Base for Bourke.

A matter of some interest to local baseball fans is afforded in the announcement that "Joe" Quinn will cover second base for Omaha next season. Shugart will play at short for Des Moines, from whence Quinn has been transferred.

Quinn is 45 years of age and is still playing some base ball. He has acted as captain and manager of the Des Moines team during the last two seasons, and becoming dissatisfied with the record he made, Quinn refused to again accept the position of manager. "Bill" Hoffer having been chosen as his successor, Quinn did not think he would like to play under Hoffer and is looking around for a berth for next year. He has been lobbied by Bourke.
