get down here every morning at 9 o'clock and am here as late as 6:30. I drive these men with all the energy which my Hyde might have shown in the early days of the Equitable, and they drive, I am bound to say, very well. I am delighted with the Oppenheim. I have to say that they are falling to be absolutely true and accurate. I am glad to hear that they are getting out of their trouble and that they are likely to receive, now that the British are on tick, about $750,000."

the examiner's attention to the publication in a newspaper in this city this morning of the letters, telegrams and cables which have been the object of examination at several hearings before you. These letters, telegrams and cables were not exhibited in evidence because Mr. Alexander felt constrained to plead privilege and confidence because they were the private communications from members of a law firm in relation to the private business of their clients.

A letter dated July 25 sets forth that the situation had changed and that the writer had notified Oppenheim that all the French investors would be held to their individual liability. A postscript to this letter read thus: "Since writing the above Rogiat (one of the underwriters) came in a great state of excitement and said that he had been to see Harjes and asked whether they knew anything about the business, that they were acquainted with him who spoke English and he listened, that the cashier did everything he could to speak readily about the business and said there were no questions for the securities in New York and that they did not want to have anything to do with it, although they would receive the money for it. Rogiat was very indignant and said to me: 'I saw young Harjes, who said that he had not been very much prejudiced against the affair since seeing you. He said that he was a promoter, such as Mr. Morgan constantly used in New York, and that Rogiat was the man and that Rogiat told me every day he would pay up the entire call, irrespective of whether there were any defaults.'"

Pending the ruling of the court on the question of the admissibility of these communications which you said you would certify to the court and while these letters, telegrams and cables were claimed to be privileged, they were furnished to a newspaper and published this morning. We understand this publication to be a direct contempt of court and that the person guilty of causing their publication is guilty of a gross contempt. We ask you, therefore, that at the next hearing we may temporarily suspend the taking of testimony as to the person who gave publicity to these letters, cables and telegrams."

Mr. Woolman, associate counsel with Samuel Untermyer, replied: "If there is to be any insinuation that Mr. Untermyer or myself had anything to do with giving out these communications, I here declare that it is absolutely untrue. Neither Mr. Untermyer nor I had anything to do with giving out these letters, telegrams and cables to the press. Mr. Guthrie knows there are many copies of them in circulation and that copies could easily be obtained. I was as much surprised at seeing them published this morning as Mr. Guthrie could have been."

"I hope so, for the good name of the bar," exclaimed Mr. Guthrie. "You have done much in this case against the good name of the bar, Mr. Guthrie," replied Mr. Woolman. "Your course has been reprehensible. I do not know, nor do I care, what the law is, but the persons who gave these communications to the press ought to be punished. I do not object to Mr. Guthrie's insinuation when Mr. Guthrie knows, as he does, how easy it is to get these copies."

After some further discussion between counsel it was agreed they should cooperate in an effort to learn who gave out the communications in question.

Both Sides in Shipbuilding Hearing Emphatically Deny Giving Out the Papers.

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—The world's publication of the Alexander letters has stirred a hornet's nest, and both parties to the shipbuilding receivership case propose to "investigate" with a view to contempt proceedings.

HENRY MUST FOOT THE BILL

Court Allows Attorney's Fees, Expenses and Court Costs to Woman Alleged to Be Wife.

DENVER, Dec. 22.—(Special Telegram).—Whether her name is Jessie G. Dunsell, as co-senator Allen of Nebraska claims, or Jessie G. Henry, as S. Abbott says, being in uniform drivers for the hearing. Members admit that the "Undertakers' association" as a body is not in favor of the move of the trial between himself and her. Judge Johnson so ruled this morning when he decided to allow $300 attorneys' fees, $200 expense money and $85 court costs, as prayed by Mrs. Abbott. Henry is 25 years old and the girl is about the same age. The question of supporting the child is still being considered. An interest in an estate estimated at from $75,000 to $200,000 is involved in the outcome of the suit. Young Henry is at present farming near Deer Trail, Colo.

HOPE TO SETTLE STRIKE

Proprietors of Livery Stables Willing and Men Are Taking Vote.

MATTER TO BE LEFT TO ARBITRATION

Chicago Liverymen Refuse to Let Undertaker Who Signs Union Scale Have Hearse to Bury the Dead.

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—The liverymen's association at a meeting this afternoon decided that unless a peaceable settlement of the drivers' strike was reached tomorrow they would open for business with non-union employees and would appeal to the courts for an injunction to prevent the strikers from interfering in any manner with the regular operation of livery businesses. Word of the injunction proposal reached the strikers just as a vote had been completed as to the submission of the issues in the controversy to an arbitration, and the action of the employers was bitterly criticized by the men. No announcement of the result of the union might be written was made public, but the general impression was that arbitration had been accepted.

At the same time that the men were voting on the question of conciliation the members of the liverymen's association decided to submit the matter to arbitration, provided that the strikers took the initiative in the matter and that the demand for a peaceable settlement should come from the men. In anticipation of the proposition being accepted by the men a committee was appointed to receive any overtures the union might be willing to make. The union officials were immediately notified of the decision reached by the employers and the latter, it is said, will have a reply ready tomorrow morning.

First Union Label Funeral

The union men met today to consider an arbitration plan to settle their strike. The plan grew out of a meeting of a committee of employers and representatives of the union last night. While arbitration was being considered today news was received of the first "union labor funeral" since the strike began. G. M. Marks, the body of the decedent being removed by a "dead wagon" bearing a placard proclaiming the vehicle to be owned by an undertaker paying the union scale. It was also the first funeral in which a procession of carriages was supplied to carry the mourners. There were six carriages, labeled like the improvised hearse.

TWIN BROTHER IS ARRESTED

Members of Indiana Family Taken in Charge, Accused of Murdering Woman.

RISING SUN, Ind., Dec. 22.—In his report on the investigation of the assassination of Miss Elizabeth Gillespie, December 8, the grand jury this afternoon returned true bills of murder in the first degree against James Gillespie, a twin brother of the murdered woman, Miss Beil Seward, her widowed sister, Mrs. Carrie Barbour, niece of Dr. Thad A. Remy, an eminent physician of Cincinnati, and Myron Barbour, her husband. Mrs. Barbour is sister-in-law of Dr. William Gillespie, brother of the murdered woman.

VERMONT WOMAN IS TO DIE

Mrs. Mary A. Rogers Convicted of Killing Her Husband for His Insurance.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Dec. 22.—Mrs. Mary A. Rogers was today found guilty of murder in the first degree in killing her husband, Marcus H. Rogers, on August 12, 1927. The verdict carries the death penalty. It was shown at the trial that Mrs. Rogers met her husband, with whom she had not been living on pretense of effecting a reconciliation and, assisted by Leon Perham and Stella Bates, gave Rogers chloroform. The body was then thrown into the Williams river. Love had another man and a desire to get her husband's life insurance was the alleged motive.

Statement by Barrett.

"Barrett admitted that he was an old friend of Eugene J. Sullivan of Omaha, who had had charge of the Horbach affairs for a long time and was guardian for the elder Horbach while the latter was insane. Barrett had never seen Horbach except when the latter paid visits to his old home, but had signed papers sent to him, as a matter of accommodation. He had lived for twelve years on a small salary and admitted that he never possessed a sum like $70,000. After being placed in nominal possession of the property he decided to seek to Sullivan, also incurring track again the check that the latter gave to him. He has had no accounting with Sullivan for years, gave him the power of attorney and by his own admissions simply acted as a stool pigeon.
