

MUNYON'S PAW PAW CURING HUNDREDS Here Are the Names of a Few.

They Will Tell You That Paw Paw Cured Them.

DYSPEPSIA Gets Out of the Stomach When Paw Paw Enters.

NERVOUSNESS Sleeplessness and Catarrh Are Positively Cured by

PAW PAW

Read What Some of Them Say!

Hon. Kitt Gould, Chicago, Representative of the Third Senatorial District, and for years the attorney for the State Board of Pharmacy of Illinois, says: "I have been a great sufferer from catarrh of the stomach, dyspepsia, and indigestion, which completely upset my nervous system. Munyon's Paw Paw has driven out these distressing ailments and has restored all my old-time energy and vim. It is a marvelous remedy."

The Honorable Samuel W. Lane, of Augusta, Me., is a national figure of such prominence that he needs no introduction at our hands. He says: "I am pleased to state that I have been using Munyon's Paw Paw for two months with the greatest benefit. I have been a sufferer for forty years from malaria and dyspepsia, and for the cure of the latter I consider Paw Paw absolutely unequalled."

Arendina Avelinaus, Dr. Lett, Dr. F. B. of Philadelphia, the most distinguished Latin scholar living, says: "I have been a sufferer from catarrh of the stomach, dyspepsia, and indigestion, which completely upset my nervous system. Munyon's Paw Paw has driven out these distressing ailments and has restored all my old-time energy and vim. It is a marvelous remedy."

Rev. Ekal Kawaguchi, whose narrative of personal adventures in Tibet, "The Latest News from Lhasa," will be one of the more important articles in the January Century, is a priest of the Zen sect of Buddhists, now 38 years of age. He was born in Sakai, near Osaka, studied at the temple of the Five Hundred Buddhas in Tokyo and prosecuted his Sanskrit studies under Rev. Bunyu Nanjo of the Imperial university. He entered the priesthood at the age of 23 and was attached to the Obaku temple at Uji. After seven years in holy orders he started on his journey to Tibet, his sole object, as he explains in his narrative, to complete his studies of Buddhism. He declares also his intention of revisiting Nepal during 1904 to secure more collections of Buddhist scriptures in Sanskrit and also the Tibetan edition of the Tripiitaka.

"The Little Chevalier," by Mrs. M. E. M. Davis, is a new story concerning what befell a certain young viscount who came over from Paris to avenge the death of his father, killed in a duel years before. It tells of his encounters with the Little Chevalier, the heir of his father's dead enemy, his love for that enemy's daughter, his life at the governor's court, his adventures with the Indians, and there is a sense of mystery about the Little Chevalier, who continually provokes the reader's curiosity. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., publishers.

"The Blood Lines," by W. A. Fraser is a story of the north country of Canada beyond Winnipeg and the character, each drawn to the life, are the frontier Scotch and French Canadians, Indians and half-breeds of that romantic region. The story is dramatic and pathetic. It illustrates the manners and habits of a wild and picturesque community with vivid power. Published by Birkbeck.

"Tennyson's Suppressed Poems," collected and edited by J. Thompson. This work is a collection of the poems of Lord Tennyson not published in his other works. The poems were gathered here for the first time from old periodicals and suppressed editions. Published by Harper's.

"Limanora," the Island of Progress, by Godfrey Swensen. "Limanora" is a sequel to "Richard," which was published a year or two ago, and like "Richard" it is at once both a satire and an allegory. In "Limanora" the author has fulfilled his promise of describing the scientific advance of the community left on the central island after the process of expulsion of what to its inhabitants became the clogging elements had been completed. Published by Putnam.

"The Holiday Case," by Burton E. Stevenson. This is a detective story of the new style of Conan Doyle. It starts with the finding of a New York banker stabbed to death in his office. The man who finally unravels the tangle does so in a highly original manner. In the meantime many stirring incidents occur and the scene shifts from America onto a steamer and then to France. Published by Henry Holt & Co.

"Builders of the Beautiful," by H. L. Piner. This is a work of earnest reflection and inspiring suggestion upon the theme of the correspondence of physical form and spiritual nature, written in a clear, yet elevated style. Published by Funk & Wagnalls company.

"Dooryard Stories," by Clara Dillingham Pierson. Three stories are of things which the author has seen with her own eyes in her own yard. The stories are so interestingly written that if the children will think about it and look in their own dooryard they will probably learn many interesting things about what they see there. E. P. Dutton & Co.

"Daddy Joe's Fiddle," by Faith Bickford. Little Opechee was a half Indian child with a stern old puritan aunt who opposed her love of the fiddle, but in the end was won over by the music which the child produced. A very sweet and sympathetic tale for children. Dana, Estes & Co., publishers, Boston.

"The Little Christmas Shoe," by Jane Scott Woodruff, is a charming story for little folks, bearing a moral against pride and cruelty. The owner of the little shoe turns out to be the dear grandmother of the children to whom the story is told. Prettily bound and nicely printed and illustrated. -L. C. Page & Co., Boston.

"The Barefoot Time" is a collection of verse by Adelbert F. Caldwell, designed to amuse and perhaps instruct the young. It evinces no particular poetic talent on the author's part, but sufficient, it may be, for its purpose. Neatly bound in boards. The Gorham Press, Boston, publishers.

"The Life of a Wooden Doll," by Lewis Saxby, is profusely illustrated with photographs. The rhymes are simple and tell the tale of the Wooden Doll's life for a week, which is about the same as the story of ordinary housekeeping. Fox, Duffield & Co., New York.

"A Hill Prayer," by Marian Warner Wildman, the title poem of this collection, won the prize in the contest of the Century Magazine. It is a beautiful and saintly production. The author is to be congratulated upon the possession of a rare gift. The half hundred other poems in the book bear out this verdict. Richard G. Badger, Boston, publisher.

"Roger and Rose" and other stories, written by Katherine Beebe, and illustrated by Katherine H. Greenland. This is a little book of short stories. Bird stories; outdoor stories of flowers, weeds, flies and grasshoppers, katydids and squirrels. Also stories of our country, Thanksgiving day, Plymouth colony, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. Published by the Saalfield Co.

"Getting One's Bearings," talks to college men by Alexander McKenzie, D. D. To be a gentleman, a student of the world, and superior to it, is the theme on which Dr. McKenzie has grouped these talks. He speaks, too, about the things that mould men, friendship, luck, travel, the varied winds and forces that must be counted taking bearings for life's voyage. Fleming H. Revell Company, publishers.

"A Touch of Sun and Other Stories," by Mary Hallcock Foote. In this book she has brought together four delightful tales of the west. For the most part they sympathize with her from repeating situations or characters, and the reader passes from one story to another with a certainty of finding something fresh and entertaining. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., publishers.

NEW BOOKS AND MAGAZINES

"West Point Colors" is a Real Story of Life at the Great Military School.

VOLUME FOR OLDER GIRLS BY SAUNDERS It Deals Largely with Character Development Under Adverse Circumstances—Another Edition of "Leopard's Spots."

"West Point Colors," a real West Point story, by Anna B. Warner. The story opens with Charlemagne Kindred, the hero, and the only boy in the family, leaving home for West Point. The author gives beautiful descriptions of life at "The First Post." The author says: "The point of view. On guard; off guard; visitors; the furlough; the home stretch; the big reception, and finally when West Point days are over the return home to little 'Cheery,' the sweet, little girl, who has waited here all these years, and then 'The Leopard's Spots.' Since certain words of my story were written, a few changes have come in. The cadet classes have pledged themselves to abolition; the Hundredth Night (in its old wild glee) has been forbidden; the cadet howitzer is spiked. The shady nook along 'Filtration' has been renamed up; Fort Clinton a memory; the tents are brown, and Dade's white shirt now stands in the gayest and sunniest of thoroughfares. But human nature survives—and 'hoodie'—and the girls, so that my book is declared to be still 'absolutely true.'" Published by Fleming H. Revell company.

"The Story of the Gravelly," one of the excellent books for older girls, by Marshall Saunders, author of "Beautiful Joe." It deals largely with character development under adverse circumstances. Grandma Travers reverts over her little family with a firm but gentle hand, using as her motto, "Keep the family together, and the world will be made of it." The story is told in a simple, straightforward manner, and is full of interest and charm. Published by Fleming H. Revell company.

Another edition of "The Leopard's Spots," by Thomas Dixon, who is also the author of "The One Woman," has been published by Doubleday, Page & Co. The book contains ten illustrations by C. D. Williams and is very prettily bound in white with decorations of small red tulips and gold. It adds one more to the list of reasonable gift books.

Rev. Ekal Kawaguchi, whose narrative of personal adventures in Tibet, "The Latest News from Lhasa," will be one of the more important articles in the January Century, is a priest of the Zen sect of Buddhists, now 38 years of age. He was born in Sakai, near Osaka, studied at the temple of the Five Hundred Buddhas in Tokyo and prosecuted his Sanskrit studies under Rev. Bunyu Nanjo of the Imperial university. He entered the priesthood at the age of 23 and was attached to the Obaku temple at Uji. After seven years in holy orders he started on his journey to Tibet, his sole object, as he explains in his narrative, to complete his studies of Buddhism. He declares also his intention of revisiting Nepal during 1904 to secure more collections of Buddhist scriptures in Sanskrit and also the Tibetan edition of the Tripiitaka.

"The Little Chevalier," by Mrs. M. E. M. Davis, is a new story concerning what befell a certain young viscount who came over from Paris to avenge the death of his father, killed in a duel years before. It tells of his encounters with the Little Chevalier, the heir of his father's dead enemy, his love for that enemy's daughter, his life at the governor's court, his adventures with the Indians, and there is a sense of mystery about the Little Chevalier, who continually provokes the reader's curiosity. Houghton, Mifflin & Co., publishers.

"The Blood Lines," by W. A. Fraser is a story of the north country of Canada beyond Winnipeg and the character, each drawn to the life, are the frontier Scotch and French Canadians, Indians and half-breeds of that romantic region. The story is dramatic and pathetic. It illustrates the manners and habits of a wild and picturesque community with vivid power. Published by Birkbeck.

"Tennyson's Suppressed Poems," collected and edited by J. Thompson. This work is a collection of the poems of Lord Tennyson not published in his other works. The poems were gathered here for the first time from old periodicals and suppressed editions. Published by Harper's.

"Limanora," the Island of Progress, by Godfrey Swensen. "Limanora" is a sequel to "Richard," which was published a year or two ago, and like "Richard" it is at once both a satire and an allegory. In "Limanora" the author has fulfilled his promise of describing the scientific advance of the community left on the central island after the process of expulsion of what to its inhabitants became the clogging elements had been completed. Published by Putnam.

"The Holiday Case," by Burton E. Stevenson. This is a detective story of the new style of Conan Doyle. It starts with the finding of a New York banker stabbed to death in his office. The man who finally unravels the tangle does so in a highly original manner. In the meantime many stirring incidents occur and the scene shifts from America onto a steamer and then to France. Published by Henry Holt & Co.

"Builders of the Beautiful," by H. L. Piner. This is a work of earnest reflection and inspiring suggestion upon the theme of the correspondence of physical form and spiritual nature, written in a clear, yet elevated style. Published by Funk & Wagnalls company.

"Dooryard Stories," by Clara Dillingham Pierson. Three stories are of things which the author has seen with her own eyes in her own yard. The stories are so interestingly written that if the children will think about it and look in their own dooryard they will probably learn many interesting things about what they see there. E. P. Dutton & Co.

"Daddy Joe's Fiddle," by Faith Bickford. Little Opechee was a half Indian child with a stern old puritan aunt who opposed her love of the fiddle, but in the end was won over by the music which the child produced. A very sweet and sympathetic tale for children. Dana, Estes & Co., publishers, Boston.

"The Little Christmas Shoe," by Jane Scott Woodruff, is a charming story for little folks, bearing a moral against pride and cruelty. The owner of the little shoe turns out to be the dear grandmother of the children to whom the story is told. Prettily bound and nicely printed and illustrated. -L. C. Page & Co., Boston.

"The Barefoot Time" is a collection of verse by Adelbert F. Caldwell, designed to amuse and perhaps instruct the young. It evinces no particular poetic talent on the author's part, but sufficient, it may be, for its purpose. Neatly bound in boards. The Gorham Press, Boston, publishers.

"The Life of a Wooden Doll," by Lewis Saxby, is profusely illustrated with photographs. The rhymes are simple and tell the tale of the Wooden Doll's life for a week, which is about the same as the story of ordinary housekeeping. Fox, Duffield & Co., New York.

"A Hill Prayer," by Marian Warner Wildman, the title poem of this collection, won the prize in the contest of the Century Magazine. It is a beautiful and saintly production. The author is to be congratulated upon the possession of a rare gift. The half hundred other poems in the book bear out this verdict. Richard G. Badger, Boston, publisher.

"Roger and Rose" and other stories, written by Katherine Beebe, and illustrated by Katherine H. Greenland. This is a little book of short stories. Bird stories; outdoor stories of flowers, weeds, flies and grasshoppers, katydids and squirrels. Also stories of our country, Thanksgiving day, Plymouth colony, Abraham Lincoln and George Washington. Published by the Saalfield Co.

"Getting One's Bearings," talks to college men by Alexander McKenzie, D. D. To be a gentleman, a student of the world, and superior to it, is the theme on which Dr. McKenzie has grouped these talks. He speaks, too, about the things that mould men, friendship, luck, travel, the varied winds and forces that must be counted taking bearings for life's voyage. Fleming H. Revell Company, publishers.

TOURING DEAR IN THE WEST

Riding on Trains is Not Altogether Ideal to W. T. Sherman-Doyle.

DROPS BIG ROLL COMING FROM CHICAGO Attorney from Washington, D. C., Meets Three "Friends," Who Leave Him About the Same Time His Money Does.

William Tecumseh Sherman-Doyle, a prominent attorney of Washington, D. C., thinks traveling very expensive in the west. Mr. Sherman-Doyle, let go of just $75, besides the money for his ticket, berth and meals, etc., on a trip from Chicago to Omaha, and he concludes, with some degree of justification at least, that that is too much.

"It was a decidedly pleasant trip," said the easterner, "but entirely too expensive to be coveted."

The worst of it is, Mr. Sherman-Doyle cannot tell just when and how he and the $75 parted company. He knows it must have been shortly after three very agreeable gentlemen he met on the train took their leave of him.

"I didn't observe that the money was gone," said Mr. Sherman-Doyle, "until I started to get off my train at Omaha."

The three "gentlemen" therefore, were of the highest brand. Their meeting with the attorney from the capital city was entirely incidental, of course. Mr. Sherman-Doyle and they just happened to be occupying adjacent "pews," and these three men, all westerners, didn't want to be unneighborly and therefore were quick to make friends with the lawyer from the east—who made it known in more ways than one.

Falls Out Long Green. A little conversation, a smoke or two and then a game of crib—just for fun and other things. Wagering, as it were, began to take the place of the game. The attorney, in doing so inadvertently exposed to view some of the kind of money they have back east. Somehow or other it seemed to strike the fancy of his western friends.

The game was over a little while after Mr. Sherman-Doyle thought nothing of it. He just before the train reached Council Bluffs the three westerners and Mr. Sherman-Doyle some way got separated and that was the last the easterner saw of his western friends, of whom he had learned to think so much. He was disappointed, too, for they had arranged to travel together as far as Denver.

When Mr. Sherman-Doyle got off at Omaha and discovered the cost of his trip from Chicago he thought he had a remote idea why his newly-made friends had deserted him. Neither he nor the police could locate the money or the men.

HURT GROUND BUT NOT HEAD

Colored Man Falls Ten Feet from Club Swung by an Inmate Rival.

Ollie Duke, colored, was given sixty days in the county jail for knocking Walter Bean, also colored, off a high porch at 1150 Capitol avenue Monday night with a stick of cordwood. Bean—one of the hardy variety—was hit on the head, fell on his head and escaped death, but was badly shaken up. Witnesses said that Bean fell ten feet and made a big dent in the ground when he hit.

The men fought over a woman.

A New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. Arthur Chapman, writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two years old. It had a bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the young child's chest, it would cure it. I would not doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby."

Illinois Central Changes Time. Effective Monday, December 21, the Fort Dodge local train No. 22, via Illinois Central railroad, will leave Council Bluffs at 4:00 p. m. and arrive at Fort Dodge at 8:00 p. m. Train No. 11, from Fort Dodge to Council Bluffs, will leave Fort Dodge at 6:30 a. m. and arrive at Council Bluffs at 10:30 a. m. W. H. Brill, Dist. Pass. Agent, Omaha, Neb.

Christmas and New Year Holiday Rates. Fare and one-third for the round trip to points within a distance of 250 miles via the Chicago Great Western railway. Tickets on sale December 24, 25 and January 1, good returning until January 4. For further information apply to George F. Thomas, general agent, 1414 Farnam street, Omaha, Neb.

Holiday Rates. Via the Missouri Pacific to points within 200-mile limit at very low rates. On sale December 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, and January 1, 1904. Limit for return, January 4. Further information apply to Union station city ticket office, S. E. Corner 14th and Douglas streets.

Announcements of the Theaters. At a matinee this afternoon and again this evening, "The Sleepy King" will be presented at the Boyd theater. This latest of musical comedies has made a hit wherever it has been presented and its Omaha reception is no different from its general experience. It has the music, the costumes, the mirth and humor, and the clever comedy and accomplished vocalists and pretty chorus girls, and its pictures are of the most pleasing sort.

The Christmas attraction at the Boyd theater will be William H. Crane in his new play, "The Spenders." The engagement opens with matinee on Friday.

The management of the Krug theater announces an important theatrical event, beginning Thursday night, for three nights and two matinees, Christmas and Saturday, when Katherine Wilton, supported by Edward C. White's well known company will present for the third time in Omaha "The Power Behind the Throne," which has scored an emphatic success wherever the play has been presented. Its military cast, thrilling sword play and numerous chivalric situations have combined to make this play one of the strongest and most popular stage productions of the decade. Everything necessary to reproduce the beautiful and historically correct picture is carried by the company, including the furniture, which was modeled and built from correct drawings. This is the first time in the history of this attraction at popular prices. Seats are now on sale.

The only importer of diamonds within 50 miles of Omaha is A. B. Huberman, for thirty-seven years corner Thirteenth and Douglas. Prices below all competitors.

TABLE AND KITCHEN

Baking on Trains is Not Altogether Ideal to W. T. Sherman-Doyle.

DROPS BIG ROLL COMING FROM CHICAGO Attorney from Washington, D. C., Meets Three "Friends," Who Leave Him About the Same Time His Money Does.

William Tecumseh Sherman-Doyle, a prominent attorney of Washington, D. C., thinks traveling very expensive in the west. Mr. Sherman-Doyle, let go of just $75, besides the money for his ticket, berth and meals, etc., on a trip from Chicago to Omaha, and he concludes, with some degree of justification at least, that that is too much.

"It was a decidedly pleasant trip," said the easterner, "but entirely too expensive to be coveted."

The worst of it is, Mr. Sherman-Doyle cannot tell just when and how he and the $75 parted company. He knows it must have been shortly after three very agreeable gentlemen he met on the train took their leave of him.

"I didn't observe that the money was gone," said Mr. Sherman-Doyle, "until I started to get off my train at Omaha."

The three "gentlemen" therefore, were of the highest brand. Their meeting with the attorney from the capital city was entirely incidental, of course. Mr. Sherman-Doyle and they just happened to be occupying adjacent "pews," and these three men, all westerners, didn't want to be unneighborly and therefore were quick to make friends with the lawyer from the east—who made it known in more ways than one.

Falls Out Long Green. A little conversation, a smoke or two and then a game of crib—just for fun and other things. Wagering, as it were, began to take the place of the game. The attorney, in doing so inadvertently exposed to view some of the kind of money they have back east. Somehow or other it seemed to strike the fancy of his western friends.

The game was over a little while after Mr. Sherman-Doyle thought nothing of it. He just before the train reached Council Bluffs the three westerners and Mr. Sherman-Doyle some way got separated and that was the last the easterner saw of his western friends, of whom he had learned to think so much. He was disappointed, too, for they had arranged to travel together as far as Denver.

When Mr. Sherman-Doyle got off at Omaha and discovered the cost of his trip from Chicago he thought he had a remote idea why his newly-made friends had deserted him. Neither he nor the police could locate the money or the men.

HURT GROUND BUT NOT HEAD

Colored Man Falls Ten Feet from Club Swung by an Inmate Rival.

Ollie Duke, colored, was given sixty days in the county jail for knocking Walter Bean, also colored, off a high porch at 1150 Capitol avenue Monday night with a stick of cordwood. Bean—one of the hardy variety—was hit on the head, fell on his head and escaped death, but was badly shaken up. Witnesses said that Bean fell ten feet and made a big dent in the ground when he hit.

The men fought over a woman.

A New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. Arthur Chapman, writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two years old. It had a bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the young child's chest, it would cure it. I would not doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby."

Illinois Central Changes Time. Effective Monday, December 21, the Fort Dodge local train No. 22, via Illinois Central railroad, will leave Council Bluffs at 4:00 p. m. and arrive at Fort Dodge at 8:00 p. m. Train No. 11, from Fort Dodge to Council Bluffs, will leave Fort Dodge at 6:30 a. m. and arrive at Council Bluffs at 10:30 a. m. W. H. Brill, Dist. Pass. Agent, Omaha, Neb.

Christmas and New Year Holiday Rates. Fare and one-third for the round trip to points within a distance of 250 miles via the Chicago Great Western railway. Tickets on sale December 24, 25 and January 1, good returning until January 4. For further information apply to George F. Thomas, general agent, 1414 Farnam street, Omaha, Neb.

Holiday Rates. Via the Missouri Pacific to points within 200-mile limit at very low rates. On sale December 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, and January 1, 1904. Limit for return, January 4. Further information apply to Union station city ticket office, S. E. Corner 14th and Douglas streets.

Announcements of the Theaters. At a matinee this afternoon and again this evening, "The Sleepy King" will be presented at the Boyd theater. This latest of musical comedies has made a hit wherever it has been presented and its Omaha reception is no different from its general experience. It has the music, the costumes, the mirth and humor, and the clever comedy and accomplished vocalists and pretty chorus girls, and its pictures are of the most pleasing sort.

The Christmas attraction at the Boyd theater will be William H. Crane in his new play, "The Spenders." The engagement opens with matinee on Friday.

The management of the Krug theater announces an important theatrical event, beginning Thursday night, for three nights and two matinees, Christmas and Saturday, when Katherine Wilton, supported by Edward C. White's well known company will present for the third time in Omaha "The Power Behind the Throne," which has scored an emphatic success wherever the play has been presented. Its military cast, thrilling sword play and numerous chivalric situations have combined to make this play one of the strongest and most popular stage productions of the decade. Everything necessary to reproduce the beautiful and historically correct picture is carried by the company, including the furniture, which was modeled and built from correct drawings. This is the first time in the history of this attraction at popular prices. Seats are now on sale.

The only importer of diamonds within 50 miles of Omaha is A. B. Huberman, for thirty-seven years corner Thirteenth and Douglas. Prices below all competitors.

TABLE AND KITCHEN

Baking on Trains is Not Altogether Ideal to W. T. Sherman-Doyle.

DROPS BIG ROLL COMING FROM CHICAGO Attorney from Washington, D. C., Meets Three "Friends," Who Leave Him About the Same Time His Money Does.

William Tecumseh Sherman-Doyle, a prominent attorney of Washington, D. C., thinks traveling very expensive in the west. Mr. Sherman-Doyle, let go of just $75, besides the money for his ticket, berth and meals, etc., on a trip from Chicago to Omaha, and he concludes, with some degree of justification at least, that that is too much.

"It was a decidedly pleasant trip," said the easterner, "but entirely too expensive to be coveted."

The worst of it is, Mr. Sherman-Doyle cannot tell just when and how he and the $75 parted company. He knows it must have been shortly after three very agreeable gentlemen he met on the train took their leave of him.

"I didn't observe that the money was gone," said Mr. Sherman-Doyle, "until I started to get off my train at Omaha."

The three "gentlemen" therefore, were of the highest brand. Their meeting with the attorney from the capital city was entirely incidental, of course. Mr. Sherman-Doyle and they just happened to be occupying adjacent "pews," and these three men, all westerners, didn't want to be unneighborly and therefore were quick to make friends with the lawyer from the east—who made it known in more ways than one.

Falls Out Long Green. A little conversation, a smoke or two and then a game of crib—just for fun and other things. Wagering, as it were, began to take the place of the game. The attorney, in doing so inadvertently exposed to view some of the kind of money they have back east. Somehow or other it seemed to strike the fancy of his western friends.

The game was over a little while after Mr. Sherman-Doyle thought nothing of it. He just before the train reached Council Bluffs the three westerners and Mr. Sherman-Doyle some way got separated and that was the last the easterner saw of his western friends, of whom he had learned to think so much. He was disappointed, too, for they had arranged to travel together as far as Denver.

When Mr. Sherman-Doyle got off at Omaha and discovered the cost of his trip from Chicago he thought he had a remote idea why his newly-made friends had deserted him. Neither he nor the police could locate the money or the men.

HURT GROUND BUT NOT HEAD

Colored Man Falls Ten Feet from Club Swung by an Inmate Rival.

Ollie Duke, colored, was given sixty days in the county jail for knocking Walter Bean, also colored, off a high porch at 1150 Capitol avenue Monday night with a stick of cordwood. Bean—one of the hardy variety—was hit on the head, fell on his head and escaped death, but was badly shaken up. Witnesses said that Bean fell ten feet and made a big dent in the ground when he hit.

The men fought over a woman.

A New Way of Using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Mr. Arthur Chapman, writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbor of mine had a child just over two years old. It had a bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the young child's chest, it would cure it. I would not doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby."

Illinois Central Changes Time. Effective Monday, December 21, the Fort Dodge local train No. 22, via Illinois Central railroad, will leave Council Bluffs at 4:00 p. m. and arrive at Fort Dodge at 8:00 p. m. Train No. 11, from Fort Dodge to Council Bluffs, will leave Fort Dodge at 6:30 a. m. and arrive at Council Bluffs at 10:30 a. m. W. H. Brill, Dist. Pass. Agent, Omaha, Neb.

Christmas and New Year Holiday Rates. Fare and one-third for the round trip to points within a distance of 250 miles via the Chicago Great Western railway. Tickets on sale December 24, 25 and January 1, good returning until January 4. For further information apply to George F. Thomas, general agent, 1414 Farnam street, Omaha, Neb.

Holiday Rates. Via the Missouri Pacific to points within 200-mile limit at very low rates. On sale December 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, and January 1, 1904. Limit for return, January 4. Further information apply to Union station city ticket office, S. E. Corner 14th and Douglas streets.

Announcements of the Theaters. At a matinee this afternoon and again this evening, "The Sleepy King" will be presented at the Boyd theater. This latest of musical comedies has made a hit wherever it has been presented and its Omaha reception is no different from its general experience. It has the music, the costumes, the mirth and humor, and the clever comedy and accomplished vocalists and pretty chorus girls, and its pictures are of the most pleasing sort.

The Christmas attraction at the Boyd theater will be William H. Crane in his new play, "The Spenders." The engagement opens with matinee on Friday.

The management of the Krug theater announces an important theatrical event, beginning Thursday night, for three nights and two matinees, Christmas and Saturday, when Katherine Wilton, supported by Edward C. White's well known company will present for the third time in Omaha "The Power Behind the Throne," which has scored an emphatic success wherever the play has been presented. Its military cast, thrilling sword play and numerous chivalric situations have combined to make this play one of the strongest and most popular stage productions of the decade. Everything necessary to reproduce the beautiful and historically correct picture is carried by the company, including the furniture, which was modeled and built from correct drawings. This is the first time in the history of this attraction at popular prices. Seats are now on sale.

The only importer of diamonds within 50 miles of Omaha is A. B. Huberman, for thirty-seven years corner Thirteenth and Douglas. Prices below all competitors.

Gunther's CANDY FOR XMAS

There is no other candy in the world just like Gunther's—it just melts in your mouth. It has been made for years by one concern—of pure crystal sugar—not a bit of glucose in it. The constant thought has been "not how cheap, but how good" it could be made.

A FEW PRICES AND VARIETIES:

- Gunther's New Italian Chocolate Creams (in boxes).....30c-60c-$1.20
Gunther's Sweets (chocolates—in boxes).....30c-60c
Assorted Chocolates (all flavors—in boxes)....60c-1.20
Assorted Bonbons and Chocolates (in boxes)....50c
Mixed Candy (in bulk), made up of peppermint, Peanut, Hoarhound, Gum Drops and Burnt Almonds, mixed.....20c

Package goods, meaning the various kinds of candies put up in packages at the candy factory, sell for from 5c to 25c a package.

Candy Department. BRANDEIS BOSTON STORE & SONS Exclusive Agents.

Free Xmas Presents. With every purchase of $1.00 or more, depending on amount of purchase, we will give you choice of a box of cigars, bottle of wine, decanter and glasses to match, weaker covered decanter or stems, any one of them would make a nice Xmas gift—Our store is run on a high standard—we cater to the most exclusive trade and carry the finest line of goods in the market, and owing to our ability to buy in large quantities we can sell at the lowest prices.
Champagne, pints up from50c
Claret, quart, 25c1.00
Port-wine, quart1.50
Sherry-quart 40c1.50
Fokky-quart 50c1.50
Gallon2.00
Decanter, 6 glasses—set1.00
Baccara Cocksails, 12c—two for1.25
Quarts1.25
Creme de Menthe—up from5c
Cognac Brandy1.00
Sazerac Cocktails, bottled—individuals, 12c