Rear Admiral Wise, commanding the training squadron, has been ordered to take his ships from New Orleans to Pensacola, where they will spend some time in exercises. York have been in a state of readiness for several weeks, but so far no call has been made for them. It is expected that one of them will be utilized in bringing to the United States the artillery troops now stationed near Havana and at Santiago. Primarily all of these transports are intended for the Manila service.

At Florence lake the South Omaha Ice company starts to work on ice eleven inches thick. Frank Moeckler, local agent for the company, asserted that every pound of ice that could be put up would be harvested this winter.

T. W. Tallafero, general manager of the Cudahy Packing company stated that he did not intend to begin cutting ice at Seymour lake until next week. Possibly he might wait until there was another cold snap, as he did not like to start work on ice less than a foot thick. This company will not put up all the ice it can take care of.

General Manager R. C. Howe of the Armour company said that the company lakes at Memphis had only about six inches of good ice now and that cutting would not begin until a better showing was made. The Armour houses at Memphis hold about 60,000 tons. Last year the houses were filled with great stacks of piled on the ground. With any kind of ice-making weather Armour's will harvest close to 100,000 tons this winter.

At a rough estimate the packers expect to gather about 60,000 tons of ice.

Last year when there was plenty of ice the packers put up enough to last for two years, but the demand from points down the river after the flood in June, reduced the surplus. Dealers in ice say that on account of the St. Louis exposition all the ice that can be gathered will be harvested this winter, as the demand is expected to be unusually heavy. When the packers and the ice companies get down to work it is expected that employment will be furnished to several thousand men. A large number of packing house employes who are temporarily out of work on account of the light runs of live stock expect to go to work on the ice fields as soon as the weather gets cold enough.

Heavy Police Court Grist

A motley crowd of vagrants and laboring men appeared before Police Judge King yesterday. Nearly every one of the two dozen prisoners was marked down on the blotter as "plain drunk." One in a while a little disturbance of the peace was mixed in. Judge King was good natured and with one or two exceptions he dismissed all of the prisoners after giving the accused a bit of advice. One prisoner with a badly scarred face told the judge in broken English that the night watchman, Garman, had hit him on the head with a brick. The court turned the man loose and directed the chief of police to keep that particular sidewalk nailed down after this. Another guest of the police explained his condition by saying that he had been given a present of a bottle of whiskey and had held the bottle to his mouth top long. He and Nels Larson were up for fighting. They are brothers, but neither seemed to know how the fuss started. Both had black eyes and bruised faces. As these prisoners were the only ones in the crowd who had any money, they were compelled to pay a fine of $1 each.

Chambers Waives Examination

Isaac Chambers was brought down from the county jail yesterday by Detective Eisfelder and arranged in police court on the charge of murder in the first degree. After the complaint had been read to him Chambers, acting on the advice of his attorney, entered a plea of not guilty and waived examination. Immediately following the plea Chambers was taken back to the county jail. The prisoner had nothing to say about the case, even declining to talk with the officer who escorted him down from Omaha and back again. The remains of Joseph Chambers will remain at the the morgue. An effort is being made by colored people to raise funds for a suitable burial.

POPE IS DISPLEASED

cessor in the chair of Peter. This, however, is not causing any alarm regarding the health of the pontiff, as popes as well as all the bishops of the world are obliged by law to make their will in order to prevent any complication in case of sudden death or the possibility that relatives should claim the property of the church as the personal property of the deceased. The will of Pius X. will be kept in the hands of the camerlengo of the church until his death.

Cardinals Martini and Vives y Tuto, representing respectively the Augustinian and the Franciscan orders, have submitted to the pope the dissatisfaction existing among the religious orders regarding the election of the pontiff to be held in the United States for the land of the friars in the Philippine Islands. It was thought that a little pressure brought to bear upon the pope would induce him to disclaim the agreement entered into between Governor Taft and Mgr. Guleto, but the pope refused to upset the result of the negotiations. The pope has openly declared himself well pleased that the long-existing controversy had been settled.

At the instigation of Cardinal Rampolla, whose election to the papacy was vetoed by the Austrian government, the rules of future conclaves are to be modified in a special bull to be issued by the pope, which will render ineffective a "veto" from any of the Catholic powers. Cardinal Del Val, who was rejected by the Austrian government as nuncio at Vienna, is hard at work on the proposed pontifical document, which will, however, be kept secret until the actual meeting of the next conclave.

PRINCESS HAS TRIED FRIEND

Lady Eva Dugdale a Faithful Mentor and Companion to England's Future Queen.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) (Special Telegram.)—The princess of Wales is so fortunate in having as faithful a friend in Lady Eva Dugdale as the queen has in Mrs. Knollys, who saved her majesty from being burned to death at Sandringham. When the princess May married Prince George of Wales so soon after the death of his brother Clarence, to whom she was betrothed, the English people took a violent dislike to her in spite of her previous great popularity. The marriage was the doing of Queen Victoria, but the princess had to bear all the blame, and the princess had to bear all the blame, and the princess had to bear all the blame.

CHURCHILLS GET TOGETHER

Family Trying to Decide Where It Stands on Chamberlain's Fiscal Policy.

(Copyright, 1903, by Press Publishing Co.) LONDON, Dec. 26.—(New York World Telegram—Special Telegram.)—The Marlboroughs, for the first time since their marriage, did not spend the Christmas holidays at Blenheim. With their children they joined the earl and Countess Howe's party at Gosport park, where an important family conclave was held to decide whether the Churchill family influence shall go for or against Joseph Chamberlain's policy. The Churchills are divided in opinion on this question. Winston Churchill is one of Mr. Chamberlain's most uncompromising and formidable opponents. His mother, Lady Randolph Churchill, supports her son. The duke of Marlborough was made under secretary for the colonies by Mr. Chamberlain expressly to separate him from Winston. But the duke is torn in mind between his belief in Winston and a painful decision to renounce his office if he decides against protection. All his sons are protectionists, and they hope to get the duke out definitely on their side.

PARIS CARDINAL IMPORTUNATE

Wants Works of Able Loyal Placed on Index to Vindicate Himself.

ROME, Dec. 26.—It is now known that Cardinal Richard of Paris has urged the Vatican to have the works of Abbe Loisy put in the index expurgatoire, fearing that delay to do so would be interpreted as a rejection of his first condemnation of them. Archbishop Migon of Abbe Loisy's works, but it is said to have failed in its object. It is the belief of unprejudiced people that Abbe Loisy's criticisms of the Bible, etc., cannot be repressed, and it is considered that the abbe will not abjure his works.

BRYAN'S FEARS RELIEVED

Finds United States Ambassadors Abroad Good Men in Right Places.

DELIVERS ADDRESS TO BERLIN AMERICANS

Said that When He Returns He Will Favor Government Owning Homes for Representatives in Other Countries.

BERLIN, Dec. 26.—William J. Bryan was entertained at luncheon today by Ambassador Tower and called on Foreign Secretary Richthofen.

Emperor William has expressed regret that domestic Christmas festivities will prevent him from receiving Mr. Bryan in audience.

About 100 Americans and distinguished Germans were introduced to Mr. Bryan today at the reception of the American Chamber of Commerce, given in his honor at the Hotel Bristol.

Mr. Bryan in a speech said:

In my meeting with citizens of my country, travelling abroad, I have been relieved of one of the fears I had in 1896. I was afraid if I was not elected it might result in the election of a man who would honor their country in diplomatic and consular positions, that I will go back relieved of one of my fears. I desire to acknowledge my gratitude to the representatives of my country everywhere.

On his return to the United States, it is said, Mr. Bryan will advocate a bill at Washington providing that the United States government build houses for its ambassadors and ministers.

After the reception Mr. Bryan took the night train for Amsterdam, where he will sail for New York Wednesday, from Liverpool, on board the White Star line steamer Celtic.

POPE OBJECTS TO THE VETO

Says that Changed Conditions Makes Privileges of Certain Countries Unjust.

ROME, Dec. 26.—The Osservatore Romano, the Vatican organ, contains another, and it is claimed, more important answer to that part of the speech of Count Golschowski, the Austrian foreign minister, delivered December 16, which referred to the veto of Austria against Cardinal Rampolla at the late conclave.

The paper says that the Holy See is studying measures to prevent the practical or theoretical use of the right of the veto in conclaves. The substance of the article, which is attributed to Pope Pius, is that the changed political and religious conditions today render unbearable the veto which, within the past, the church has prudently tolerated.

When the civil and ecclesiastical powers were strictly united, the article says, the sovereignty of Austria, France and Spain were the right arm of Catholicism, often making the church pay dearly for their protection, but rendering altogether signal services. Therefore, it continues, they were justified in having a persona grata as pope. But today, when governments make open profession of atheism, persecute the church with iniquitous laws, and proclaim the complete separation of civil and ecclesiastical powers, to pretend to influence a papal election is arbitrary, and an injustice repugnant to modern conscience besides, because the constitutional government's veto is no longer in the hands of sovereigns, but in those of men often without faith.

The article concludes: "What Golschowski did, tomorrow might be done by a Combes."
