

AFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Local Stock Exchange Only One Living Up to Fort Worth Pact.

GETTING TIRED OF OTHERS' BAD FAITH

Election of Officers on Exchange Today Arouses Interest, as Two Tickets Are in the Field.

The South Omaha Live Stock exchange is the only exchange in the country that has adopted all of the recommendations made at the Fort Worth convention and is enforcing the same.

At the other exchanges so many alterations were made in the Fort Worth recommendations that considerable latitude is given.

"If it is found," said this member, "that the other exchanges do not intend to follow out the intent of the Fort Worth recommendations the matter doubtless will be called to the attention of the members and a reconsideration of the action made.

Commission dealers say that while the rules are in effect they propose living up to them.

"It is business we are after," remarked a live stock dealer, "and we propose to get stock to this market.

The election of officers at the exchange today will occupy the attention of the members to some extent.

The result will be announced about 4 o'clock.

GOSSIP ON COMMISSION ROW

Customer Invades the Silent Precincts and Disrupts New Year's Lethargy.

The fruits and vegetables in commission row were started yesterday by a sound which was distinctly audible in the oppressive silence and desertion. It was a customer. Since the New Year's buying the market has been putting up a very good imitation of Rip Van Winkle during the third year of his nap.

While nobody was around to notice it the apples and the oranges rubbed out the old figures on the slate and chalked up 5 and 10- or 15-cent advances respectively.

The oranges are feeling better—they certainly are tasting better. The rubber quality of the fiber has practically disappeared with experience. The market suffered with a glut from Thanksgiving on.

Now this has been changed. The Florida are practically cleaned up, the northern California crop has been put out of the way and the south has to have the market to themselves.

The absence of rain probably is the chief reason for such elegant, smooth texture and good flavor that navals possess.

However, it is well to bear in mind that the fruit has not increased in size as usual and the crop is bound to be reduced 8 or 10 per cent of what it would have been if we had had early rains.

The way things look, there need not be any fear this year of "too large a crop."

About the only green things on the market now are brussels sprouts and hot house cucumbers.

MESSAGE ON CANAL TREATY

President Roosevelt Treats the Question in All of Its Varied Phases.

UNITED STATES MUST CONTROL CANAL Details of Negotiations with Columbia and Rejection of Reasonable and Just Proposition is Recited.

that the recognition of the Republic of Panama was an act justified by the interests of collective civilization.

government could be said to have received a mandate from civilization to effect an object the accomplishment of which was demanded in the interest of mankind.

The United States holds the position with regard to the interoceanic canal.

Since our purpose to build the canal was definitely announced, there have come from all quarters assurances of approval and encouragement.

Among those who signed this resolution on behalf of their respective governments was General Reyes of Colombia.

"The republics assembled at the international conference of Mexico applauded the purpose of the United States government to construct an interoceanic canal, and acknowledge that this work will not only be worthy of the greatest nations of the world, but also in the highest sense a degree beneficial to the development of commerce between the American states and the other countries of the world."

That our position as the mandatory of civilization has been by means of misconception shown by the promptitude with which the powers have, one after another, followed the recognition of Panama as an independent state.

Our action in recognizing the new republic has been followed by like recognition of the Republic of Germany, Denmark, Russia, Sweden and Norway, Nicaragua, Peru, China, Cuba, Great Britain, Italy, Costa Rica, Japan, and Austria-Hungary.

In view of the manifold considerations of treaty rights and obligation, of national interest and safety, and of collective civilization, by which our government is constrained to act, I am at a loss to comprehend the attitude of those who can discern in the recognition of the Republic of Panama only a general approval of the principle of "revolution" by which a government is overthrown or one portion of a country separated from another.

Only the simplest justification can be given for a revolutionary movement of either kind. But there is no fixed rule which can be applied to all such movements.

Each case must be judged on its own merits. There have been many such revolutionary movements, many movements for the dismemberment of countries, which were evil, tried by any standard.

But in my opinion the recognition of Panama as an independent state was a revolutionary movement of a different kind.

It would be well for those who are pessimistic as to our action in peacefully recognizing the Republic of Panama, who are lawfully protected the transit from invasion and disturbance, to recall what has been done in Cuba, where we intervened even by force on general grounds of national interest and duty.

When we intervened it was freely prophesied that we intended to keep Cuba and administer it for our own interests.

The result has demonstrated in singularly conclusive fashion the futility of these prophecies.

Cuba is now an independent republic. We governed it in its own interests for a few years, till it was able to stand alone, and started it upon its career of self-government and independence, granting it all necessary aid.

We have received from Cuba a grant of two naval stations, so situated that they in no possible way menace the liberty of the island, and yet serve as important defenses for the Cuban people, as well as for our own possessions.

It is to be remembered that a failure to sign attack. The people of Cuba have been immeasurably benefited by our interference in their behalf, and our own gain has been great.

So will it be with Panama. The people of the isthmus, as an integral part of the adjacent parts of Central and South America, will be greatly benefited by the building of the canal and the guarantee of peace and order along its line; and hand in hand with the benefit to them will be the benefit to us and to mankind.

By our prompt and decisive action, not only have our interests and those of the world at large been conserved, but we have forestalled complications which were likely to be fruitful in loss to ourselves, and in bloodshed and suffering to the people of the isthmus.

Instead of using our forces, as we were invited by Colombia to do, for the twofold purpose of defeating our own rights and interests and the interests of the civilized world, and of compelling the submission of Spain with other nations, those whom they regarded as oppressors, we shall, as in duty bound, keep the transit open and prevent its being closed, while the only question now before us is that of the ratification of the treaty.

For our own people, and for the people to be benefited by our interference in their behalf, and our own gain has been great.

The Story of Uneeda Biscuit. We never tire of telling the story of Uneeda Biscuit. Uneeda Biscuit are the result of two ideas. That soda crackers could be made better than they had ever been made before. That it was possible to convey them to the home fresh, crisp and clean. The importance of the soda cracker as an article of daily consumption made it well worth while to make the best soda cracker that could be made, and to place it on the table as good as it had been made. To do the first required the selection of the best materials and the highest skill. To do the second upset all traditions. The oldest bakers said there was no way to keep a soda cracker good. That people were satisfied to eat them stale, as they had been in the habit of doing. And so it fell to the lot of broader minds to do this unheard of thing—to keep a soda cracker good until eaten. The result was a beautiful royal purple and white package—that kept out the air, moisture and dust; that retained the natural flavor of the biscuit, keeping it crisp and fresh until it reached the table. To-day, nearly three hundred million packages of Uneeda Biscuit have been consumed by the thoughtful people of this country and the demand is ever increasing. That is the story of Uneeda Biscuit. Some day we will tell it over again for the benefit of those who are still "in the habit" of buying stale and broken crackers in a paper bag, when they can get Uneeda Biscuit whole, fresh and clean in an air-tight package.
