Carmack Makes a Bitter Attack on Course of the President.

SPOONER DEFENDS HIM AS WARMLY

Day's Proceedings Start Off with Lively Tilt Over the Labor Troubles Now Going On in Colorado.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.-Panama agair today was the principal subject of consideration in the senate and as on yesterday the debate was spirited. Mr. Carmack opened the proceedings with a set speech in pointed criticism of the president's course and was followed by Mr. Spooner, the only other speaker of the day, in de fense of the president's action as law abiding and in defense of the president himself "patriotic, brave and true man."

Mr. Tillman frequently interrupted Mr. Spooner and there were a number of sharp encounters between them. When the senate adjourned the Panama question was still before it, and it was announced that the discussion would be resumed tomorrow after the disposition of Postoffice department inquiry resolutions.

Before the Panama subject was taken up there was a brief but lively discussion be tween Messrs. Patterson and Scott of the labor troubles in Colorado. Today's session of the senate began with the presentation by Mr. Patterson (Colo.) of a telegraphic petition from the Federation of Labor of Colorado, in session in Denver, requesting the adoption of the resolution formerly presented in the senate by Mr. Patterson providing for an investigation of the strike by the senate committee on the judiciary. Mr. Patterson said that the federation numbers 35,000 men. He asked to have the resolution referred to the judiciary committee together with the petition. The petition was read. The request for an investigation was upon a representation of the extreme gravity of the situation.

Senator Scott is Interested.

The presentation of the papers was made he basis of a sharp colloquy between Mr. Patterson and Mr. Scott. "The senator from West Virginia will admit that he is one of the mine owners, said Mr. Patterson, and Mr. Scott admitted that such was the fact. Mr. Scott then asked for the reading of a reply from the mine owners of Colorado, well at a nominal cost but subsequently withdrew the request, con tenting himself with asking to have the reply go to the committee and be printed and considered with other papers bearing upon the question. Mr. Patterson then proceeded to say that

Mr. Hale offered the following resolution is the result of an agreement between him self and Mr. Bacon during vesterday's ses sion, looking to a settlement of the Panama question:

Whereas, The state of Panama, for-merly a part of the Republic of Colombia, has seceded from that republic and has set up a government, republican in form, un-der the name of the Republic of Panama; and.
Whereas, The independence of said Re-public of Panama has been recognized by the United States and by many other na-the United States and by many other nations; and,

Whereas, A treaty is now pending before the senate between the United States and the Republic of Panama, the ratification of which will insure the speedy building of the interoceanic canal by the United States across the territory of said Republic of Panama; therefore,
Resolved, That, in any claim which the Republic of Colombia in any form, may make against the said Republic of Panama for indemnification or loss of territory or increased burden of the debt of the said Republic of Colombia, the president is requested to tender his best offices toward the peaceful adjustment of all controversies that have arisen, or may arise, between said Republe of Colombia and the Republic of Panama.

The resolution was read and Mr. Hale sald Republic of Colombia and the Repub-lic of Panama.

The resolution was read and Mr. Hale

The Panama resolution offered by Mr. Gorman was laid before the senate and Mr. Carmack was recognized.

Mr. Spooner moved to strike out of the Gorman resolution on Panama the fifth section, which provides:

And also to inform the senate which words, if any, in the treaty of 1848 authorized the United States, in the opinion of the president, to enter by military force and uninvited into the territorial jurisdiction of New Granada or Colombia in order to prevent the interruption or embarrasment of free traffic across the isthmus.

Mr. Carmack sald the republican administration had been guilty of the worst kind of partisanship in refusing to execute the Spooner law because of the fear that the opposition would secure an advantage. He then discussed at length Mr. Lodge's defense of the president's rights to recognize the independence of other countries. -All our and spoke of the new isthmian power as "a hideous abortion of night and darkness, misnamed the Republic of Panama."

Says President Made War.

Mr. Carmack contended that President toosevelt had not contented himself with the recognition of Panama, but had intervened. "His acts were not simply offensive, not simply a cause for war, but they were war," he said. "As a matter of fact there never was any insurrection on the isthmus," said Mr. Carmack. "They speak of the rising," he said, "as the act of one man. Very true; and that one man was the president of the United States." Spooner Defends President.

Mr. Spooner replied to Mr. Carmack, saying that he had felt regret at hearing the criticisms of the president, who had registered an oath in heaven to discharge his duties. Mr. Carmack had made a sinister and unsupported statement when he said that this country had begun a systematic encroachment on the rights of the South American republics. No man had stood more consistently for those republics than had President Roosevelt, and Mr. Spooner instanced the course of the president in the Venezuelan difficulty. No president in our history had stood more staunchly for the Monroe doctrine. He hoped the southern republics would turn a deaf ear to any individual pronunciamento to the effect that the United States could ever interfere in their affairs, except in their interest.

Mr. Spooner also gave attention to the charges of disobedience of the law by the president.

As the author of the Spooner act, the speaker said, he wished to express the opinion that the law had not been violated by what the president had done. The law, he said, recognized the superiority of the Panama route because it was shorter and because it was susceptible of being made a sea-level canal. Not only the business but the defense of the country might demand a canal through which the warships could pass without going through could be converted into a sea-level route. After reviewing the events relating to the canal negotiations, Mr. Spooner asked whether any senator would, under the circumstances, have turned his back on Panquestion especially to Mr. Tillman, who have entered into negotiations with Nicaragua and would have reported back to con-

HOUSE KILLS SALARY ITEM

Strikes Out Civil Service Fa agraph from Appropriation Bill.

SHIVELY TALKS ON POSTOFFICE MATTERS

Mr. Bartlett Charges that the Appoint ment of Chief of the Supply Division Violates Civil Service Laws.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.-After a lively debate lasting three hours, the house today, by a vote of 78 to 65 struck out of the executive and judicial appropriation bill the paragraph providing for the salaries and expenses of the Civil Service commis sion and clerks employed under the com mission. The action was taken on motion of Mr. Hepburn of Iowa. He was supported by both republicans and democrats, both in speech and in vote. Those who spoke in opposition to the civil service system as it now exists were Messrs. Hepburn (rep., Iowa), Grosvenor (rep., Ohio) and Bartlett (dem., Georgia). While among those speaking for the civil service bill were Messrs. Cooper (rep., Wis.) and Gillette (rep., Mass.). Notice was given by Mr. Bingham in charge of the bill that a yea and nay vote would be demanded of fastener until the postoffice inspectors members, striking out the provision for the expenses of the Civil Service commission when the bill is reported in the house. No conclusion was reached in committee on legislative bill.

Mr. Bartlett (Ga.), taking up the report of Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow, addressed himself to the civil service system, referring to statements made by Mr. Bristow Mr. Bartlett charged that in the ap-

Mr. Cooper (Wis.) said that every one of for its support. The bill is amended to rethe men under indictment except one in connection with alleged postoffice frauds went into the service under the spoils system. Mr. Cooper read the letter of explanation addressed by the late Civil Service Commissioner Proctor to the postmaster general in reply to statements contained in the Bristow report relative to the Louis appointment, prefacing the reading with the statement that Mr. Bristow had done a great and heroic work and that he was absolutely fearless.

Mr. Grosvenor (O.) spoke against the civil service as it now exists, asking why an appointment should not be as properly made upon the recommendation of a representative of the people as to have the president appoint Foulke to be purveyor of all the appointments. He asked why the committee on civil service reform had been sitting on the safely valve, saying that if a vote was permitted the Civil Service commission would be stripped of a vast amount of its power.

Mr. Clark (Mos) suggested that a bill be brought before the house so the subject could be debated and voted upon.

Mr. Grosvenor said the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. Clark) could immortalize bill amending, enlarging, altering or affecting the old law, which, he said, is regarded as the perfection of human wisdom. Concluding his remarks, Mr. Grosvenor said that an oligarchy of three men had swered in the negative, saying that the been built up and up to a recent date was MACHEN CASE IS ON TRIAL Witness Tells of Duties of the Super intendent and of Some Irregu-Inrittes.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13.-Robert Wynne, first assistant postmaster general, was the central figure in the postal trial today, and when court adjourned until Friday he was still on the stand. Mr. Wynne's testimony occupied most of the day and he was subjected to a rigid crossexamination by Charles A. Douglass, counsel for the defense, during which the opposing attorneys had several tilts, necessitating a word of admonition from Justice Pritchard that they must conduct the case in peace. The first assistant postmaster general was plied with questions designed to test his knowledge of the duties of his office. The witness frankly stated that he often had signed papers prepared in Machen's division without examining into their contents, because they came to him in official form and because of the fact that he regarded Machen as one of the most expert men in the service and relied on him.

John J. Howley, Mr. Wynne's chief clerk, occupied the stand for a brief time, the principal part of his testimony re-lating to the fact that he suggested to his superior officer the advisability of examining into the legality of Machen's initials and signature placed on the letters and requisitions by Machen's subordinates. The cross-examination of John Howley, chief clerk in the office first assistant postmaster general, in the trial of August W Machen and others, was continued today, Mr. Douglass conducting the examination. The witness detailed the duties of the general superintendent of free delivery, bu he could not state them as a fact, simply from his knowledge of office practice. Concerning the placing of Machen's name and should agree not to resort in any case to initials on letters by subordinates, witness said Liebhardt, Machen's stenographer, had for several years done so. He admitted that he knew of this practice three years before he became chief clerk. He did not speak of it to his chief, he said, because he did not want to interfere with the affairs of Machen's division.

He tolerated it, he said, until the postal investigation came up, and finally informed First Assistant Postmaster General Wynne that the legality of these initials and signatures should be looked into. admitted that the order of Mr. Wynne prohibiting the delegating of authority to others to sign the names of division chiefs was not issued until the investigation was
