proached an understanding on some points, but not on others. Hopefulness reigned today in many quarters where pessimism had hitherto prevailed. Conservative opinion holds that while the prospect of peace is better than ever, the end cannot be predicted with certainty, particularly the manner in which a settlement can be secured.

Japanese Visits Russian. BERLIN, Jan. 15.—The Japanese minister and all the staff of the legation attended the Russian ambassador's New Year's reception yesterday. Count Osten-Sacken, the Russian ambassador, and M. Inouye, the Japanese minister, conversed animatedly for a quarter of an hour, to the entertainment of the observing diplomats. Japan's reply, as outlined in these dispatches yesterday, is considered as offering Russia a way out of the difficulty without loss of prestige.

That Russian has applied to Turkey for permission to send its Black sea fleet through the Dardanelles is confirmed authoritatively here, and it is also asserted that Russia will renew the application and press for Turkish consent. Germany's present attitude, as at the time the four unarmed Russian torpedo boat destroyers passed through the straits, September, 1902, is that it has no concern in the matter. The British government is believed to have identified itself more fully, week by week, with the Japanese position, until now it is almost as deeply committed as Japan. The position in which Great Britain now stands, according to the view taken of the situation here, brought about by public opinion and by the feeling that Russia would yield if only a firm attitude were shown, has impressed and is impressing the Russian statesman. The readiness with which the United States associated itself with Japan in pressing for the signature of the commercial treaty with China is another fact contributory to the feeling in St. Petersburg that this is not the moment to fight.

The decision for war or peace now rests with the ears' advisers and symptoms are visible here that the decision will be peace, by largely admitting Japan's demands. The views of the British editors, partially derived from the foreign office in London, are looked upon here not only as significant, but as being part of a great diplomatic game against Russia, and in that sense are somewhat discounted. The skill Japan has shown throughout the negotiations excites admiration at the German foreign office.

French and Russian Confer. PARIS, Jan. 15.—Immediately after the cabinet council today Foreign Minister Delcasse had an extended conference with the Russian ambassador, M. Nelidoff. The customary official announcement says the cabinet transacted only current affairs, but the coincidence of M. Delcasse's conference with the Russian ambassador, following the cabinet council, led to the belief that the situation in the far east was considered by the ministers.

In spite of the pessimistic tone at other capitals in relation to the Russo-Japanese situation, there is a belief that there is a chance of peace still prevailing. To Care the Grip in Two Days. GREAT PARTY OF PROGRESS Republican Principles Mean Good for the World and Mankind.

SPREADS FREEDOM AND ENLIGHTENMENT

John L. Webster Toasts the Party at a St. Joe Banquet and Tells of its Aims and Accomplishments.

ST. JOSEPH, Jan. 15.—(Special Telegram.)—Probably the most brilliant banquet in the history of the Missouri Republican Editorial association was tendered the members of that organization by the McKinley and Roosevelt club of St. Joseph in the handsome dining room of the Hotel de France tonight. The banquet was transformed into a bower of beauty in preparing for this editorial banquet. The men who are sometimes classed as grumblers, censurers, givers of advice and regents and rulers of a great state sat down to free, frank and ceremonious discussions and feasting. Thousands of yards of red, white and blue bunting were strung above the banquet tables and columns and back of the array of distinguished gentlemen who occupied positions to the right and left of the toastmaster, Editor E. E. McJimsey of the St. Joseph Gazette. Large engravings of McKinley and Roosevelt hung just above and back of the toastmaster. In the hand of the toastmaster, which admirably adorned the dinner, some were placed a flag which came from the ill-fated battleship Maine.

The brilliant scene was aglow with the radiance of a thousand incandescent lights. At the table for guests of honor were Governor John H. Mickey of Nebraska, Hon. John L. Webster of Omaha, General Odlin Gutter of Columbia, Captain Henry King of St. Louis, Hon. Walter Dickey of Kansas City, Mayor Wells and H. Walbridge of St. Louis, George W. Martin of Brookfield, Thomas J. Atkins of St. Louis, C. D. Morris of Trenton, Mayor C. J. Borden of St. Joseph, Ben Russell of Steelville, John Swanger of Milan, D. R. Anthony of Leavenworth, H. H. Mitchell of Clinton, C. M. Harrison of Galena, W. Sewall and E. C. Brockmeyer of St. Louis.

Hon. John L. Webster of Omaha responded to the toast of "The Republican Party." Mr. Webster said: "I love the republican party because it had its birth in a war of ideas. From the life of a single incident and from the beginning of thought through the ages, movements. Standing tonight on the soil of Missouri, our minds run back to the life of the soldier statesman, John C. Fremont. Standing on the border line of Kansas, we cannot help but recall that rare and indomitable individual whose voice was like one crying in the wilderness, whose figure was a unique in the annals of America as was Savonarola in Italy or Joan of Arc in France. We cannot review the history of the republican party without recalling the memorable days of the brotherhood of the Douglas. We cannot reflect on its achievements without being touched by its self-sacrificing patriotism and loyalty to the union.

In the republican party there is a spirit of deep sentimentality and a sense of manhood. There has been crystallized in it the thought spoken more than a generation ago by John C. Fremont. His feet are his hands are his, his hair is his head is his; it always has been so, and it will be so as long as the republic shall storm the citadel of heaven and raise from the bosom of God man's title deed to the earth.

Press and the Party. I cannot think of the republican party without thinking of the republican press. Every copy of every republican newspaper has been read by me. There are hundreds of thousands of such voices communing with the nation every day. Every week, and every week of every month throughout the year. Every one of these silent voices makes an impression and has an influence. The press of the republican party is a united force and has been found strong enough to move the granite obelisk that stands in memory of the great republic. It is not one, not hundreds, but thousands and thousands. They were there last night, and they will be there tonight. They are the stars of the republican party, the stars of the republic, the stars of the world. They are the stars of the republic, the stars of the world. They are the stars of the republic, the stars of the world.

Republicanism and Progress. The republican party has ever been the party of progress, advancement and improvement. The democratic party is a discredited body, a relic of a bygone era. It always has been so, and it always will be so. The spirit of progress is hastening the pace of civilization. It had its playground in Egypt for centuries. It developed the arts and sciences of the Greeks. It spread over the Adriatic to Rome. It lifted old medieval Europe to nations of yesterday. It carried the torch of civilization to Plymouth and Jamestown. In 30 years it traveled the Missouri river and the Pacific. We, in this Missouri valley midland between the two oceans, may greet and be greeted by the republicans that surround us on all sides—the citizens of God's noble country.

Democracy and the Canal. Let us look at the last momentous objection of the democratic party not only to the progress of America, but to the progress of the world. Years ago this government declared that it would look with an unfriendly spirit upon the attempt of any other nation to build a canal across the isthmus of our oceans. All the other nations of the world at last agreed that the United States alone should build it. This country, in honor bound not only to itself, but to civilization, to see that the canal shall be built and opened to the commerce of the world. The United States by its declarations has assumed a responsibility that it is unable to meet. The important work might move onward. He has acted in harmony with the sentiment of the republican party and with the wisdom of a statesman, that our present commercial greatness and expansion of territorial domain has made the immediate construction of the canal essential to our national interest and defense.

Precedent for the President. The democratic party now declares that the United States was over-hasty in the recognition of this young child of revolution. Let us draw some comparisons from modern diplomatic history. The Republic of France was the child of revolution, yet General Grant as the republican president of the United States directed Minister Washburn to recognize that new republic as soon as Gambetta had declared it from the Hotel de Ville, even though war was then impending against it. James G. Blaine, America's stalwart republican leader, called the American minister to recognize the republic of Brazil on the second day of its existence. President Benjamin H. Harrison was swift to recognize the new Republic of Hawaii. It was a democrat then, as now, Grover Cleveland, who said the "talked back and acted over-hastily. But the republican party will not take a step backward now, as the democratic party did then. President Roosevelt and the republican party in its recognition of Panama has not followed in the footsteps of America's greatest leaders, of General Grant, of James G. Blaine and of Benjamin Harrison. While the democratic leaders are condemning the president, condemning the navy, the people of the United States and the whole world, in fact, approving the prompt and resolute action of President Roosevelt. The world has a right-of-way across the island of Panama. Nature, yes, destiny, has dedicated it to the commerce of the world. It is the property of the people of the United States and the whole world, in fact, approving the prompt and resolute action of President Roosevelt. The world has a right-of-way across the island of Panama. Nature, yes, destiny, has dedicated it to the commerce of the world. It is the property of the people of the United States and the whole world, in fact, approving the prompt and resolute action of President Roosevelt.

The communication has been referred to the county judge.

Glover Arrested Again. CRIPPLE CREEK, Jan. 15.—John M. Glover, former congressman from Missouri, was again arrested by a military squad today and placed in the county jail. Mr. Glover, who fought the military three weeks ago and was shot in the arm, was arrested on an order from Commander Verdeckberg, because of a threatening letter sent that officer.

The letter, which Commander Verdeckberg considered to be in violation of terms of Mr. Glover's release, was as follows: CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Jan. 14.—Colonel Verdeckberg, Camp Goldenfield, Dear Sir: My wounds having healed sufficiently to effect this of the parole signed by me on December 29, I know of Cripple Creek and notify you, as I do now, that I will not longer be bound by it. I can be found at any time any time between now and 1:30 tomorrow. It is perhaps fair to add that I intend to push you and your accessories, above and below, before and behind the scenes, to the full limit of the civil and criminal laws, state and federal.

Mr. Glover did not resist arrest, but protested against being placed in jail. No charge was preferred against him. At the jail Mr. Glover said that his counsel would begin proceedings in the United States circuit court against Governor Peabody, the state militia authorities and under the civil rights act, alleging conspiracy to deprive him of his rights under the federal constitution. He broke his parole, he said, for the express purpose of getting his case before the court.

Six union men were expelled from San Miguel county today by orders of Major Zeph T. Hill, military commander. As the men were brought from jail, a woman with a small child attempted to fall in line with her husband and the soldiers pushed her back. The machines will be shipped without delay and it is hoped to inaugurate the service next week. The automobiles will be operated only along the lines of the street railway to avoid injury to the business of the carriage companies and independent hackmen.

Trying to Avoid Conflict. TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 15.—The International Union of Hod Carriers and Building Laborers at their convention today elected officers for the ensuing year. Herman Lillian, Chicago, was elected president. During the day's proceedings a question arose as to the right of the hod carriers to lay bricks in and on the inside of buildings. It was finally decided to refer the matter to the executive committee for the purpose of a conference with the Bricklayers and Masons' union in order that there might be no conflict between the two organizations on this point. A proposition to have the subordinate financial officials bonded by the international union was defeated.

It must be apparent to any person therefore that the only prevention of baldness is the destruction of the germ—which act is successfully accomplished in 100 per cent of cases by the application of Newbro's Herpicide.
