In his will, which has just been admitted to probate in the county surrogate's office at West Holly, N. J., after disposing of an esfate valued at several thousand dollars, Lorenzo D. Hammell, a former Burlington coal dealer, who died on his farm near that city recently, directs that the following inscription be placed upon his tombstone:

"In memory of Lorenzo D. Hammell. Born Nov. II, 1818; died — By force of eternal law, man lives and dies. The purpose of his production he cannot know, but can be assured that if planned and exemples of the state only some content of the state of lows and the west report that they are closely sold up on futures and, in fact, many of them are refusing business.

Coffee Still Advancing.

Wholesale grocers report the volume of business as being very good for the time of year. The market is also in a good healthy condition, with several lines showing as tendency to advance. Among these is coffee, which has been going steadily upward for some time past. The advance last week amounted to from % cent to % a guess as to what the top will be.

There has been no change since last report in sugar, both raws and refined holding about steady.

In the canned goods line interest centers around corn and peas. The situation on corn has undergone no particular change, but packers throughout the state of lows and the west report that they are closely sold up on futures and, in fact, many of them are refusing business.

There is a disposition among Wisconsin pea packers to advance prices from 5 to 10 cents per dozen over the prices in force a year ago.

The boys and girls on skates, in panic at each other in search of shore. They all escaped. So did the bull-when he got ready. Later he was taken to Fifty-ninth and Market streets, where a Delaware county farmer claimed him.

> Thirty years ago when Wilbur F. Storey ran the Chicago Times, he set the entire staff to work on an imaginary story of the destruction of a theater by fire. The story filled a page and a half of the Times and no detail was lacking. The loss of life was appalling; and many of the incidents, most graphically portrayed, could never have been witnessed by any other than a fireproof reporter occupying an advantageous position in the flery furnace. A yarn like this necessarily had its weak coints. The headlines were a column long, but the name of the theater did not appear in them. Of course, no theater in Chicago bore the name given to the ill-fated structure. But Chicago had a terrible start morning. Many breakfasts were spoiled, and Mr. Storey was blessed accordingly when the truth dawned upon his readers. An excited stockholder of the Tribune rushed into that office and told the city department they had permitted the Times to scoop them on the biggest news since Fort Dearborn was built.

The story fell rather flat. It did not arouse much discussion or stimulate precaution. But the hoax has come true at last. The imaginary tragedy was surpassed by the terrible reality of December 30,

Henry F. Schaedler was reading in his home at Hudson boulevard and Fisher avenue, New Durham, N. J., when he heard a horse and wagon stop in front of the house. The herse neighed loudly several times and pawed the earth. Schaedler listened to the noise for some Nebraska Express ... a 8:50 am bl2:05 pm Nebraska Express ... a 8:50 am a 7:45 pm Denver Limited ... a 4:10 pm a 6:45 am Black Hills and Puget Sound Express ... all:10 pm a 3:30 pm C o l o r a d o Vestibuled Flyer time and then stepped out to investigate. In the bottom of the wagon he found an unconscious man almost frozen to death. Schaedler carried him into the house and summoned Dr. Warden, who worked over the stranger an hour before he recovered

He said he was John K. Wilson of 474 Ninth avenue, New York, driver of a delivery wagon for a tea house. He said he had been drugged and robbed and had started for home at 6 o'clock, since which time he remembered nothing.

Schaedler drove him home, and the police are investigating Wilson's story.

Unseasonable Weather Last Week Retarded the Sale of Winter Goods.

COLLECTIONS STILL VERY SATISFACTORY

for Sixty Days Past and Tendency of Prices Upward Rather Than Downward, sequently they are not disappointed. Their traveling salesmen are out after spring business and are meeting with good success. The cut rates which the railroads put into effect on Friday, it is thought, will bring in a good many merchants from this time on and that house trade will show a big improvement. Every year more merchants take advantage of these cut rates to visit their market and as a result wholesalers expect more buyers in the city this spring than ever before.

The general market situation is in a more

The general market situation is in a more healthy condition than it has been for sixty days past. There does not seem to be nearly as much uneadness as was generally anticipated for this time and with very few exceptions the tendency of prices is upward rather than downward. Those who are in a position to know say that merchandise at present prices is good property and that retailers need have no fear in placing their orders on the present basis. Collections are in better condition than would naturally be expected owing to the warm weather that has prevailed the greater part of the season and wholesalers say that the fact that merchants are meeting their bills in good shape is evidence of the fact that they have been doing a fairly good business and also that they are they ever have been before.

Coffee Still Advancing.

can be assured that if planned and executed by omniscent wisdom and omniscent power, it can neither be an experiment, mistake, nor failure, but must result as the Designer intended, and had all knowledge and power to accomplish."

There was rare fun "on the hoof" for twenty minutes when a buil invaded the skating pond at Sixty-first and Arch streets, Philadelphia.

Taurus broke from a butcher's drove and made straight for the pond, where a crowd of skaters, a hot-sausage man and a waffle yender were making merry. Cutting a figure eight near the edge of the ice, the buil made a center rush that landed him among the skaters. Then he smelled sausage, and to maintain present quotations ladefinitely. Jobbers do not look for any change for the next two or three months.

Cotton Goods Continue Strong.

The cotton goods situation is much the same as it was a week ago and by that it is meant that the tendency of prices is decidedly upward, with every indication of still higher prices. The advances are too numerous to mention, but it is evident from the way merchants are placing their orders that they intend to protect themselves and lay in their supplies before there are further advances. It is, however, not alone a question of price, but one of getting goods at any figure, as it becomes more evident each week that there is going to be a marked shortage of desirable lines. The high price of cotton has caused many mills to close and probably will be the cause of several more shutting down. Wholesalers are of the opinion that the condition of the market will cause merchants to buy their spring goods at an earlier date than they did a year ago.

Jobbers are still busy rushing out their advance orders for spring goods! Not many buyers have as yet arrived on the market, but it is expected that they will flegin to come in this week and in about two weeks the rush will be on.

Better Tone in Hardware.

Better Tone in Hardware.

Better Tone in Hardware.

The hardware market is in much better shape than it has been for sixty days past. It will be remembered that for a few weeks previous to the end of the year the general prediction was that lower prices would rule after January 1. Instead of lower prices, however, the market is much firmer and the tendency is upward rather than downward. There have been no special advances of importance, but still jobbers are very confident that the market will be in a good, healthy condition from this time on and as a result retailers need have no hesitancy in placing orders for all the goods they will need for some time to come. Trade so far this month has been a little quiet and more seasonable weather no doubt would improve the situation to quite an extent. Jobbers, however, are looking forward to a good spring trade and expect to easily maintain it not break the record established a year ago.

Rubber Goods Very Quiet.

Rubber Goods Very Quiet.

The rubber goods men have been feeling the effects of the weather to a greater extent perhaps than any other class of meschants. There has been comparatively little weather so far of the right kind to move rubber goods. Cold weather helps to some extent, but snow is much better. It is not the immediate situation that worries jobbers, but the fear that retailers will not clean out the goods that they already have on hand, which would of course injure next fall's business very materially. With the proper kind of weather during the remainder of the season there is plenty of time for retailers to sell out their stocks, so that jobbers are not as yet very uneasy.

There is nothing new to be said regarding the new price list. Wholesalers of course cannot start out after advance business until prices are named and as a result they are doing nothing in that line, whereas a year ago they were taking an immense number of orders. No one in Omaha is in a position to say when the prices will be made.

The leather goods trade is as good as could be expected at this time of year. Retailers have enjoyed a nice business all the season and their stocks are well cleaned up. Traveling salesmen are doing well on their spring lines, so that leather goods men have no complaints to offer.

Fruits and Produce.

demand for fruits and vegetables een very satisfactory. Trade has not een exactly rushing, but still there has een a good steady demand. Prices showed very little change and just about the same lines are offered as were on the partect a week ago.

In the vegetable line it will be noticed, from the quotations in another column, that green stuff from the south has arrived. Radishes, lettuce, new beets, furnips, carrots, parsley and that class of stock is now on sale.

The egg market has been rather uneven of late, but prices are a little lower than they were a week ago. Poultry has held up in good shape, but butter is considerably lower. Packing stock is now selling around illigible.

A drop in the price of cysters was generally expected to go into effect the latter part of the week, but receipts were too small to allow any reductions. The change, however, may take place this week.

OUT OF THE ORDINARY.

The Coreans use neither bedsteads nor chairs.

One million persons in the United States own railway stocks or bonds; 80 per cent of the holdings in American railroads is now held in the United States.

Edward Selleck, a froight clerk of San Francisco, paid $25 for an old building recently, and while tearing it down for kindling wood found a bag containing $2,500 in gold.

Statistics gathered by Aftorney General Gunter of South Carolina show that in the last sixteen years there have been 2.781 murders committed in that state. The greatest number in any one year were committed in 1898, when 247 persons were killed. The number in 1993 was 222.

W. J. Hannan, who resides at Corning, Tehama county, Cal., is undoubtedly the oldest active carpenter in the United States, if not in the whole world. He is over 103 years of age, but is still in good health and able to get around as lively and do as much work as many a cratfsman half a century younger.
