Damage Suit Dismissed. The close of the series of sensational in idents connected with the marriage of F Wallace Pike and Minnie Seigel last summer was marked in district court today

Pike was a music teacher and Miss Seige a pupil, and their marriage was bitterly opposed by the father of the bride. To prevent the marriage, as he thought, the father filed a charge against Pike accusing him of attempting to extort money from him, declaring that Pike had offered to guit his attentions to the girl for $500. Pike was arrested the day he was to have been married. He gave ball and was married to the girl, then hid her away and gave up the bail bond, returning to Jail. WHAT IS

THE QUESTION ANSWERED.

The Bachelor Girl has been given a fair trial and emerges a SPLENDID VICTOR. In order not to prejudice the case in her favor we dubbed her an old maid and publicly asked the question that appears at the top of this advertisement. Here are the expert an-

FIRST PRIZE, $5.00-MRS, M. B. SANFORD.

The old maid of the past is merged into one of the most considerate and heipful mortals of today. Privileged to look as young as she feels; self-sustaining, if need be, or preferred, in this free land, respected, she modestly goes her way.

Often more attractive, often possessing greater strength of character, often more capable of making a home than her married sister and of appreciating some of the sweetest joys of earth; with keenness of vision she weds not, or, reserves her heart and hand till won by the man with character and sense enough to appreciate her virtues.—Mrs. M. B. Sanford 144 Grant street. forth 144 Grant street

SECOND PRIZE, $3.00—MISS CORA GRETZER.

So busy as to miss meeting the man she ought to marry, she is at last dubbed "an old maid."

Perhaps she is the eldest of a large family of children and after a day of office work or teaching, forgetting self, makes the coveted party dress for her pretty sister or mends little brother's torn coat.

Then there is another—she who makes a happy home for the bachelor brother or widowed mother.

The "Bachelor Girl," yes, her name is legion; for it is she who CAN BE and IS independent enough to await the coming of her ideal, rejecting all other offers.—Cora Grotzer, il South First street. THIRD PRIZE-MRS. CHARLES MATTHAI. The name "Old Maid" is a misnomer and an opprobrious epithet as applied to the "Bachelor Girl" whose benign countenance depicts her chosen life, reflecting to the beholder a noble woman who has not shirked her duty in that station of life to which God has called her, but has taken hold of Life's reins knowing there are no obstacles so hard to overcome as the old prejudices, ridicule and misconceptions of the world, Her life in its singleness of purpose is manifold in the many traits of benevolence, unselfish love and charity.—Mrs. Charles Matthai, 306 East Broadway.

There were 104 answers submitted, some of which failed to meet the required conditions, while many were lacking only in minor details. In arriving at their decision the judges were obliged to discard a number of excellent answers on account of technical points hardly noticeable to the ordinary observer. The following were deemed worthy of honorable mention:

"FROLICS" SAYS ONE WORD TOO MANY. Mr. George H. Fitch, the "Frolics" editor of the Nonpareil, submitted the following answer, which, however, could not be considered because it contains 101 words, thereby exceeding the 100-word limit:

An old maid is a girl who can get along without a man.

She may be 16 and afraid of men; she may be 25 and so learned that they don't compare with psychology for amusement; or she may be 45 and fonder of cats. But as long as she has anything in her possession that she wouldn't trade for a man she is a real old maid.

Some smart girls are old maids at 20; some not until 40 and some keep right on wanting a man until they are 30 and never get into the old maid class at all. MANNER OF AWARDING.

All the answers which complied with the conditions were typewritten and submitted to the judges without names or any other means of identification. THE JUDGES

The judges were: Rev. William J. Stration, Attorney J. J.

Stewart, Dr. Mat. Tinley, Herman M. Leffert, jeweler and optician, and H. P. Barret of the World-Herald. Tomorrow we will tell you something more about Bachelor girls. Look for it.

Never Too Late to Be Cured.

No. 125 Hennessy Street, New ORLEANS, La., June 8, 1903. Wine of Cardui is indeed an ideal woman's medicine and by far the best I have known to restore lost health and strength. I suffered misery for twelve years, being troubled with memorrhagia. My back ached and I had frequent bearing down pains and headaches. I would often wake from my sleep in such pain and suffering that it would be hours before I would close my weary eyes again. I dreaded the long nights as well as the weary days. I consulted two different physicians hoping to get relief, but finding that their medicine did not seem to cure me. I tried Wine of Cardui as a friend had recommended it so strongly. I am glad that I followed her advice for it was the only medicine for me, every ache and pain has gone and not only this, but my general health has improved. I feel well and strong, have a fine appetite, have gained in flesh and never looked better. My advice to suffering women is to take Wine of Cardui and they will never be disappointed in the results.

Twelve years of suffering? Few persons could stand any kind of sickness that length of But Wine of Cardui which has rescued so many sick women from chronic and so-called incurable diseases restored Miss Fine to the full enjoyment of health, when doctors could do nothing for her. IT IS NEVER TOO LATE TO TAKE WINE OF CARDUI.

This is the message that this letter brings to every suffering woman in this country. No matter how severe your case may be, no matter how many doctors say your case is hopeless, remember that thousands of women who have been given up to die have taken Wine of Cardui and have found complete relief.

Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow, starting that important function properly when it is suppressed and checking the flow when it is profuse. It removes the weakness and inflammation which cause bearing down pains and leucorrhoea. If you are suffering you cannot do better than take this great remedy today. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

Yard, 8th and 11th Avenues.
