GRAIN AND PRODUCE MARKET

After Sharp Break in Price Follows Slump of Monday.

PARTIAL RECOVERY NEAR THE CLOSE

May Corn Shows Galus and Onts Are Higher, While Provisions Are Irregular and Prices Fluc-

CHICAGO, Jan. E.—Another sharp break occurred in wheat prices today, following the suvers slump of yesterday. Heavy sales attributed to the principal bull interest, cassed a decline of Tyellow in the price of the May deliver. Active support from the same source, however, resulted not in a complete recovery, but a gain over yesterday's chosing quotations, final figures on May seing up by May corn also gained die, while oats were by higher Frovisions were by higher to Tye lower. The action of the wheat market today was mure or less of a riddle, which few traders professed to be able to solve. One thing seemed certain, however, the key to the situation was held by the leader of the longs, whose entermous selling yesterday fracilid in a break of over 3 cents in May, while today, a selling movement originating from the same source, carried the price over 1 cents farther away from the dollar market. The action of this one powerful trader was the only factor in the pit, all general news being totally in the pit, all general news to soft in the pit, all general news to soft in the pit, all general news to sense the pit of the sense of the built crewd continued, prices were firm May spened $60 to lower to $65 to lower to

There was a large trade in provisions and prices fucuated nervously. The market was strong early on buying by commission houses and packers, but later weakened on seiling by western interests. After several advances and declines the market closed barely steady. Seiling due to prospects of increasing hog receipts was resmonsible for the late selling. May pork closed Tac lower at $13.40; May lard was in the at $1.50.00 While ribs were a ede lower at 16.80. The leading futures ranged as follows:

somewhat heavier receipls, less favorable news from the far east; and the theory that the clearance having been so sharp entitled the market to a least temporary sethack. Prices railed sharply by a renewal of bull support. The local bull leader appeared to be buying aggressively, and large buying orders were executed by houses with New Orleans connections, while the southern market itself led in the solventors tendency, with July there reaching 16.25c. Inside of the first twenty minutes, prices here passed the previous high point, and the advance was not checked until March had soid at 16.25c. May, 16.50c.

July, 16.50c, a net gain of lagic points on the positions named. The advance had been accompanied by increasing activity but at this level, irading became rather quiet, and the market for a time, ruled firegular. Just before the close, the local bull leader started buying again, and railed the market several points with prices finally steady, net 4576 points lower. Sales were estimated at 1,000.00 bales.

CATTLE—Receipts of cattle were more liberal this morning than generally anticipated in view of the extreme cold weather. The demand, though, from local packers seemed to be in fairly good condition, and as a result the market held fully steady on anything at all desirable. Trains were very slow in arriving and that delayed the market in bad shape and made trading appear dull.

STOCKERS AND FEEDERS.

started out about stead; twas evident from the beginning that they were inclined to bear the market, and after they had picked out a few of the good loads they began hidding belief lower. As salesmen all wanted steady prices trading was very slow and it was late before anything like a clearance was made. The fact that trains were late in arriving also delayed the market. The early sales were in about the same notches as yesserday. Mixed hogs sold largely from $4.85 to $4.90, good heavy bogs from $4.90 to $4.90 and prime heavies from $4.95 to $5. The light stuff sold largely from $4.

SHEEP-There was just a fair run of sheep in sight this morning, but there was not the stap and tone that characterized the trade yesterday. It seems that the mutton market in the east is not as good as it might be and for that reason packers are not as liberal buyers as they would be otherwise. They took hold fairly well this morning, however, and the more desirable grades sold without much trouble at good steady prices. Some heavy wethers sold as high as $4.50, which is as much as they would have brought at any time. Ewes sold for $4 and yearlings $5. When it came to the commoner kinds, however, the market was slow and salesmen in some cases found it hard to get stendy prices with yesterday's best time. It is safe to sky, though, that the market is back to where it was before the break of last week.

A few feeders arrive on the market every day and sell at right around steady prices. The extreme cold weather this week, however, has delayed dipping so that the feeder day and sell at right around steady prices. The extreme cold weather this week, however, has delayed dipping so that the feeder trade has not as much snap as it would if the weather were more moderate.
