Take a girl of the tall svelte variety and look at her shoulders and hips; all the good lines in her figure is due to the corset. Grosscup of the United States circuit court at Chicago. His subject was ."The Next Great Step in American Politics, the Repeoplizing of Our Country's Industries." He said in part: It has come to pass that instead of peace, ing the Jesuits and the Dominicans, Archibe standing relation between them is that the standing relation between them is that of war. They look upon each other, not as neighbors of copartners, but as belligerents. When they sleep, it is upon their arms. In war between nations the victor lays indemnity for his losses upon the vanquished. But in wars between employer and employe the losses fall neither on victor nor upon vanquished. When a truce comes and indemnity is laid it falls, not on the belligerents, but on the outside publication of the proposed it had only a moral interest in the conflict.

the great neutral who up to that time supposed it had only a moral interest in the conflict.

The employer deals in this day, not with men, but with republics of men; not with individuals, but with governments self-constituted governments laste the greater government called the state. Employment of labor is no longer a matter of bargain and contract; it is a matter for treaty, for diplomacy or for war.

We have a common system of education, but our children no longer sit in the same schools. We have a common religion, but we worship in separate church buildings. We have patriotism in common, and a flag, but the eccasions that call it out come only at long intervals. No distance proven so great ha the distance between men living in the same city but interested in different occupations and moving in different circles.

During the last twenty-three years the capital deposited in the banks of the country has increased nearly $10,000,000.000. This capital largely has come from men in the ordinary circumstances of life. It measures the capital detached during this period by this class of our citizenship from active proprietorship in the industries of the country. It marks a tremendous shift in the personnel of active proprietorship—a shift as simificant as if in that short period hearly one-half the farmers of the whole country had sold out their lands and goods to a few men, loaning back to these, with shich to carry on their enterprises, the larger part of the purchase money. property, as corporations, under existing state policies, are now permitted to be organized.

I have no fault to find with the corporation legislation of the last congress. To the extent that it will get together the data on which to build a future national policy respecting corporations it is constructive legislation. But if it stop at that, or, what is more likely, if it turn its whole thought to what is known as publicity—to the turning inside out of the affairs of present incorporated enterprises, and those that shall come after them—leaving it to the five and forty states to organize as corporations are now organized, those that do come after, the legislation will have wholy missed the mark. The main object to be aimed at is not general and promiscuous publicity. It would not be good business ease, it would not be fair, to compulsorally hang up every incorporated business, great or small, where every mischlef maker could hawk at, and every competitor copy it. The main object to be aimed at is a repeoplizing of the industries of the country; and this can only be accomplished by a corporate policy under which a corporation dishonestly administered will pass at once, before the evil is irremediable, into the hands of the courts or some department of the government. What is to be sought is not so much publicity as prevention; not so much that turning of incorporated enterprise cut of doors, where every fault-finder and rival may by hands upon it, as to make them when the turning of incorporated enterprise cut of doors, where every fault-finder and rival may by hands upon it, as to make the subsection in its proprietorship widely diversified among the proprietorship

DEATH WAS THE RESULT OF POISON Financial News Says Convicted Promoter Destroyed Papers as Well as Kept Close Tongue to Save Friends.

Dead London Promoter May Figure in Cam-

LONDON, Jan. 27 .- A post-mortem examination has shown that Whitaker Wright committed suicide by taking cyanide of

The investigation made states that Wright must have swallowed the poison while standing before Justice Bigham, after receiving his sentence. It is recalled that Wright pulled a handkerchief from his pocket and appeared to wipe his face, and it s surmised that under cover of this he ook the fatal dose,

The inquest over the remains of Whitaker Wright, who died suddenly yesterday after being sentenced to even years' penal servitude for fraud, will be held tomorrow. The tragic event is the only topic of interest and is every where discussed in all its features. The cossibility of the promoter's escape from justice by suicide was clearly foreseen by Detective Willis, who brought Wright from New York. Acting on hints dropped by Wright during the voyage Willis gave the ourt officials a special warning to keep the closest guard over him. Toward the conclusion of the trial, especially during Justice Bigham's criticism, it became evident that there could only be one verdict, so if Wright was determined on self-destruction in the event of conviction he had time to prepare a method for outwitting the jailers, as he must have foreseen that an adverse verdict was in-

A strange document was found on the seat in court which had been occupied by Wright, showing that he had a premonition of his sentence. This was a sheet of blotting paper on which he had scribbled during the justice's summing up. The Roman characters "VII" were thickly scattered over the whole sheet. This was before the verdict and the number coincides with the sentence he received. In the middle of the sheet appears the word "intent," the last word Wright wrote.

The opposition papers continue making trenchant comments on the government, which," they say, "declined to do its duty for reasons now shown to have been absurd in law, and which are always repugnant to common sense.'

"The handling of this matter," says the Westminster Gazette, "has reflected more discredit on the government than its other mistakes, with even graver consequences. Distinguished people were involved and some of them have had happy escapes." The Financial News, on this point, says: Wright might have made disclosures which would have seriously discomforted some people, but he was loyal as well as courageous, and he carried his secrets to the grave. To prevent others from divulging what he chose to conceal he destroyed many papers, thus completing his sac-

No crisis has come in the affairs of the Catholic university at Washington. The teaching orders, Jesuits or Dominicans, will not be asked to take charge of any chair in the faculty. There will be no mention of any such action in the deliberations of the trustees who are to meet at Washington on Thursday. There will be no mention of a plenary council.

I have summoned a meeting of the suffragans of this province, and so, so far as known to the public or myself, has another bishop called a meeting of his suffragans. The prospects of the Catholic university have never been brighter than at present. The collections taken up in the various churches have been very successful. I believe that this collection for the university will not fall short of $100,000. United States Minister Squires has been consultation almost daily with President Palma and has communicated with Washington with reference to changes in he tariff likely to affect American goods. Special care has been taken in increasing the Cuban duties to avoid upsetting the reciprocity arrangement with the United States or damaging American trade,
