Homan Returns with Rangers for Trial in the Federal Court.

ALL DENY ILLEGALLY FENCING LAND

Declare Their Indictment is Outgrowth of Spite Work of Discharged Employes and a Few Disap. pointed Homestenders.

Deputy United States Marshal Henry Homan returned from Alliance Wednesday evening, accompanied by Valentine King. John King, William G. Simonson, Allie J. Simonson, John Krause and Herman Krause, cattlemen of that section, who were indicted at the November session of the federal grand jury for illegally fencing public lands.

The parties were arrested under capiases issued from the United States district court and comprise a sextet of the most prominent citizens of that district. The King brothers own a large ranch twenty-five miles southwest of Alliance, at the head of Red Water. The Simonson brothers formerly owned an etxensive ranch thirty miles southeast of Alliance, and John and Herman Krause are owners of a big ranch twenty-five miles northeast of Alliance. All of the parties gave bonds for their appearance in the sum of $1,000 each at the term of court beginning next week.

All of the parties, except the Simonso brothers, are still engaged in the cattle business in that section. W. G. Simonson is a prominent attorney of Alliance and A. J. Simonson is now in the real estate business at Denver, having disposed of the cattle ranch last July.

Marshal Homan will depart for the cattle country again in a day or two to serve other summonses in other indictments. Say it is Spite Work.

The cattlemen hold that the indictments are the result of spite work on the part of discharged employes and other personal enemies. Each maintains that he has not been guilty of fencing government lands in violation of the laws, and that about the country at all are "drift fences" that are put up for the purpose of protecting cattle during winter storms. Said Mr. A. J. Si-

"The indictments against us are nothing more than the result of spite work, for as matter of fact we disposed of our holdings in the cattle country on July 27, 1903, and own no lands in the cattle country now at all. We never fenced an acre of government land. We did put up a few drift fences, but these were put up in conjunction with and at the request of homesteaders, and in some instances we fenced a few acres of grass sloughs for homesteaders. When we were in the cattle business we were visited by Colonel Mosby and Mr Lesser, government agents, to make inquiries as to the amount of public lands we had under fence. We had none then and of course have had none since going out of the cattle business last summer. Hence I cannot see why we should be included in

Homestenders and Employes.

John King said: "These indictments against us are but spitework on the part of some of our former employes or neighbors. I think some of the homesteaders are back of it, too. Though, as a matter of fact, we never have had any government land under fence. We may have keep the cattle from straying, but as for fencing any government lands, we have done nothing of the kind. One or two homesteaders adjacent to our ranch have wanted us to buy them out, but as they had nothing to sell worth buying, we have been threatened by them with prosecution for visiating the fencing laws, and I sup-

Herman Krause said: "I have been up in the cattle country for a good many years and have tried to make a living and raise a family of six boys and three girls in that inhospitable region by herding a few cattle in the sand hills. It takes a lot of land up there to feed one steer or cow. and it is a lonely country at best. I have not fenced any government land, nor ever thought of doing so. These prosecutions against us are spitework free and simple. We know where they come from and are perfectly willing to take our chances in a bearing of the cases."

Says Government is Deluded.

"The fact is, the government does not understand the situation up there at all. There are many thousands of acres of land up there that are worthless for any purse whatever. There is some grazing on the table lands, but they are absolutely use loss for farming purposes. Little patches of corn are raised for fodder, but not enough fodder can be produced to keep a cow and horse over a winter. The country is arid and about the only way to get water is by windmills constantly pumping into little ponds, and these we have to plaster with natural cement in order to keep the ponds from draining dry through the sandy soil. I know if a committee of congressmen should come out into the BRINGS IN SIX STOCKMEN of affairs up there the question of leasing TO ERECT TWO BUILDINGS the lands or sale to those who cared to live there and look after their little bunches of cattle would be settled without any trouble. The cattlemen-I mean the small cattle owners and ranchmen, are law abiding citizens. There may be cases of illegal fencing, but that is being done by the great cattle corporations that have the money and influence to keep themselves out of the hands of grand juries and special agents. The small cattlemen that ose to immolate their families out in those fonely sand hills for the purpose of trying to care for a few cattle in order to make a living are law abiding and law respecting citizens. We are ready and willing for trial and believe that the flagrant injustice of these prosecutions will be clearly shown."

She is short and stout, with thin and disheveled blonde hair and a face that shows much determination and tenacity of purpose. This was well illustrated yesterday morning when a reporter asked her is she would make a statement of the case in her own behalf.

"No, I wont," she said, and she promptly turned her back and took up a paper, "Will you say whether or not you have engaged counsel?" No answer.

"Is the instruction of counsel the cause of your refusing to be interviewed?" No answer; and to further questioning there was the same response-none at all. The coroner will return his verdict as to the cause of the death of William Starkey this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Indians Plend Guilty.

William Brass and Amos Zimmerman, Indians, who have been in the Douglas county jail for some time, under indictment for selling whisky to their fellow tribesmen on the Winnebago reservation, appeared in the United States district court yesterday and entered a plea of guilty. They were given a sentence of sixty days imprisonment each. Zimmerman has been sick for several days past and is still a pretty sick man.

Deal by Kingmans and A'len Brothers Will Lead to New Structures.

EXPANSION OF THE WHOLESALE DISTRICT

Provisional Lense of Five Years for Ames Estate Property Signed by Kingman Implement Company.

A provisional lease for five years on the building at Ninth and Jones streets occupied by Alien Bros. has been signed by the Kingman Implement company. The condition is the purchase of the big Kingman building at Tenth and Farnam streets by the grocery jobbers. The lease was signed with John A. Scott, who is the agent for the Ames estate, owners of the Jones street properties. Negotiations for this important real estate transfer have been under way for some time, but no papers ratifying the sale have been signed. The parties interested admit, however, that the sale is very probable. If the transfer her husband, who lies at the morgue, with is made the business will be finished in

This transaction altogether means the erection of two new buildings and the rebuilding of the Ames properties destroyed by fire Thanksgiving day. The two in terior buildings of the block, extending on Jones from Ninth to Tenth street, will be rebuilt on the same external model as before, so that the completed block will have much the appearance it had before the

Slow Burning Buildings

The buildings, however, will be of the best modern slow-burning construction. The two lots are each 44x132 feet and the buildings will be five stories and basement. Commodious vault room is provided in the plans, which have been drawn by Architect Thomas R. Kimball. Electric elevators will be installed and the buildings lighted by electricity. Mr. Scott believes that work will be begun about the middle of March. The replacing of these buildings will cost something over $50,000. Tenants already have ben secured for the whole block.

If Allen Bros. buy the Kingman buffding they also will purchase the lot of equal size, 60x132 feet, next east, owned by the implement jobbers. On this they will put up a building probably of equal size with the present structure. The Messrs. Allen intend to enlarge their coffee department, and it is said that at least half of the new portion, if the deal is accomplished, will be a fireproof coffee roasting establishment, The Kingman people also own the other ots on the block at Ninth and Farnam streets and if they find it profitable to sell the building at Tenth will build a new structure at the east end of the block, which will fully accommodate their growing business. The lease of the Jones street building will be for temporary purposes and probably the new building will be put up ong before the term expires.

BARS CONFESSIONS TO JURY Judge Day Will Not Admit Reed's Statements at Time of the Tragedy.

In the trial of James J. Reed for the murder of Glenna Hypes last September Judge Day yesterday in the district court ruled that the admissions or confessions made by Reed at the time of the tragedy should not The state has closed its introduction of testimony.

The first witness for the state was Dan Baldwin of the police force, who was the first officer to reach the scene of the shooting on the night of September 26. He told of finding the Hynes woman wounded, lying on her bed, and of finding Reed in The witness was not allowed to tell what the Hynes woman said to him, but identified a revolver shown him as the one with which she was shot and which he took from Reed's hands. Reed, he said, admitted having shot the woman. Baldwin, with Officer Dempsey, took Reed into the presence of Glenna, Hynes as she lay wounded upon her back and she said he was the man who had shot her. The witness was submitted to a trying cross-examination by defendant's counsel but his direct evidence was not changed in any material particular.

W. F. Kinnear, who keeps a gun store at 211 North Sixteenth street, swore that some days previous to the date of the shooting Reed bought from him a 28-caliber doubleaction revolver, and that he loaded the same for Reed, at his request, with five cartridges. Reed said he was going to Denver and wanted the gun to protect himself in case the train was held up on the way. Shown the revolver, previously introduced as an exhibit in the case, Mr. Kinnear said it was like the one he sold Reed, but he could not swear it was the Egg Market in Delicate Condition Poorly Prepared to Endure Threatened Relapse.

The egg market is in a very delicate and high-strung condition. A relapse is feared at any moment, and, on the other hand, the versatile egg may be so encouraged by the arrival of a few cases of fresh county eggs that the present feverish price may sink to the normal. This is the time of year when eggs should be scarce, but they seem to have overdone it a little. The stored stocks have about run out, and this is natural for this time of year. The cold weather discourages any fresh cases, so that until an appreciable moderation sets in, the hens will set about doing nothing. Eggs now should properly have the value of 27 cents, but in sporadic cases 30 or 32 cents has been the price. The arrival of a few cases would make the present figure, however, seem like an evil dream. The southern egg is not coming here, but rather to the larger market of Chicago, or further east, where people have more money. In Baltimore, despite the heated term, eggs

Since the war began no Japanese persimmons have been received in the produce emporiums, so that the real feeling of the Orientals cannot be told. During this cold and bellicose weather, however, no rushin' business is to be expected. Oranges are depressed. Notwithstanding the best they can do to form a trust, the price will sag down a little in the unsupported places. The banana still continues scarce and it does look as though an extra big crop somewhere will be necessary to prevent war prices on the smooth and yellow joy. Apples and all the other winter staples have not felt yet the loosening breath of spring and prices remain firm and frozen.

PLANS FOR ARMY TARGETS

Preliminary Arrangements Being Made for Two Meets to Be Held This Year.

Preliminary arrangements are being made at department headquarters for the annual target meets of the troops of the Department of the Missouri. There will be two target meets during the year, the regular target practice, which will take place during the months of May, June and July, and the supplemental or preliminary practice during the months of October and November. Definite arrangements have not been made. It is hoped a target range may be secured across the river near Fort Crook instead of the troops having to go up on the Winnebago reservation, as last

A range necessarily will require a high bluff land background because of the long range and power of the modern firearms used by the army, and for this reason efforts will be made to secure a range on the Iowa side of the river, so it is evident that some difficulty may ensue toward getting the required range here. However, it is thought that land can be leased for the purpose on the Iowa side as cheaply as to transport the companies to the Winnebago reservation range, as last year.
