COLBY CASE WILL BE ONE OF THE STARS

Many Cattlemen to Come Up, but Bartlett Richards and Associates Are Not Yet Called Upon.

The approaching session of the United States district court which begins next Monday, gives every promise of being an active and interesting session. The several deputy United States marshals are now out serving captases, summonses and subpoenaes, for principals and witnesses.

The most conspicuous of these cases for trial will be the case against General L. W. Colby, former adjutant general of Nebraska, for alleged misappropriation of funds belonging to the government. The land, fencing cases also are to be heard at this session, especially those of the King brothers, Simonson brothers, and the Krause family, father and sons, who gave bonds for their appearance here Thursday. An effort was made to have these cases go over until June in order that the cattlemen might look after their entile during the winter, but District Attorney Summers was averse to continuing the cases to that time.

Capiases have been issued for a number of other cattlemen in the Chadron, Valentine and Crawford sections of the state and deputy marshals are to be sent out to serve these documents.

It is intimated about the federal building that the Bartlett Richards case and those of the Standard Cattle company may not be heard at al! at this term of court, or at least not until the last of the term.

Among other cases to be heard will be the indictments against W. M. Erwin and Postmaster John Mitchell of Alma and Elliott Lowe of Alma. The former two cases for alleged conspiracy in the Illegal sale of postage stamps to increase the revenues of the Alma postoffice and the latter as an alleged co-conspirator with Senator Dietrich in some of the postoffice scandal cases in that section.

PRISONER IS EASILY EXCITED Reed Gets Nervous as Trial for His Life Progresses-Witnesses Testify to Insanity. The fifth day of the trial of James A.

Reed for the murder of Glenna Hynes opened in criminal district court yesterday morning with E. S. Jester, the last witness of Thursday afternoon, on the stand. The prisoner's excitable and nervous temperament is getting the better of him as the trial progresses and the strain becomes more intense and has to be constantly kept in check by his counsel. E. S. Jester, who worked side by side with Reed in the machine shop, said he had observed that the man always acted "queer" in that he frequently talked to himself, made curious motions of face and body and had a peculiarly wild expression of the eyes. Witness believed he was insane when he shot Glenna Hynes and that Reed did not know the difference between right and wrong at that time. Cross-examined, he said that Reed's habit of talking to himself and the expression of his eyes, together with the other peculiarities he had testified to, were his sole ground for thinking him insane.

Oliver Cowing, file clerk in the district court, boarded with Reed at the Goos hotel for several months previous to the crime with which he is charged. He had noted the same peculiarities of manner and expression sworn to by the previous witness and had known him to come from work and thes three tim evening. On cross-examination witness admitted that none of the acts done by Reed were other than what he had seen done by persons whom he had known to be perfectly sane. At the same time Reed's acts as testified to were all that he had on which to base his judgment as to his sanity. He did not believe he was responsible at the time he killed the Hynes woman.

Peter Goos said Reed had boarded with him for a period of several months and that he considered his mind was unbalanced during that time. He testified to the acts and manners already mentioned by previous witnesses. When asked if Reed was insane he said he thought he was at least weak-minded. B. B. Smalley, another machinist employed with Reed, based his judgment that the man was insane on his observation of other insane people more than from Reed's own actions. J. H. Haggerty, another workman who had been associated with Reed, testified on the same general

BADLY BRUISED ON THE HEAD Union Pacific Engine Foreman Sus tains Cuts from Fall Against Switch Stand.

J. H. McCandless, engine foreman of switching crew in the Union Pacific yards, was quite severely injured about the head by falling against a switch stand when jumping off a car Thursday. He was riding on the side of a car and jumped down to turn the switch, when his foot slipped on the ley ground and he fell, striking the left side of his head, sustaining bad bruises and cuts. The injured man was removed to his home at 1604 Kyner avenue in a carriage. No serious results are looked for. The accident occurred in the east end of the yards and was due to the fact that the switch stand clears the side of trains by a very narrow space.

GRAIN EXCHANGE IS CLOSED Observes Anniversary of President Lincoln's Birthday by Transacting No Business. Lincoln's birthday was observed by the Omaha Grain exchange, which did not open its doors. Notification was received Wednesday from Chicago that the Board of Trude there would observe the holiday, so the Omaha exchange, having so quotations to govern its dealings, closed. All of the grain, provision and produce exchanges in the country, with the exception of the New Orleans Cotton exchange, honored the memory of Lincoln by a day of rest Omaha schools did not specially observe the day.

FUNERAL OF JAMES MORTON

Services at Home Attended by Many Old Citizens and Friends of

Deceased Pioneer,

The funeral services of the late James Morton were held at the residence, 1719 Chicago street, Friday afternoon. The house was well filled with relatives and friends, many old citizens calling to pay their last respects. Rev. H. C. Herring, pastor of the First Congregational church, offered words of sulogy for the departed and of comfort for the bereaved. The pallbearers were: Messrs, J. E.

HIGH IN QUALITY, BUT LOW IN All varieties of fruit cultivated on high land naturally possess certain attributes of perfection which are perceptibly lacking in products raised in the lowlands. HIGH-LAND, California, derives its name from the natural position it occupies—beautifully situated, overlooking picturesque valleys, amidst the most famous and extensive orange groves in the world. It is conceded that HIGHLAND NAVEL ORANGES surpass all others. They are sweeter, juicer and better flavored. Saturday we sell the 35c size of Highland Navel Oranges for 16c dozen.

Small Sum for Defendant.

The jury in Judge Sear's session of the district court yesterday returned a verdict of $5.44 in favor of the defendant, in the case of the New Orleans Coffee company against Henry F. Cady of this city. This was an action to recover the sum of $170.50 for a consignment of coffee shipped the defendant. Through his counsel he put in a claim in offset of $175.91 and hence the verdict in his favor. The case of the city of South Omaha against the O. B. & T. T. Co., was then taken up, an action for damages for the closing or obstructing of several streets and alleys.
