held an interesting annual institute at the house, the session having begun Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Among the first things done was the awarding of prizes on the best displays of home grown corn, the most successful farmer in this line being Mr. Ernest Fergus, while Hugh Philpot took second place. A number entered the contest, but both of the prize winning displays were of the yellow variety. The session opened with prayer by Rev. L. R. Smith of the local Presbyterian church, and O., talked on soil fertility and M. Lewelling gave some pointers on the selection of seed corn. A part of the aftertoon session was given over to the women, with Mrs. A. L. Lake in charge. Mrs. Edie of this city led in a discussion of the evils of the liquor traffic. Saturday morning the session opened at 10 o'clock with a talk from C. H. Barnard of Table Rock on growing fruits, followed by Mrs. Melton Fairbury on domestic science. M. M. Sterns of the Spring Creek Stock Farm, north of the city, gave some interesting clews on cattle and said the best breed for farmers to raise was the one he loved the best. The institute is still in session HUMBOLDT, Neb., Feb. 15 -(Special.)-Saturday D. Ward King of Maitland, Mo., who is recognized as the best authority in the west on the subject, spoke for some time on "Good Roads" and urged the farmers to adopt the plan which had proven so successful under his experiments. C. M. Lewelling gave his ideas on "Poultry as the Foor Man's Friend." In the contest for prize corn A. E. Stalder won in the white class, while Ernest Fergus captured first in the yellow class.
