

PLAN TO SUPPLANT BARRY
Movement Said to Be on for New National Guard Brigade Commander.
C. E. ADAMS CHOICE OF GOVERNOR MICKY
Present Incumbent Wants Office Again, but So Do Several Others and Lively Game Is Anticipated.

An impending election of a brigade commander for the Nebraska National guard is said to have become involved with state politics and among the local guardsmen a great deal of discussion has resulted.
The three-year term of General F. H. Barry of Greeley Center terminates at the end of February and he is a candidate for re-election and has just sent out letters to all the officers asking their support in the election which will soon be called. Opposition to the general has been developed. It is said that Governor Mickey is advocating the candidacy of C. E. Adams of Superior, a colonel on his staff and well known as a Grand army man. There are other candidates in the persons of the two regimental commanders, Colonel Charles V. Talbot of Broken Bow of the First and Colonel J. W. McDonnell of Fairbury of the second. Colonel C. J. Bills of Fairbury formerly brigadier general and commander of the First regiment during the Spanish-American war and now Inspector-general of the state, is said to be in the lists, also.

Launch Adams' Room.
In connection with Colonel Adams' candidacy, it is asserted a recent order issued by Adams General Officer for an inspection of supplies and accounts by a "board of survey" is nothing more or less than the launching of a political excursion to work up enthusiasm for the Superior man. It is to be accomplished in connection with an inspection of the guard by an officer of the regular army and the board is composed of Major Phelps, McLaughlin and Eberly. Major Phelps is assistant adjutant general in the pay of the state, while Major McLaughlin is said to owe rapid promotion to the grace of General Culver.

Important Strategic Point.
Inasmuch as fourteen out of the ninety or 100 officers of the State Guard are located in Omaha and South Omaha, and only officers vote in the election for commander, this city is considered a strategic point of much importance. Hence the visit of the board of survey is awaited with considerable interest.
Several officers of the local companies approached in regard to the matter declared emphatically they did not believe General Culver or Governor Mickey would sanction any such method as that outlined, but admitted the board of survey is a new departure, further that General Barry evidently has found reason to fear for the success of his candidacy during the last few days, from his prompt dispatch of letters asking for help. The general, who is a democrat and a scarred veteran of the civil war, was elected unanimously to the position, he now holds, as vice-president of the National Guard Association of the United States, was adjutant general for six years and his friends say, as brigadier general has kept politics out of the organization. The chief importance attached to this office is the fact that the brigade commander is a member of the Board of Control, the other members being the adjutant general, two regimental commanders and judge advocate general.

BINGHAM CONTEST NOT OVER
Will Be Carried at Once to District Court for Trial at an Early Date.
Recent developments would indicate that the ghost of the Bingham-Broadwell election contest is far from laid, for an appeal bond has been filed and approved and in the natural order of things the case will come up and be thrashed over again in Judge Day's session of the district court. The case was docketed for trial yesterday afternoon, which will bring it up again at this term of court. Some criticism has been made by those interested in Mr. Bingham's side of the question, who claim it to be a fact, that no inconsiderable part of the expenses of the contest is being borne by the county, in that regular employees of the clerk of the district court's office are devoting their entire time to watching the ballots and otherwise protecting Mr. Broadwell's interests. The truth or falsity of these claims will doubtless be brought out at the trial which Mr. Bingham's attorneys are extremely anxious shall be had at once.
