has received the following from Viceroy Alexieff, dated February 26 at Port Arthur:

After the noon had set early in the morning of February 25, the Retvizan repelled several attacks by the enemy's torpedo boats, two of which are believed to have sunk in the open sea. Our torpedo boats, under captain of the first rank, Matussevitch and captain of the second rank, Prince Lieven, unsupported encountered and pursued the enemys torperdo boat fotilia. They sighted no large warship. Later in the morning of February 25, the cruisers Bayan, Diana, Askold and Novik were sent out to prevent the Japanese cruisers from pursuing a portion of our returning torpedo boat flotilia. One of our torpedo boats, which was cut off by four Japanese cruisers, sought shelter in Dove Bay, where it was subjected to a long distance fire by the enemy. It had no casualties.

The Japanese fleet on sighting our cruisers came in closer to the forts which together with our warships, opend fire at 10:50. Our cruisers, still firing, entered the harbor which our torpedo boats had already safely reached.

The enemy's shells, for the most part fell short. One seaman was wounded, but we sustained no other casualties.

Count Benckendorff passed through Berlin, on his way to St. Petersburg but did not stop. I understand that in Russian official circles some irritation prevails regarding the fashion in which Admiral Alexieff made his report to the czar. It is considered that he entered too much into detail in regard to the material damage suffered by the Russians, details to which in a country like Russia, exaggerated importance is attached.

Further sat isfaction has been caused by the receipt of a telegram from Kharoff regarding the toast proposed by General Zurakoff to the German officers present at a farewell dinner given to the regiment of rifles on the eve of their departure for the front. The general referred to Germany and its glorious army, which has lived at peace with Russia for more than 100 years. WISCONSIN CAPITOL BURNS

Destruction of Building May Cause Change of Capital from Madison to Milwaukee According to Dispatches.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 27.-The Wisconsin state capitel building was damaged $800,000 by fire today. The states carries only parual insurance, being in the process of changing from insurance in companies to a system of state insurance. The fire involves the building of a new capital, a special session of the legislature and the carefully estimated the actual loss and probable renewal of the agitation in favor of the removal of the capitol from Madison

The flames, which were probably caused by defective electric wiring, at 6:15 a. m. had completely ruined the east and west wings, containing the senate and assembly chambers and the departments of tax ommission, the adjutant general, railroad ommissioner, state school superintendent, superintendent of public property, Board of Agriculture, State Normal school, commissioner of fisheries, fish and game warden, State Board of Pharmacy, state land office, dairy and food commission, state treasurer and commissioner of labor, and were about to attack the departments of the governor, secretary of state, State Board of Control and the ins, rance commissioner. The local fire department had ten streams of water playing on the flames, with but little effect, and the Milwaukee department was on its way to Madison to render assistance.

At 8 o'clock the flames were bursting from the extreme windows of the north and south wings, the east and west wings having by this time been destroyed. The uilding will be a total loss.

State Carries No Insurance.

The last departments to burn were those of the restetary of state and governor on the south, the attorney general and incurance commissioners on the main flogr, and the supreme court law library and state library commission on the second floor. Practically all the valuable state records are believed to be safe. Most of them remain in masonry and steel vaults in the ruins and their safety depends on the extent of the fireproof character of the aults.

The state treasury had only about $8,000 n cash on hand,

The origin of the fire is now believed to have been a lighted gas jet in a tollet room on the second floor. The flame was close to and ignited a varnished ceiling.

Governor Scoffeld maintained insurance on the building throughout his term, totaling $600,000, but the last legislature instituted an insurance fund and directed the state's officers to allow the insurance policies to lapse. In June last there lapsed $510,000 and in December the sum of $90,000. There is in the insurance fund at the present time about $60,000 to meet the loss, which conservative estimates place at $800,000.

All the contents of the immense law library in the north end of the building were carried out, together with a large quantity of other books and papers. These were not materially damaged. Included in the burned portion was Grand Army hall, which contained priceless records. These were saved and have been stored in temporary quarters. During the fire Chief Charles Bernard was overcome by smoke and fell from a ladder, receiving serious injuries. He was taken to his nome, where he still lies unconscious.

From an original cost of $60,000 in 1837 appropriations from time to time for new additions, made the cost of the state capitol to date about $900,000.

Your committee appointed to draft resolutions upon the death or William Carey lives do hereby submit for the consideration of your nonors and the members of the bar of Douglas county the resolutions bereto a tached for consideration and action as may seem proper.

CHARLES A. GOSS.
EDGAR H. SCOTT.
Whereas, by summons of the Ali-Wise Ruier of the Universe, on the 28th day of January, A. D., 1904. William Uarey ives was called from earthly mbor to his eternal rest, and Whereas, for the past fifteen years to the time of his decease. Judge lives was an esteemed and honored member of the bar of Douglas county, therefore be it.
Resolved, by the bar of Douglas county the honorable judges of the district court of said county concurring, That by the death of Judge lives the bar of Douglas county has sustained a great and irreparable loss; that, although not active or aggressive in the trial of causes in court, he has deeply impressed both bench and bar with the thoroughness of his knowledge of law, the fairness with which he treated every question he discussed, and with his clearness of thought and accuracy of statement.

Resolved, further. That in honor of his memory and to give permanent expression of our appreciation of his abilities as a lawyer, his high character as a citizen, his modesty and his gentlemanty and considerate treatment of every one with whom he came in contact, that these resolutions be placed upon the records of this honorable court; and be it further. Resolved. That the clerk of this court make a certified copy of these resolutions under seal of the court and forward the same to his widow. Eva Locke Ives.

Tribute from Connell.

As chairman of the committee which drew up the resolution, W. J. Connell took occasion to pay a tribute of respect to the memory of his late partner. He said he had been closely associated with Judge have tried many cough mixtures, but have Ives for a period of more than fifteen years, associated with him not only in a business way, but socially, as well, and that during that time there had never been a ripple of misunderstanding or unpleasantness between them. It was in an incidential way during the early part of their acquaintance that he learned of Judge Ives' peculiarly striking business ability and his lovable qualities as a man. While not an aggressive lawyer and seldom appearing in court, he had a knowledge that profound and his merits were of the highest grade. Mr. Connell spoke feelingly of the circumstances of his partner's death and closed by saying that most Sylduals have many acquaintances and few friends, but that Judge Ives had many equaintances and all friends who will remember his life as one to be emulated

C. R. Scott also paid his respects to the memory of a brother lawyer without enemy.

Judge E. M. Bartlett said it had been intimated that Judge Ives' faultiess life and character were the natural product of his environment, but having known him for a good many years he did not believe this was altogether true.

"It was the divine spark of life within him that made him what he was," said judge Bartlett. "He was a man of the lighest of ideals and lived up to them through his life," Judge Baldwin spoke a word of sulogy and attestation of the beauty of the character of the man whose memory the association had met to honor and perpetuate, as did also J. Q. Bergner, who had known him even as a boy and later as a lawyer in Chicago.

Judge Baxter spoke in behalf of the bench, telling in an eloquent way of his equaintance and knowledge of the characteristics of Judge Ives acquired both in court and business and in the pursuit of pleasure. He then directed that the resolution offered by the committee be spread upon the records.

A man near Fort Gay, W. Va., made an entire failure in getting strength from the kind of food he ate and not knowing that the trouble was with the food, kept on losing health until the doctors gave him on to die.

It was supposed to be consumption, be cause he was wasting away steadily and slowly dying. His minister called from time to time and one day brought along a package of Grape-Nuts, thinking from what he knew of the famous food that perhaps it might help him. The sick man took to it at once and from that day began to get well. In writing he says: "I walked to town today, 3 miles. Have gained over 40 pounds in about 2 months and my neighbor don't know what to say. I frequently am told it was as if I am raised from the dead. Everybody here knows of my case; you can tell people to write to the Postmaster or Rev. L. D. Bryan. I will make a sworn statement that Grape-Nuts saved my life." Name all other food fails, one can be brought back to health and strength on Grape-"There's a reason."
