The delegation which went to Des Moines nd was present at the hearing Tuesday afternoon before the committee, returned inte that night, feeling fairly confident that it had won the day, thanks in a great part to the eloquent and convincing addresses made by Congressman Smith, Charles M. Harl and John N. Baldwin.

STARTS GOSSIP ON THE BRIDGE BILL For Aldermen-at-Large ... People Who Know Will Not Say Who

in Back of It. Although the republican city convention Tuesday adopted a resolution favoring the passage of the bill now pending in congress for the construction of a bridge across the Missouri river between this city and Omaha by the Centrall Railroad and Bridge company and calling upon Senators Allison and Dolliver to use their influence in its behalf when it should come before the senate, the project is still as great a mystery as ever to the people of this city.

The Council Bluffs men who are named in the incorporation of the company decline to make public any details and Congressman Smith, who introduced the bill at their behest, is equally in the dark. Mr. Smith, who is home for a few days, when asked yesterday concerning the Central Railroad and Bridge company, said: "I have substantially no information as to who the financial backers of the company are. I was informed by the men who organized the company that they had the means in sight to build the bridge, and upon this assurance I introduced the bill and obtained a favorable report upon it from the War department and from the committee on interstate and foreign commerce. The company's capital stock is placed at President Wadsworth nor Secretary Clifton will give any information as to who is back of the project. Both are equally uncommunicative and declare they are not at liberty at this time to make any statement. When the articles of incorporation were filed in January Secretary Clifton then stated that he expected in about sixty days developments would show who is to use the bridge. Yesterday, when questioned, he said that matters had not sufficiently developed to enable him to make any disclosures. At first it was thought possible that the project was being pushed in the interests of the Great Western railroad, but now this is considered out of the question in the face of the fact that this railroad can for $48,000 a year use the Union Pacific bridge and that road's tracks to South Reed of the Commercial club last evening Omaha, whereas to build a bridge and tracks of its own from this city to South he mission of the delegation to Des Moines Omaha would entail an expenditure of about $5,000,000

The fact of the republican city convention adopting resolutions relative to the proposed bridge has awakened new inter-Senate committe on appropriations voted to report removal bill for indefinite postconcernent and recommended appropriation of $250,000 for a new building.

The democratic platform on local public matters was embodied in resolutions which pledged the party to either secure equitable water rates for the city and private consumers from the existing company. to grant a franchise to another company or construct a municipal water plant. It pledges the party to an economical administration of city affairs, control of public corporations, favors municipal ownership of public utilities whenever it can be done without adding to the burden of debt of the city

The convention was called to order at 8 o'clock, the time named by Chairman J. J. Hughes of the city central committee, who named Attorney Emmet Tinley as temporary chairman. Mr. Tinley was greeted with considerable enthusiasm, it being his first public appearance in a democratic convention since the days of the gold democrats. His speech was devoted chiefly to a discussion of the water works question and an explanation of the ordinance under which the company holds its franchise. He contended that the rate of will be able to pass the bill through the drove prospective investors of capital to

On Resolutions—Victor Jennings, G. H. Richmond, J. P. Organ, Charles Paschel, S. T. McAtee, P. J. Smith.

The temporary organization, on the recommendation of the committee, was made permanent, with the addition of Frank Zurmuchlen as reading clerk. Following the report of the committee on resolutions the work of naming a ticket was begun. Candidates for the nomination for mayor were brought out by an informal ballot, which resulted: Dr. Macrae, 43; L. A. Casper. 14; Lucius Wells, 9, and Louis Zur-

Before the formal ballot was taken Alderman Casper withdrew, saying he was not a candidate, as did Zurmuehlen, leaving the contest between Macrae and Wells. (From a Staff Correspondent.)

DES MOINES, March 16 .- (Special.)-The Inspector for the state and increasing the bate in which there was much opposition lature. to the plan of having factory inspection in the state. The bill had been prepared to supplement the present law, which requires that the factories shall be inspected but which made no provision for the necessary help for the state labor commissioner. The the city election, to be held Monday, March bill passed today provides for only one The registrars will be in session from state factory inspector and for an additional clerk in the office of labor comto vote who did not cast a ballot at the missioner. By his report he had recomgeneral election last November, or who has mended four inspectors and the first bill had provided for two. The bill today had fifty-four votes in its favor.

Memorial to Lincoln. A national memorial to Abraham Lincoln in the city of Washington is favored by the Iowa senators, for they this morning passed a concurrent resolution requesting congress to favor such a memorial. The senate passed the bill to appropriate $20,cating specific purposes for which it shall be used. The only change from the original committee report was in the addition of $1,500 for contingent expenses and taking it from superintendence. The bill in regard to pasturing horses on public highways was considered and finally referred to a committee. The Temple amendment relating to an increase in the number of members of the house was called up and the title amended to meet the views of the governor. The senate considered at length the bill to amend the compulsory education law by requiring twenty-four weeks of school attendance and that at the bebut laid over as unfinished business.

Telegraph Operators' Bill. The bill to require that telegraph opera tors shall be adults if they have to do voting to sustain the bill. A resolution was passed to give the secretary of state authority to fill vacancies in the list of extra employe for the legislature. The Chassel road bill was under fire for an hour in the house. Several amendments were proposed by its friends and its opponents, but it became evident there was in the engine room of Selzer Bros. estabnot a sufficient number in favor of the measure to pass it and on motion of its author it was sent to the engrossing clerk. in order to gain time. The bill restores the old system of road working where the trustees desire it. The amendments looked oward leaving the decision to the voters of the township. The Kennedy bill to make the First judicial district the same size as the First congressional district was debated. It adds republican counties to the district and takes them from two other districts. The bill was passed with 59 votes in its favor. .

One Stock Shippers' Bill. The desire of the stock shippers of the state for legislation to require the railroads to furnish them free return passes when engaged in shipping stock was approved by a committee of the house which this morning reported for passage a bill prepared as a substitute for several other bills relating to the same subject. The bill provides simply that the shippers or their employed or agents shall be furnished free return transportation by the companies. The bill, it is understood, will not be strongly resisted by the railroad companies.

Bloodhounds Lead to Trouble. The supreme coust today upheld the time-honored right of man to peace within his own home and freedom from intrusion. It was in the case of Harry McClurg against Mayor Brenton, Chief Brackett, W. P. Crewse and Charles Davis for damages because of wrongful search of premises. The plaintiff had sued because of the midnight invasion of his premises by the defendants under the leadership of sundry dogs in search of chicken thieves. But on the trial the case was thrown out by Judge McHenry on the theory that the defense had established that permission was in fact given to search the premises. The officers had followed the bloodhounds to the door of McClurg's house. The testimony differed as to what happened, but the su preme court holds that the jury should have determined whether McClurg really gave permission to the officers to enter. The right of a man to immunity in his own home has been recognized from the carliest times, "The mere fact," said the court, "that a man is an officer gives him no more right than is possessed by the ordinary citizen to break in upon the privacy of a nome and subject its occupants to the indignity of a search for the evidence of Concentration of Science Work. The quarterly conference of the head of state institutions, which opened in the rooms of the Board of Control on Tuesday afternoon, closed today. One of the most important of the papers was one read by President MacLean of the state university on the co-ordination of work of educations nature at the state university in relation to the institutions. President MacLean spoke especially of the plan which was originally proposed in a conference about a year ago for concentrating the scientific work of investigation and research and laboratory work for all the state hospitals and institutions at one educational center The board and the conference have indorsed the plan of having this work done at the state university. A valuable paper on "Alcoholism" was read by Judge Kinne embracing his observations and reading covering his experience on the Board of Control.
