IRELAND'S SONG AND STORY

Memories of the Dear I'de Revived for Exiled Sons and Daughters.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY PROPERLY OBSERVED

Ancient Order of Hibernians and Friends Gather at Creighton University Hall to Hear a Fine Program.

The giories, the struggles, the trials and the adversities of the Irish people; the worthiness and influence of St. Patrick, and the aspirations of better things for the inhabitants of the Emerald isle, were recounted in sober address, in song and in recitation at Creighton university hall last night. The commemoration of the feast day of the famous saint was held by the Ancient Order of Hibernians and the members of St. John's parish. A long and interesting program had been prepared and the pretty little theater at Twenty-fifth and California streets was crowded. The audience often grew enthusiastic and was liberal in its applause. Hon. C. J. Smyth acted as chairman and introduced the speaker of the evening, Rev. M. J. O'Connor, S. J., the vice president of Creighton university, with a few fitting words,

Rev. Mr. O'Connor, before beginning his address, paid Mr. Smyth a very plain compliment by alluding to him as one of the men who had enabled the success of the university. "There is a marvelous attractiveness about Ireland," he said. "Both the land and the people have a peculiarly powerful fascination, and although you cannot say just what is the cause, yet no magnet can compare with the attraction which Ireland has for Irishmen. That is why we gather here tonight and why we never grow weary protesting against the wrongs of Erin and telling of her accomplishments and glory,

St. Patrick's Great Distinction. "St. Patrick, in a very striking and peculiar manner, seems to hold forth and embody the very spirit of the people that we honor this day. It has been given to many men to make a distinct and permanent impression upon their country, but it has been given to but one man in the history of the world to so influence a nation that that nation became a replica of his own life. That honor belongs to St. Petrick and will forever make him worldrenowned."

Rev. Mr. O'Connor then described the three phases of St. Patrick's life-his peaceful childhood, his capture by pirates and his sale into bondage, his deliverance and his life as an apostle of Christ and as a leader and guide of the Irish people. He found a parallel in the history of Ireland and in tender words retraced the life of the nation. He closed with a hope that better days are in store for the oppressed people of the green little island and that they may rise to even greater heights in the forefront of the world's leaders.

Program of the Evening. Previous to the rising of the curtain Phillip Gahm entertained by playing a number of selections on the Cecilian. Following was the program: Violin Solo-

WANTS ENTIRELY NEW SCHEDULE.

Proprietor of Bostons Upholds Johnson's Position Against National. MILWAUKEE, March 17.—Henry Killilea of this city, proprieter of the Boston American league base ba. team, in an interview tonight upholds the stand taken by President Ban Johnson of the American league regarding the Ridgewood case and schedule affair. Mr. Killilea says he hopes to see an entirely new schedule adopted by the American league. In speaking of the affairs of the two leagues Mr. Killilea said: "After the American league committee adopted and gave the public its proposed schedule, the National, without consultation, made certain changes, notably so as tion, made certain changes, notably so as to the New York National opening in to the New York National opening in Brooklyn.

"When Ban Johnson objects to this action on the part of the National as a breach of good faith and common understanding he is attacked and assailed by men who a few years ago, by their pernicious methods and juggling habits, have almost ruined the great national game.

"I hope to see an entirely new schedule adopted by the American, and if the National sees fit to treat that as cause for war, why, then, let it come."
