BACK THOUGHT TO BE BROKEN William Coulson Falls from Scaffolding and Sustains Injuries Feared Fatal.

William Coulson fell from a scaffolding resterday and the physician who was alled, after a hurried examination, was of the opinion that the man's back was broken. He was taken to his home on Webster street, near Twenty-first.

The injured man was employed on the house which is being built at Twentieth and Manderson streets by T. C. Rich of Rich & Falconer. He was on a scaffolding about ten feet from the ground and attempted to cross on an unfinished portion where only one 2x6 plank had been laid. fellow workman told him to wait until be could place another, but Coulson, saying that he could cross all right, started and He struck across two planks which were leaning in the kitchen doorway. He was unconscious when taken to his home. A later examination will be necessary to ascertain certainly the extent of his infuries.

The injured man is about 40 years of age, of Scotch birth, and unmarried.

The anti-trust laws "need fixing."
Did you see it in the papers?
(We think we have no right to think, but we'll do so just this once) that we have PLENTY AND GOOD ANTI-TRUST LAWS IN NEBRASKA AND IOWA, but they are not enforced. We have good reason to believe some of these same laws which have been up on the shelf so long, will be looked up a bit, and if we are not mistaken, some of these. N. A. R. D. supporters and drug trust walking delegates will become a bit in a few days.
