HAYDEN BROS.

Lincoln, western secretary of the Board Home Missions, and the charge to the congregation was delivered by Rev. J. F. Seibert of North Platte, president of the Nebraska synod.

The regulation installation ceremony was performed while the new pastor and the church council stood at the altar.

During the delivery of his charge to the pastor Rev. Mr. Ludden outlined the duties of the pastor to his congregation and also gave his opinion as to what constitutes a successful pastor. He chose for his text, Ezekiel xxxiii;2, "Behold I have set for thee a watchman upon the walls of Zion." Rev. Mr. Ludden said in part:

"A successful pastor must be a man among men. He must first know himself, and also his congregation. He must be praying man, and loyal to the city in which he is located, as well as to the state and government. He must have no pets among his congregation; knowing all alike, and must be with all in their sorrows and joys. Too many of our ministers make the mistake of practising partiality. Perhaps the greatest duty, however, which a pastor owes to his people is to practice what he preaches. In return for all these favors on the part of the pastor the congregation should not be lax in doing their portion to preserve harmony at all times." Rev. Mr. Seibert pointed out that th members of the church should give their pastor their entire support and said that they should not grow weary in affording such support at all times.

ily took a spectacular turn Monday morning when Mrs. Effic Fimple took a shot at her liege lord, named Ben, at the Richelieu hotel, on North Thirteenth street. The shot went wide of its mark and the woman was arrested for shooting with intent to wound, while her husband continues to eat his meals without interruption.

It is said divorce proceedings are pending between the Fimples and that a few days ago Mr. Fimple called at the hotel and succeeded in removing the trunk of his wife without her knowledge or consent. When he called again Sunday morning, however, she was on hand with a sixshooter and gave him an object lesson of the fact that a certain place has no terrors for a woman scorned.

Since the estrangement Mrs. Fimple has been working at the Richelleu in the capacity of cook.

We must repeat our warning against pneumonia, the most dangerous disease that prevails in this city, and which is extraordinarily prevalent at this time. Be on the guard at all times against taking cold. Look out for it if you take it. Gladstone used to go to bed and send for a doctor whenever he had a cold, and consequently he got well in a very short time. "Sun" is right and their warning should be heeded. For colds there is nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, It prevents any tendency of a cold toward pneumonia. It always cures and is pleasant and safe to take.
