New July gained lise during the same time. The close was strong. September also gained strongly. This last future was the only one which closed higher Wednesday and seems to be the grain in which the new built movement is being made. It is as likely to be af-fected by crop damages as are the higher priced futures. May and July. Old July at the close Wednesday had sold off 14c from the highest point and May was 17c to the bad. This made a reaction probable and led to a covaring by shorts and some buying for investment. The market for these rea-sons opened with strength. The conditions in the southwest were better and Kansas City was weak on the continued rains, but this was offset by the poor crop taik from Indiana and Himols. The growing weather is said to show that many fields will have to be replanted. In Indiana a scarcity is reported of good corn for seed. The Liver-pool opening also was stronger and sup-ported American markets. Omaha wheat advanced in line with Chicago. There is a considerable short interest waiting a chance to cover.  considerable short interest waiting a chance to cover. The corn market drew its strength from wheat. The Omaha crowd bid the May up by point. The ease with which the corn markat recovers shows a large short in-terest and concentrated holdings. Corn as well as onts, especially in the May, is un-supported and the market allowed to drift. Small receipts are the order of the day in Chicago, but the eastern demand is also small, so that the market does not strengthen materially. cattle that just suited buyers may have sold a little higher, but the general run could not be quoted more than steady. Toward the close some of the less desirable kinds were hardly steady and salesmen experienced, some difficulty in selling out at satisfactory prices. The cow market ruled active and steady to strong, with some of the desirable bunches a little higher. All the buyers were out at an early hour and trading was active, so that the bulk of the arrivals was disposed of in good season. The same as yesterday, good light weight helfers sold to the best advantage. There was no quotable change in the prices paid for bulks. The demand still con-tinues very limited and good fat bulk com-mand but little more than the bologna grades. Veal calves, though, are active and firm. There were not very many stockers and feeders on sale, and as the demand from the country yesterday was fairly good, buyers took hold quite freely in spite of the bad weather, and the market could be guoted stendy on all desirable grades. Repre-sentative sales: BEEF STEERS.
