WHERE ARMIES HAVE FOUGHT Men Have Made War in Strange Places on Land and on Water.

When the American marines and the Coombian troops recently confronted each other at Colon It looked for a time as if a battle was to be fought on the pier of the Royal Mail Steamship company

The pier is rather an unusual place to fight a battle, but battles have been fought in many curious places, ranging from nountain peaks to sewers, from ice fields to desert sands.

At the battle of Monterey, in the Mexican war, the Americans were able to command the streets of the city with their artiflery, but they had difficulty in dislodging the Mexicans from the houses. So, the city being built of stone or adobe in solid blocks of houses, the Yankees broke through the walls from one house to another, fighting and driving out the enemy, so that the battle of Monterey was largely fought indoors. In one of the battles of the wars of William the Silent for the independence of the Netherlands the Spanish ships were frozen in on the Zuyder Zee. The Dutch came out on horseback over the ice and attacked them. This is probably the only battle in which cavalry was ever used directly against ships. Several other combats were fought between troops on the ice in these wars and on one occasion the infantry is said to have worn skates. The battle of Austerlitz was partly fought on a frozen lake, and when the allies were retreating across it the shot from the French artillery, plunging into the Ice and breaking it up, caused the death of thousands of Russians and Austrians, Of the many underground battles which have taken place in history the flercest was probably that of the siege of Haarlem In the Dutch wars. The Spanlards mined nd free from objections of all kinds. With and the Dutch countermined with equal industry, and below the ground a flerce conflict raged. When the Verseilles troops took Paris after the commune they chased some of the communist troops to the great sewers of the French capital, where some desperate struggles took place.-Washington

The parents of the five boys who have been kept at the defunct Ebenezer "home" have been located and it is thought arrangements will be made for the return of their inmates. Three of the boys are sons of a Mrs. Curtis of Twenty-third and Cuming streets. Another of the boys came from Council Bluffs, where his sister, Mrs. Hogan, lives. The fifth boy is the son of Mrs. Bell, the blind "instructor" of the Ebenezer place, which has been closed by order of Chief of Police spectors, consisting of John L. Lynch, Dan P. Clifton and James Cameron, submitted to the Board of County Commissioners, was a revelation in its way and showed a state of affairs at the county hospital fully in keeping with the deplorable condition of things that has come to light in other departments. The inspectors pronounce the plumbing of the whole institution in a most unsanitary condition and, judging from the particulars they go into and the recommendations made with regard to the same their general characterization is mild in the extreme.

The recommendations for changes cover at least half a dozen closely typewritten sheets, and at the conclusion they say 'The plumbing will then be in as fair a condition as can be possible without re newing the whole system."

The waste pipes, through which all the filth of the institution goes, have direct connection into the sewer of the building and, the inspectors say, ought to be taken out entirely and a new system of pipes with proper traps and vents be put in their

County Treasurer Fink asked for 125 square feet more of floor space in his office, on account of a necessary increase of help. Several minor bills were ordered paid under a suspension of rules. Among them was one for ireight on stone being shipped for use in the building of the East Omaha dike. Mr. Kennard suggested that it might be a good idea not to have any more stone shipped to be dumped beside the road until it was found whether it could finally be got to the place where it is needed. Mr. Connolly announced that the shipment of material has already been stopped. J. E. Somers was appointed chief of staff of the county hospital, with orders to make a report to the board as to existing conditions there.
