There is a building boom in the southeastern portion of the city. Within the last two weeks several dozen lots have been sold to those who intend to erect dwellings. At the present time the city charter allows only a certain sum to be expended each year for street lights. The next legislature will be asked to make a number of changes in the charter, especially in regard to extensions of street lighting lines and water mains. Such a change is deemed necessary on account of the rapid growth of the city.

Feeder Output.

There is considerable doing in the feeder week 5,125 head of stocker and feeder cattie were shipped to feed lots adjacent to this market. Naturally the majority of shipments went to the feed lots in Nebraska and Iowa.

This is easily accomplished. The voter appears at the place of last registration and affirms that he is now residing in another ward and precinct and a transfer is issued.

In case of newcomers it will be necessary to register. Arrangements are now being made by the city officials for the places where the registration booths will be opened on April 2. The list of registrars, as well as the members of the Board of Registration, will be issued by the city clerk, so as to appear in the press on Friday of this week.

MIDDLETON, O., Feb., 3, 1904.—To the Editor of New York Life: Apropos of the death of William C. Whitney in the hands of the surgeons, I want to say that of all the wit and scathing sarcasm you have employed in your valuable journal on the tragic subject of appendicitis, you have not said half enough against the cutting craze. In the hands of good physicians (or even conservative old grandmothers with their liberal doses of oil and patient perseverance in poulticing), operations for appendicitis are unnecessary. It might be well to suggest, however, that wealthy men present the surgeons with a liberal check at orce, with a request to be excused from the operation. Sincerely yours,
