for New City Council. HOCTOR SAYS HE WILL ASK A RECOUNT

Records of Stock Yards Show Heavy Increase of Receipts as Compared with the Same Time Last Year.

The new city council, which was organized on Tuesday, will have plenty of work to look after in the matter of improvements this summer. One of the questions of immediate importance will be the issuing and sale of bonds for the paving, grading and curbing of South Twenty-fourth street and Ballroad avenue Dan Hannen has want to start until the bonds are sold, as he fears eastern bond attorneys may pick flaws in the section of the city charter which permits the improvements contem plated without a petition signed by two-thirds of the altutting property owners. Then there is the opening of N street. This is such an old story that newspaper readers brigh when the proposition is mentioned. Be that as it may the city council has condemned certain property and ordinances have been passed by the council and signed by the mayor creating an improvement district and establishing the grade. For the property that was condemned the appraisers allowed mee, and this money has been paid into the court. The next thing to do will be advertising for hide for the work.

Another matter of great importance to pairing of Twenty-fourth street from A to This payement is in had condition. It full of holes and in many places the hase has been almost entirely worn away. Improvements made every year on this street cost about $2.000, but still the pavement will not wear any length of time, even after being repaired. A new pavement is being talked of, but property ownere do not like the idea of signing a petition for a new payement. The city counoff will be expected to find some way to keep the street in a passable condition without making a direct tax on the abotting property owners

Hector Will Contest. Thomas Hoctor, democratic candidate for mayor at the recent election, stated last night that he was having papers prepared fer a recount of the votes. "I have consulted with my attorneys," said Mr. Hoctor, "and we have decided to ask the county court to count the ballots. In our netition we will not allege fraud on the part of the republicans. My contention will be that in calling off the votes an error may have been made by crediting votes to Mouraky which should have gone to me. I will ask for a counting of the ballots in all of the twelve precincts in the city." In openiusion Mr. Hoctor said that he expected the papers would be filed with the Boston Store. Announcements of the Theaters. On Sunday evening the Rogers brothers will open a short engagement at the Boyd theater presenting their latest skit by John J. McNally, "The Rogers Brothers in London." The music is by Max Hoffman and Melville Ellis, and the lyrics by George V. Hobart and Ed Gardenier. In the company besides the Rogers brothers are such clever people as Joseph Coyne, Lee Harrison. Lillian Coleman, Carrie Reynolds and George Austin Moore. This is one of the biggest musical comedy companies ever sent out from New York, and presents an evening of music and fun such as no other company offers. The engagement is for Sunday and Monday nights only.

Beginning Tuesday evening and for the balance of the week the Rose Cecella Shay Grand Opera company will be the offering at the Boyd in a repertoire of grand operas.

There remains but three more performances of this week's bill at the Orpheum, tonight and Saturday matinee and night. Hal Davis, Inez McCauley and company in their sketch, "Pals," have given Orpheumites a little sensation that has proven a strong drawing card. "When I made that closing order," said the mayor, "I meant every word of it and it is going to be enforced or every man that disregards it is going to be prosecuted. But, in my opinion, this complaint, together with others that have emanated from the same source, is made largely, if not altogether, to embarrass the administration, and not because the saloen keepers Thomas Myler, the socialist candidate or mayor, received $22 votes at the last are disregarding the law or selling any liquor after 12 o'clock.

So great was the trouble between Mar-Payne and Della Myers, both colored residents of the "burnt district," that even the sight of four imposing policemen, representing the mighty dignity of the law, and the fact of them being at the police station, under arrest, did not deter them from finishing the fight they had previously been arrested for. Amid much protest from the other, each told a differen and interesting story of the fray. Della Myers said that the Payne woman had entered her home professing friendship. and, in fact, offered the "glad mit." which was grasped instanter.
