

ACCUSED OF GRAND LARCENY

Ella Hurst Charged with Graver Offense for Multiplicity of Thefts.

NOW SERVING THIRD TERM IN JAIL

Kelly, Her Alleged Lover, Shows Up in Country, but Skips Out Before Officers Get Him.

Ella Hurst, the kleptomaniac domestic who is accused of pilfering articles from about a dozen prominent Omaha homes...

The charge was filed in police court by Ernest W. Arthur, 914 South Thirty-third street. The information charges the Hurst woman with the theft of an overcoat, one blue serge suit, pair of trousers, one dark suit, two watches, one Masonic ring, two silk quilts, one cake baker, several hand-painted cups and saucers, one alarm clock, two night gowns, twenty-four handkerchiefs, one matchbox and some groceries...

Kelly still at large. "Jack Kelly," whose name appeared on the three trunks, one box, barrel and suit case of plunder, stored at the Bushman storage house March 25, apparently left the city three days after the arrest of Ella Hurst on March 15. The Hurst woman said Kelly was her second husband and had been living with her at 207 North Twenty-first street.

Of great assistance to the detectives has been little 10-year-old Russell Hester, who lives with his grandparents at the above number and from whom the Hurst woman and her husband rented rooms. He remembered the expressman who hauled the plunder away from the Hurst rooms and went over town with a detective until he picked over the man who had been engaged by "Jack Kelly" to transport the goods to the storage house.

OMAHA VIEWERS ARE HOPEFUL

Street Railway Magnates Finally Promise Eventual Extension of Harney Line.

One new member was added to the Omaha View Improvement club last evening and others are coming, and Omaha View matters are assuming a very encouraging shape. Chairman Yost of the special street car committee reported that while the prospect for the thirty-third street extension of that line to Maple street might not be realized this year, assurances were given the committee by the street railway management that the extension had been decided upon and may follow next year at all events.

The park and boulevard matter was briefly discussed and the secretary was instructed to invite members of the park board to meet with the club at its next meeting.

The committee having charge of the subscription lists for stock in the new club building reported that the lists are coming along at an encouraging rate. Several signatures were obtained at the meeting last night and it was decided that all the lists should be turned in next Friday evening in order that the club might know just where it was at on the club house matter.

After discussing some street crossing and sidewalk matters and the necessity for some street crossings at Thirty-second and Grand and Ohio, Thirty-third and Corby, the club adjourned.

RECEPTION TO MR. DAVIDSON

New Superintendent Given a Cordial Welcome by Omaha People Last Night.

Superintendent W. M. Davidson is well pleased with Omaha. That was easily seen last evening during the hours he shook the hand of Omaha, the hundreds of his formal welcome to the city of his new school domain. And if anything could be taken from the chatter of the guests, from the words of mothers and fathers, of prominent men of the business world, and the teachers themselves, Omaha was well pleased with its first presentation to Superintendent Davidson. And as these two things were the purpose of the reception, nothing more could be wished and satisfaction sat at the back of the expression of all concerned.

The hours of the reception were from 8 until 10 o'clock and the two elevators were busy even before the first hour. Twelve hundred invitations had been issued and a very large part of those asked came. The narrow gallery about the stage room was so thronged with people that the door to the assembly room, where the newcomers were being received. Inside Principal Waterhouse of the high school was set up as a man having wide acquaintance among the people. He introduced them to President J. W. Maynard of the Board of Education, who was charged with the duty of pronouncing each name clearly.

CONTRACTOR THINKS HE CAN HAVE THE NEW STRUCTURE READY FOR OCCUPANCY BY FIRST OF OCTOBER

Dens of bricklayers and carpenters are working on the new high school building. Lines for the west wall were laid yesterday by the city engineer and before night the walls were up to the height of four feet. On some portions of the building the structure is up to the first floor and carpenters are setting mill preparatory to the laying of temporary floors. A number of the iron girders have been placed in position. Some of the members of the Board of Education looked over the building yesterday and expressed themselves as being well pleased with the progress being made.

MICHAELSON GETS BAD SCORE

City Electrician Draws Number for Dog Tag Which Gives Him a Chill.

City Electrician Michaelson, who proposes to cut the wires of the electric light company that illuminate the downtown district Monday if his orders to put in lamp posts are not obeyed, had a peculiar experience yesterday. It rained the hair on his head for an instant and made him wonder whether or not a hoodoo had fastened upon him.

"Great heavens!" he gasped. "This thing is numbered 1,377." "What's wrong with that?" asked Elsbury. "It's like good luck," said Michaelson, although I never could figure out successful combinations. "Good luck!" cried the electrician, "why, that's the number of the 'trouble' telephone of the Omaha Electric Light and Power company. What does it mean?"

GAFFAIRS AT SOUTH OMAHA

Work on the High School Building Gets Under Way.

EFFORT WILL BE MADE TO FINISH ON TIME

Contractor Thinks He Can Have the New Structure Ready for Occupancy by First of October.

Dens of bricklayers and carpenters are working on the new high school building. Lines for the west wall were laid yesterday by the city engineer and before night the walls were up to the height of four feet. On some portions of the building the structure is up to the first floor and carpenters are setting mill preparatory to the laying of temporary floors. A number of the iron girders have been placed in position. Some of the members of the Board of Education looked over the building yesterday and expressed themselves as being well pleased with the progress being made.

HEROIC EFFORTS TO DRIVE LAW AND JUSTICE TOGETHER, BUT THE TEAM BALKED.

When Bill Nye first left home for the west, bidding his parents a kind, even affectionate farewell, he was telling them "never to remember the good example he had set them since the hour of his birth." It was with the expectation of practicing law rather than of embarking in the newspaper business. He had been admitted to the bar, "under cover of darkness." Some changes have been made in the brick facings, pressed brick being substituted for ordinary building brick on the west.

Contractor Bock said last night that he is doing all that he possibly could to rush the work in order that the building might be completed by October 1. The foundations were laid late last fall and have had time to settle, so there is no hesitation now about going ahead with the walls and the carpenter work. With all the work that is to be done, there is some doubt about the date of the building being completed by the date of the contract call for. Even should the building be done, those interested in the construction say that some time should be given for the plastering to dry thoroughly and have steam up and the boilers tested before a move from the present building is made. The high school classes will be organized in the fall in the present building and the chances are that there will be no move into the new building until some time in December.

HOSPITAL BASAR ATTRACTS MANY.

There was a good attendance at the basar being given by the association at Workmen temple last night. The program as printed in last evening's Bee was carried out and some new features were added. Members of the association have worked hard for the purpose of making the basar a success and it is hoped that the results will show a profit to the association. Tonight the basar ends with a dance and a number of new attractions.

SOLD LIQUOR TO MINORS.

In police court yesterday Judge King fined John Barnes, a bartender at a saloon at Twenty-ninth and L streets, $25 and costs for selling liquor to minors. The police board has issued orders to patrolmen that this practice of selling beer or other liquors to minors must be stopped. Judge King is working in accord with the board in this matter and has charged the dog owner to fine every person found guilty. Chief Briggs is on the alert, and he proposes to see that the orders of the board are obeyed to the letter. "Can rushing" by children is what the board proposes to stop.

PILING EXPENSE ACCOUNTS.

Yesterday was the last day for candidates on the city ticket to file an account of their expenditures. The accounts filed with the city clerk show that the candidates were all within the limit. The figures give $100 as the amount that sum the expenditures were all the way down to $5 for cards. The expense accounts filed included the cost at the primaries and also for the election.

CAVALRY TROOP DANCE.

Last night the South Omaha cavalry troop gave its regular annual ball at the Exchange building. In honor of the occasion the dining hall, where the dance was held, was handsomely decorated with flags, bunting, etc. There was a large attendance, many coming from Omaha. As usual with the cavalry, the men in uniform appeared in uniform. Quite a number of the military men invited appeared in uniform. The ball was both a social and financial success.

MOVING CITY TOOL HOUSE.

On account of the progress in the construction of the city hall building it will be compelled to move, its tool house, which has stood for years at Twenty-sixth and O streets. For some time past the city engineer has been casting about for a suitable location. Yesterday it was decided by the mayor and engineer that the vacant ground just north of the city hall building be rented from B. E. Wilcox. This was done and the street department commenced at once to grade and prepare the site for the tool house. This ground is rented from month to month at a nominal rental and it is expected that the building can be moved for about $30. On the new site the city will have more room than it had at the old place.

MANY GIVE SURETY BONDS.

The date for advertising saloon licenses for the license year commencing May 1 and ending twelve months hence, practically closed last night. The usual number of saloons, ninety, have advertised in the Bee, as has been the custom for some years past. One feature about the license business is the filing with the police commissioners of a surety bond by many of the liquor dealers. This is being done in preference to filing the personal bonds usually filed.

CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION NOTES.

The committee of management of the Young Men's Christian association has called upon all members to attend a meeting of the association Monday evening at the rooms for the purpose of organizing the style of organization. The plan proposed will be to adopt an entirely new constitution, elect a board of trustees of fifteen men and incorporate the society. Every member should show his interest and approval by being out Monday evening. Attorney A. C. Pancoast will lead the discussion Sunday afternoon on the subject, "Why is There a Penalty for Violation of Law?"

MAGIC CITY GOSSIP.

The German Friedens will hold services on Sunday evening at the usual place. Joseph I. Rader, Twenty-second and Jackson streets, reports the birth of a daughter. Edward Pollard, manager for Cudahy at Fairbury, is in the city or a few days. A Delaney Twenty-fourth and J streets, is here from Fairbury, where he spent three days hunting snipe. Stephen Vail has returned from a business trip to Chicago. He says that very thing appears to be quiet in labor circles.

SLIGHT CASE OF SMALLPOX

First in Omaha Since September and It is Not Regarded as All Serious.

Everett E. Moores, a clerk in the B. & M. railroad office, who not long since came to this city from Alliance, Mo., and who for about a month has occupied a room in the third story of the flats at 408 South Twenty-fifth street, was taken ill Monday with what the doctors say is a slight case of smallpox. He was diagnosed as a mild case of smallpox. Moores was not confined to his bed at all, but kept closely to his room, and the matter was reported to the Board of Health by Dr. J. H. Peabody.

We will begin work Tuesday evening on the 'Hymn of Praise,' which is to be the heavy piece of the festival." Mr. Stanley had about seventy pounds of music of the Mendelssohn piece which has arrived for the chorus. Notices of the first meeting have been sent out.

HARRIMAN LINE BALKS SANTA FE

Southern Pacific Buys Road Which Would Give Rival Entrance to Port.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 16.—The Chronicle says: It is now well established that the Southern Pacific company made a purchase two or three months ago of the North shore route from San Francisco to Casadero. The principal object of the big corporation in absorbing this isolated narrow gauge line is said to have been to secure the water front at Sausalito and head off the Santa Fe from a possible rival terminal for its contemplated new line down from Eureka to San Francisco. The route is said to be a valuable property it is conservatively valued at $400,000 in view of its prospective terminal value may have. It is also understood that the Southern Pacific has acquired, or will soon acquire, the California Northwestern, running from Tiburon to Ukiah, a broad gauge line of considerable more importance than the North Shore. By taking over the California Northwestern the Southern Pacific would again be anticipating the Santa Fe and keeping it out of a possible purchase of a convenient bay terminal for its Eureka line.

HIT BY A CAR.

Edward Kelley, 2102 Cuming street, collided yesterday afternoon with a car about the intersection of Cuming and Jackson streets. Kelley struck on the pavement and was badly injured. The car was driven by a man whose name is not known. Kelley was taken to the hospital and his injuries attended by Dr. Charles Cunningham, motorman, and W. Crosby, conductor, who is in charge of the car.
