the heavy projectiles of the enemy's TRAVELING MEN ARE COMING City, in order named. In high school con armored ships.

I watched the Petropavlovsk closely as steamed toward Electric cliff. The frowning marine monster, whose guns were ever turning towards the enemy, was prepared to send huge messengers of death against him.

Three Explosions.

All was quiet. It was the hush before a battle, a hush when every nerve is strained to get into impending danger. I looked for the Japanese ships, but they were without movement, save that caused by the heaving sea. My glance returned to our squadron. The Petropavlovsk was almost without headway when suddenly I saw it tremble. It seemed to rise out of the water, a tremendous explosion rent the air, then a second and a third. Fragments flew in all directions and wreckage and men were mixed up in a terrible mass I was hardly able to realize the horror of it when the ship began to list. In a moment the sea seemed to open and the water rushed over it. The Petropavlovsk had disappeared. The floating woodwork and the few men struggling in the water were all that was left to recall the splendid fighting machine. The same shock experienced by the observers on Golden Hill paralyzed for a moment the men on the ships, but when it passed torpedo boats and small boats hastened to the rescue of the survivors.

Eager to accertain what had occurred on board the sunken ship, I hastened to a landing where a small remnant of the gallant crew were being put ashore and conveyed to a hospital.

Signal Man Tells Story.

Signalman Pochkoff, who was slightly wounded, was able to give me a remarkably clear statement of the diseaster. He said:

"We were returning to the harbor, the Petropovlovsk leading. Some of our cruisers which had remained in the harbor came out and steamed toward the enemy. firing sixteen shots at him with their bow guns; then then retired. The enemy numbered fourteen heavy ships, nearly all armored, while our were nine. Against their armored cruisers we had only the Rayan. I stood in the wheelhouse on the bridge of the Petronavlovsk looking up the signal book. The admiral's last signal had been for the torpedo boats to enter the barbor.

"The Petropavlovsk slowed speed and almost stood still. Suddenly the ship shook violently. I heard a fearful explosion, iramediately followed by another and then another. They seemed to me to be directly under the bridge. I rushed to the door of the wheel house and I met an officer. I could not pass him and I sprang to the window and jumped out. The ship was dent Albert B. Storms of the Iowa State listing and I feared that every moment it would turn over. On the bridge I saw an officer weltering in blood-it was our ad- to be graduated and the exercises will conmiral-Makaroff. He lay face downward. I sprang to him, grasped him by the shoulder and attempted to raise him.

"The ship seemed to be falling somewhere From all sides flew fragments. I heard the deafening screech and a frightful din. Smoke rose in dense clouds and the flames seemed to leap toward the bridge where I was standing beside the admiral.

"I jumped on the rall and was washed out, but succeeded in grabbing something. "On our ship was an old man with a beautiful white beard who had been good to our men. He had a book in his hand and seemed to be writing, perhaps sketching." He was Verestchagin, the painter."

Farewell to Rev. Wharton,

Lincoln, regardless of political affiliation of church creed, did honor to Rev. Fletcher L. Wharton last night at the Lindell hotel, manding rest. It is with much regret the occasion being a farewell banquet given in his honor before he leaves for Seattle that the members of his church see him to become pastor of a church there. Among the speakers who paid tribute to Dr. Wharton's worth and who marked his departure as a loss to Lincoln, were Rev. J. Lewis Marsh, Dr. F. S. Stein, W. J. Bryan, J. W. Johnson, C. H. Morrill, H. M. Bushnell, C. H. Gere, General Thayer, ex-Mayor Weir and others. Letters expressing regret at not being present were read from Covernor Mickey and Chancellor Andrews of the university. Preceding the banquet the various Grand Army of the Republic posts of the city met and adopted resolutions commendatory to Dr. Wharton.

Tom Carr, many times arrested but through some means always able to secure his release heretofore, last night became a convict and began to serve out his six-year sentence, which was meted out to him by the courts of Dixon county on a charge of burgiary. Carr is a Lincoln product and in years is still a boy, though his disagreements with the law run back for a number of years. He begged the sheriff from Dixca county not to take him through the main streets of his old town in going to the penitentiary, Hollys Win Initial Game.

In the initial game of the season the Hollys defeated the Nationals by the over-whelming score of 17 to 6. The miserable condition of the grounds made perfect in-field work impossible, consequently errors work impossible, consequently errors numerous on both sides, but the out-catches of Goddard, Diamond and ahue were of the circus variety. Mul-catch of Young's drive, and Dona-s assist to first were features. Score:

Earned runs: Hollys, 8. Two-base hits Foley, Donahue, Gibson, Clair, Smith

MEMORY MAKER

With Certain Elements Re-Food quired in the Brain

Poor memory means an ill nourished brain. The proper food to help and nourish the brain will thus help the memory as in the following case:

real good health, not having seen a well day in over 20 years and taking medicine most of the time until about a year ego.

"At that time I was suffering greatly from nervous prostration and general debility, the result of several severe illnesses from which I never expected to fully recover.

"My memory was also so poor that it caused me much chagrin at times. "I had often heard how Grape-Nuts had helped other people's memory and that it was a brain food. Finally I was put on Grape-Nuts for my meals.

"It was so pleasing to the taste I en joyed eating it and after a time I saw such an improvement in my health generally that I gave up medicine altogether Am not even using laxatives now that I had been unable to do without for years. Grape-Nuts helped my nerves, gave me strength, increased my weight ten pounds and I can now work and walk better and enjoy life as I never expected to again. "When my friends remarked how well I look and act I tell them it is all due to
