

THREE STRAIGHT FOR PAPA

All Omaha-St. Joe Games Are Taken by Bourke's Rangers.

ROOT PROVES HIMSELF A HURRICANE

Young Star Artist from Bush League Knocks Out Several St. Joes and Still Pitches Winning Ball.

After the players in the Omaha-St. Joe game on the Vinton street grounds got the ice cracked off the backs of their hands yesterday afternoon they put up a pretty fair quality of ball. Bourke's men let the visitors have fun for a while then they loosened up and made three straight from the down country players.

Pitcher Root made his bow in the box for the home team, and if he learns to control the ball before he kills anybody or commits any other capital offense with it, he will make the noblest Roman of them all. He has speed that is a revelation and curves that are destined to make the best of batsmen look half a dozen ways for Sunday. But yesterday he was wilder than the proverbial hawk and tried to kill off the entire St. Joe team. He cracked McBride in the back and made him limp to first; he smashed Slater, and he walked Heiden to the head and laid him out stiff, and he punched Lesotte in the rib in a way that made him groan aloud.

Table with columns: AB, R, IB, PO, A, E. Rows for various players like Carter, Miller, Welch, etc.

Table with columns: AB, R, IB, PO, A, E. Rows for various players like Helden, McBride, Hartman, etc.

Table with columns: AB, R, IB, PO, A, E. Rows for various players like Donahue, Hamilton, Beckler, etc.

Table with columns: AB, R, IB, PO, A, E. Rows for various players like Donahue, Hamilton, Beckler, etc.

Table with columns: AB, R, IB, PO, A, E. Rows for various players like Donahue, Hamilton, Beckler, etc.

Table with columns: AB, R, IB, PO, A, E. Rows for various players like Donahue, Hamilton, Beckler, etc.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—New York and Philadelphia played fifteen innings today without result and the game was finally called because of the cold weather. The contest was a masterly exhibition of pitching on the part of McGinnity and McPherson, but they are not entitled to all the credit. Splendid fielding when men were on base assisted in preventing scoring. It looked like a close victory for the locals until the ninth inning when a ball on balls and a hit allowed New York to tie the score. Attendance, 1,000. Score:

Table with columns: R, H, O, A, E. Rows for Philadelphia and New York.

NEW YORK, April 19.—At Washington park today Brooklyn scored a second victory over the visitors apparently had a winning lead. Attendance, 1,000. Score:

Table with columns: R, H, O, A, E. Rows for Brooklyn and Philadelphia.

CINCINNATI, April 19.—The dirtiest bombardment given to any pitcher in the National league this season was suffered by Philipps and Moran today. Philipps retired in the fourth inning after eight runs and six hits had been made off his delivery. Moran, who succeeded him, could not stop the Cincinnati. Attendance, 1,500. Score:

Table with columns: R, H, O, A, E. Rows for Cincinnati and Pittsburgh.

ST. LOUIS, April 19.—By timely hitting the St. Louis Americans defeated Cleveland by a score of 4 to 2. Cleveland found Sievers for ten hits, but was unable to bat safely at critical times. Attendance, 300. Score:

Table with columns: R, H, O, A, E. Rows for St. Louis and Cleveland.

CHICAGO, April 19.—With the temperature hovering around the freezing point, Detroit won today's game by bunting their hits with Chicago's errors. O'Leary's fielding was the only bright spot of the game. Attendance, 1,000. Score:

Table with columns: R, H, O, A, E. Rows for Detroit and Chicago.

Table with columns: R, H, O, A, E. Rows for Detroit and Chicago.

Table with columns: R, H, O, A, E. Rows for Detroit and Chicago.

DETROIT, April 19.—(Special.)—The locals played one of the fastest games ever witnessed here with the Lincoln Originals. Score:

ONE DOLLAR AND FIVE CENTS

Former City Comptroller Awarded Damages from Bee Publishing Company.

JUDGMENT LEAVES HIM TO PAY COSTS

Sues for Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars for Alleged Defamation of Character—Gurley and Shields Volunteer as Attorneys.

The jury in the case of John N. Westberg against The Bee Publishing Company, Edward Rosewater and Victor Rosewater, rendered their verdict to recover the sum of $25,000 for libel, returned a verdict at 9:30 Tuesday morning, finding for the plaintiff in the sum of $106.

The publication on which this action was based was printed in The Bee during the spring campaign of 1903 and in connection with Mr. Westberg's candidacy for re-nomination, exposing his personal habits. The case was given to the jury at a late hour Monday afternoon, after being argued by the counsel of both sides. On the first ballot of the jury the vote is understood to have stood six to six in favor of either party, gradually coming to a conclusion stated, at an early hour Tuesday morning.

Under the law the verdict for the plaintiff in a cause must be not less than $100 in order to put the costs upon the defendant. Considerable curiosity was manifested by persons interested in the case as to how the jury arrived at the sum of $106. Attorneys Gurley and Shields, who volunteered to represent Westberg, had no remarks to make after the verdict.

The testimony in the case brought out some interesting information with reference to Mr. Westberg's character and habits. He called to support his demand for reparation of damages a number of former city officials and old cronies to testify to his good character, but every one of them, on cross-examination, made admissions that gave the plaintiff's case away.

Noting When Drinking. Senator Charles L. Saunders, for example, who was formerly deputy city treasurer, testified that he sometimes met Westberg in saloons and that when drinking he got noisy and excited. Saunders had drunk with Westberg chiefly in Goody Brucker's saloon, which he did not consider a high-class saloon. Westberg was always drinking whenever he met him in saloons.

John Grant, who did business with him as city contractor, testified that while Westberg was never to his knowledge sufficiently intoxicated to interfere with or interfere with the transaction of business he had seen him take two or three drinks on occasions, Westberg's preference when drinking with him being high-balls.

"Will you tell the jury what a high-ball is?" answered Goody Brucker. "A high-ball," answered Mr. Grant, "is just a little whiskey of any kind and ice and seltzer in it. A very palatable drink. Once in a while I would meet him and he would say, 'Let us go and take a drink.' I remember going to Goody Brucker's and he treated twice and I treated once. I thought he was pretty generous, but we were sober."

A. C. Powers, another contractor's agent, after testifying that Westberg's character was good, admitted he had seen him drink some and that he would class him "with the drinking men." And similar testimony was given by Westberg's successor, Comptroller Loebck.

The most pointed evidence came from John H. Butler, another of Westberg's witnesses, who admitted that Westberg drank nearly every day during the daytime and during business hours. Here are some of the questions and answers: Q.—Do you know a saloon within a radius of seven blocks to the east and four blocks to the south and north that Westberg has not patronized during the past three years prior to the bringing of this suit? A.—He might have known John was a little particular about what he drank.

Q.—What did he seem to prefer? A.—He seemed to prefer the very best kind of whiskey that could be got over the bar. Q.—Good old Kentucky Bourbon? A.—Sometimes, yes. Q.—Did he sort of vibrate between that and Krug's, or Metz and Lentz? A.—No, I never saw John drink beer a very great deal. Q.—Did he indulge in high-balls? A.—Once in awhile. Yes. Q.—Was high-balls a sort of a favorite regular drink with him? A.—I can't say. It is only my impression that John liked it straight better than mixed.

Admits Being Drunk. The witnesses for the defense went into great detail as to the instance when Westberg was drunk, noisy and boisterous. Westberg himself, called in rebuttal, declared that he had been positively drunk only three times in his recollection and that that was during campaigns. Westberg's big Dane dog "Glory," figured in almost all the testimony. Witnesses declaring that the dog was always sober, although they were not sure that he was owner was. One of the jurors, explaining to the jury that he had no objection to the dollar in the verdict, said that the 5 cents was to buy meat for the dog.

ONE DOLLAR AND FIVE CENTS

Former City Comptroller Awarded Damages from Bee Publishing Company.

JUDGMENT LEAVES HIM TO PAY COSTS

Sues for Twenty-Five Thousand Dollars for Alleged Defamation of Character—Gurley and Shields Volunteer as Attorneys.

The jury in the case of John N. Westberg against The Bee Publishing Company, Edward Rosewater and Victor Rosewater, rendered their verdict to recover the sum of $25,000 for libel, returned a verdict at 9:30 Tuesday morning, finding for the plaintiff in the sum of $106.

The publication on which this action was based was printed in The Bee during the spring campaign of 1903 and in connection with Mr. Westberg's candidacy for re-nomination, exposing his personal habits. The case was given to the jury at a late hour Monday afternoon, after being argued by the counsel of both sides. On the first ballot of the jury the vote is understood to have stood six to six in favor of either party, gradually coming to a conclusion stated, at an early hour Tuesday morning.

Under the law the verdict for the plaintiff in a cause must be not less than $100 in order to put the costs upon the defendant. Considerable curiosity was manifested by persons interested in the case as to how the jury arrived at the sum of $106. Attorneys Gurley and Shields, who volunteered to represent Westberg, had no remarks to make after the verdict.

The testimony in the case brought out some interesting information with reference to Mr. Westberg's character and habits. He called to support his demand for reparation of damages a number of former city officials and old cronies to testify to his good character, but every one of them, on cross-examination, made admissions that gave the plaintiff's case away.

Noting When Drinking. Senator Charles L. Saunders, for example, who was formerly deputy city treasurer, testified that he sometimes met Westberg in saloons and that when drinking he got noisy and excited. Saunders had drunk with Westberg chiefly in Goody Brucker's saloon, which he did not consider a high-class saloon. Westberg was always drinking whenever he met him in saloons.

John Grant, who did business with him as city contractor, testified that while Westberg was never to his knowledge sufficiently intoxicated to interfere with or interfere with the transaction of business he had seen him take two or three drinks on occasions, Westberg's preference when drinking with him being high-balls.

"Will you tell the jury what a high-ball is?" answered Goody Brucker. "A high-ball," answered Mr. Grant, "is just a little whiskey of any kind and ice and seltzer in it. A very palatable drink. Once in a while I would meet him and he would say, 'Let us go and take a drink.' I remember going to Goody Brucker's and he treated twice and I treated once. I thought he was pretty generous, but we were sober."

A. C. Powers, another contractor's agent, after testifying that Westberg's character was good, admitted he had seen him drink some and that he would class him "with the drinking men." And similar testimony was given by Westberg's successor, Comptroller Loebck.

The most pointed evidence came from John H. Butler, another of Westberg's witnesses, who admitted that Westberg drank nearly every day during the daytime and during business hours. Here are some of the questions and answers: Q.—Do you know a saloon within a radius of seven blocks to the east and four blocks to the south and north that Westberg has not patronized during the past three years prior to the bringing of this suit? A.—He might have known John was a little particular about what he drank.

Q.—What did he seem to prefer? A.—He seemed to prefer the very best kind of whiskey that could be got over the bar. Q.—Good old Kentucky Bourbon? A.—Sometimes, yes. Q.—Did he sort of vibrate between that and Krug's, or Metz and Lentz? A.—No, I never saw John drink beer a very great deal. Q.—Did he indulge in high-balls? A.—Once in awhile. Yes. Q.—Was high-balls a sort of a favorite regular drink with him? A.—I can't say. It is only my impression that John liked it straight better than mixed.

Admits Being Drunk. The witnesses for the defense went into great detail as to the instance when Westberg was drunk, noisy and boisterous. Westberg himself, called in rebuttal, declared that he had been positively drunk only three times in his recollection and that that was during campaigns. Westberg's big Dane dog "Glory," figured in almost all the testimony. Witnesses declaring that the dog was always sober, although they were not sure that he was owner was. One of the jurors, explaining to the jury that he had no objection to the dollar in the verdict, said that the 5 cents was to buy meat for the dog.

$100,000 to be given away

TO SUFFERERS FROM Constipation or Biliousness and by doing this we give them health

In order to prove absolutely that we can cure you of all maladies pertaining to the Liver and Kidneys, such as Dyspepsia, Constipation, Indigestion, Biliousness, Malaria, Nervous and Sick Headaches, Diarrhoea and Dysentery of a bilious type, we will give you an order on your druggist and pay him for a bottle of

DR. CARLSTEDT'S German Liver Powder

Constipation entirely conquered

So mildly natural are the effects of Dr. Carlstedt's German Liver Powders upon the intestines, that Constipation passes quickly before it. The majority of laxatives leave a scalding, burning sense of pain, a condition wholly avoided when our remedy is used. Thus the process of healing immediately begins and the entire actions of the bowels are easy and comfortable. Well-known physicians are recommending this specific in their practice when treating Constipation. The sense of fullness after eating is a direct result of abnormal conditions. Certain dietists go to extremes and advise patients to cut off their allowance of food almost to a point of starvation, as if the functions of the human body could get along without nourishment for a single day! Such strenuous measures are wholly unnecessary, neither does one need to be constantly purging the system with this or that drug put up and sold by unscrupulous dealers.—An occasional use of our Liver Powder makes digestion easy. That sallow look leaves the skin, the extremities become warm, and eating becomes once more a pleasure as well as a necessity. There is no case of Constipation, however chronic, that cannot be wholly eradicated by first going to the root of the trouble. All forms of indigestion are the results of an inactive liver or kidneys. Then follows Constipation and Piles, together with an accumulation of gases in the bowels. General debility at last overtakes the patient, and there is a loss of courage in all he undertakes. Each and everyone of these morbid conditions can be obviated by a moderate use of

Dr. Carlstedt's German Liver Powder

Would you try it? Then make use of coupon herein printed. The exact cure you are looking for is within your reach now! It costs you nothing to try the remedy. It will cost us many thousands of dollars to circulate these free samples, but this is our method of advertising; when once you have used the remedy you will not care to go back to the poisonous drugs and doubtful Constipation cures with which the market is being flooded.

CUT OUT THIS COUPON

Coupon form for Dr. Carlstedt's German Liver Powder with fields for name, address, and city.

For further particulars call upon us and be convinced.

BRANDEIS DRUG DEPT. BRANDEIS

Heer broke the last hundred targets with one miss.

Elba Wins Metropolitan Stakes

LONDON, April 19.—Elba won the great Metropolitan stakes of 1,000 sovereigns at the Epsom spring meeting today. Mark Time was second and Lovat third. Thirteen horses ran.

Blaze at Nebraska City

NEBRASKA CITY, April 19.—(Special.)—Fire late yesterday afternoon broke out in Collins' music store in the center of the business district. The prompt arrival of the department quelled the blaze with slight loss.

Event Viewed by 100,000 Persons Scattered Along the Route

BOSTON, April 19.—Michael Spring of the Pastime Athletic club of New York won the Marathon road race of twenty-five miles today, covering the distance in 2:34:25. It was the second fastest time since the race was inaugurated, and nine minutes behind the record set in 1901 by J. Curran of Hamilton, Ont. T. J. Hicks of Cambridge was second, in time being 2:39:15. E. F. Cook of Boston finished third in 3:11:00.

Lightweight Pugilists at Salt Lake Ordered to Leave Town

SALT LAKE CITY, April 19.—Jack Clifford and Perry Queenan, the lightweight pugilists who have fought here, were today told by Chief of Police Lynch to leave town and were warned not to return. Chief Lynch said today the fight had too much appearance of a pre-arranged affair.

Motor Race at Boston

BOSTON, April 19.—Caldwell of Manchester won a twenty-mile motor-paced race from George Leander of Chicago and William Binson of Cambridge at the Charles River park this afternoon. Leander at the end of twelve miles had a lead of a lap over Caldwell and at the last lap Binson when his tire collapsed and he lost four laps. Caldwell won in 24:54.5.

Kansas Man High Gun

KANSAS CITY, April 19.—W. H. Heer of Kansas won the high target score in the midwinter interstate shoot at Blue River park today, breaking 180 targets. Fred Gilchrist of Chicago was second, with a score of 185, and W. R. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill., third, with a score of 192.

Advertisement for Thro' the Heart of the Rockies, featuring the Rock Island System and scenic views.

Bee Want Ads Produce Results

Advertisement for 'The Cigar You never tire of—5c.' featuring an illustration of a man smoking and the text 'LARGEST SELLER IN THE WORLD. The Band is the Smoker's Protection.'