City Attorney Lambert Tal's About Cla'm Agent Appointment.

BARRETT WILL HOLD ON FOR MONTHS

Suits Pending in District Court Require His Attention and No Change Will Be Made Until They Are Disposed Of,

City Attorney Lambert made the an nouncement yesterday that he would not make any appointment of a city claim agent until during the summer vacation "P. A. Barrett, the present claim agent," said Mr. Lambert, "will be needed in a number of suits against the city which will come up before the usual summer vacation. To make an appointment at this time would be to jeopardize the interests of the city in fighting these cases." About fifteen democrats have filed applications with City Attorney Lambert for this place. The job pays $60 and is considered quite a responsible position. To those who have so far presented applications Mr. Lambert emiles affably and remarks that he will consider the matter

Aside from attending to a number cases now pending against the city, Mr. Lambert is engaged in preparing an ordinance for the issuing of bonds for the grading, paving and curbing of South Twentyfourth street and Railroad avenue. In speaking of this ordinance last night Mr. Lambert said that so many points had to he looked up and the records gone into so thoroughly that it would not be possible council at the meeting to be held on Mon- sell it. day night. At the rate this matter is progressing, it does not look as if the paving of the streets mentioned can be commenced until late in the summer. Following the passage of the ordinance, for which three separate meetings will have to be held, there will be the necessary publication of the ordinance and then the advertising for bids for the bonds. When bids been received histories of the proposed issue will have to be prepared and sent to bond buyers' attorneys in the east. All of this takes time. Dan Hannon, who has the contract for the work, says that he will not make any preparations until he is assured that the bonds will be purchased. The improvements contemplated will cost in the neighborhood of $75,000.

Automobile Speed Ordinance. Councilman Adkins has requested the city attorney to prepare an ordinance regulating limits. So far the city attorney has not had the time to pay any attention to the request. Friends of Adkins are joshing him a great deal about attempting to regulate the speed of automobiles, especially as the pavements are so full of holes that considered almost dangerous to run an automobile even at a snail's pace down Twenty-fourth street. Some day the paveents may be repaired and it is presumed that Adkins had this in mind when he introduced his motion.

No record of such a death can be found on the city's books. Clerk Gillin is in receipt of a request from A. C. Warner, Dixon, Ill., asking that a search of the records be made. Mr. Warner writes that Doyle has into some money lately and consequently his relatives would like to ascertain his whereabouts if alive. Doyle was reported to be in Omaha and South Omaha

Jones Assumes Duties.

J. D. Jones has assumed the duties of his office of city stock examiner and ment inspector. At the council meeting Monday night Mayor Koutsky named Mr. Jones for this position and the appointment was confirmed. The appointment is considered a good one, inasmuch as Mr. Jones is familiar with live stock and the conditions gravalling at the stock yards and packing houses here. This place has been vacant for nearly two years. The place was formerly filled by Clark Howard, who was removed from the city pay roll by the mayor declaring the office

George Weatherford, Tenth and Nicholas streets, has been arraigned in police court on a charge of shooting with intent to kill. preferred by John F. Martin, a neighbor. The prisoner was bound over to the district court on a bond of $500.

At the time of the trial the atmosphere of the court room suggested the hearing of a Kentucky feud case. The testimony was fraught with much interest and so enthus! astic did one of the witnesses become when her husband was on the stand that she was warned that a repetition of the outbreak would mean her ejection from the court

According to the evidence offered, bad blood has existed between the Martins and Weatherfords for over two years, the police having been called on several times recently to pour oil on the troubled waters. The feeling seems to have broken out last Monday evening over some trivial eruption between the children of the Weatherfords and other families. It is said that while Mrs. Martin wa talking to a neighbor in front of the formr's gate about 7 o'clock Monday evening George Weatherford, the prisoner, accosted the Martin woman with a vile oath. Mr. Martin then appeared on the scene and ordered Weatherford away. The defendant s then said to have backed into the street, drawn a revolver and to have said: "I'll kill you."

Bullet Whiznes by Him.

Martin says he then started for his house to get his gun, when a bullet from Weatherford's weapon whizzed past his legs. Martin then came out with his firearms, when a second leaden missile from Weatherford narrowly missed Mrs. Martin's head. Martin testified he then fired a shot at aged and crippled woman, threw her arms around her son's neck, thinking thus to prohim to desist.

A little humor was injected into the proceedings by Mrs. Coleman, a deaf witness. The woman testified she saw and heard the shots fired and added that her neighbors the evil spirit of "Faust." the roles. There Miss Rose Cecilia Shay made a valiant effort last evening to sing the passionate music of the gypsy Azucena. But it was an effort only-she could not sing. From her first appearance it was evident to the sympathetic audience that she was by no its ceremonial sessions at the Masonic hall means in condition to sing. After the first last night and initiated sixty-nine members hoarseness she was able to sing one duet, but with evident effort. It was necessary to omit the dramatic song in which she tells of her awful sorrows and in the dungeon scene of the last act after another painful effort she gave up and the piece was brought to the curtain without the final music and the dramatic climax.

The company is evidently winning good opinions, for a very good audience attended the matines and the night house was larger than the opening evening. The audience which heard "Il Trovatore" was music-loving gathering and thoroughly in sympathy with the singers. These responded in kind and had it not been for the unfortunate condition of Miss Shay the performance would have been very pleasing.

WILL PLANT TREES ANYHOW Prospect Hillers Not to Be Balked Because a Contractor Gives

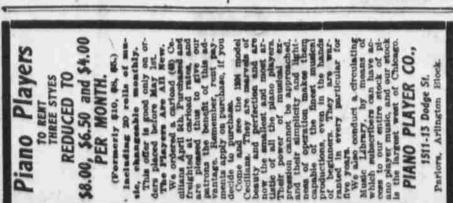

Up Undertaking. Nearly the entire session of the Prospect Hill Improvement club last evening vas devoted to the tree-planting situation. t was announced that the man who made contract with the city to plant trees or Prospect Hill, according to stakes laid out by the city engineer, has refused to fill the contract, and in view of this situation it was the sentiment of the members present that the dilemma should be taken by the horns before the time for tree-planting shall have passed for the season. Accordingly a committee of Members Daley, Hurst and Unitt was appointed to wait on City Engineer Rosewater and the Park board, requesting the former to cancel the contract referred to, and arranging with the latter to plant the trees on Prospect Hill and prorate the expense to the property owners. It was the original intention of the club to have each property owner in the district plant trees on Arbor day, according to individual inclinations, but this resolution was subsequently modified by having an ordinance passed which provided for the placing of stakes by the city engineer, and only one kind of tree planted so as to maintain uniformity. Bids were advertised for and it appears that the contract was let to the only bidder, who now refuses to do the work on the grounds that the
